M'NAMARAS PLEAD GUILTY;

DRAMATIC SCENE IN LOS ANGELES COURT ROOM

UNION LABOR DUMBFOUNDED

UNIONISM NOT EFFECTED, SAYS PRESIDENT GOMPERS

New York, December 1.—"I am astounded, I am astounded. My credulity has been imposed upon. It is a bolt out of a clear sky."

The exclamations were those of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, when advised tonight of the pleas of guilty in the McNamara cases.

Mr. Gompers, on his way from Washington, was dozing in a Pullman car on the Pennsylvania railroad's Congressional Limited, when he was awakened at a New Jersey station by an Associated Press representative. He retired to the rear of the car, where there was a convenient light, and read carefully the accounts of the sensational developments in the Los Angeles dynamiting cases.

The veteran labor leader was visibly affected as he read how the men in whose defense he had spoken and worked so untiringly had admitted their guilt. Tears came into his eyes and the hand that held the typed pages shook. He said nothing, however, until he had finished the story, and then he broke forth with his exclamations of astonishment and indignation.

Credulity Imposed Upon.

"If this is all true, my credulity has been imposed upon," he declared.

"I am astounded at this news. We have had the gravest assurances given to us by every one connected with the trial, either directly or indirectly, that these men were innocent."

Mr. Gompers asserted with the greatest emphasis that not the slightest intimation of any such change in the plans of the defense of the McNamaras as developed today had been communicated to him. Absolutely the first news of the startling developments at the trial had been given him on the train tonight, he said.

Asked if he would have anything to say about the prisoners personally, the labor leader replied:

"No, I shan't add to their misery by condemnation of them."

No Effect on Labor Unions.

"What effect do you imagine this will have on labor unions?" was inquired. To this Mr. Gompers snapped his fingers and ejaculated:

"None."

When the fund raised by the American Federation of Labor for the defense of the McNamaras was mentioned, Mr. Gompers said contributions to date amounted to about $190,000, which had been turned over to the chief attorney for the defense, and the collection was still going on. He added that in view of today's developments the money probably would be refunded.

Bristles at Mention of Burns.

Mr. Gompers bristled up noticeably when shown the statement by William J. Burns at Chicago.

"I don't wish to mention Burns," he said decisively. He denied, however, that he had ever charged Burns with "planting" the dynamite at Los Angeles.

Reverting to the explosion, Mr. Gompers continued:

"We have discourged acts like these. We are patriotic and peace-loving men and we only have a wish to call out the best elements in human nature. Those two men must have been crazy. It is an act that I condemn with all the force that is in me."

James B. Will Probably Receive Life Sentence and John J. Will Be Given 14 Years.

CONFESSION WAS MADE TO ESCAPE THE GALLOWS, ADMIT BROTHERS' LAWYERS

Labor Men Charged With the Dynamiting of The Los Angeles Times Building, In Which 21 Were Killed, and of the Llewellyn Iron Works---Smile in Court.

Los Angeles, Cal., December 1.—James B. McNamara pleaded guilty to murder in the first degree in Judge Walter Bordwell's court today. His brother, John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, entered a plea of guilty to having dynamited the Llewellyn Iron Works in Los Angeles on Christmas day, 1910.

James B. McNamara's confession clears up absolutely the tragedy of the explosion and fire which at 1:07 o'clock on the morning of October 1, 1910, wrecked the plant of The Los Angeles Times at First and Broadway and caused the death of twenty-one persons. For nineteen of these deaths the McNamara brothers were indicted and J. B. McNamara was on trial specifically for the murder of Charles J. Haggarty, a machinist, whose body was found nearer than that of any other to the spot where the dynamite was supposed to have been placed.

To Be Sentenced Tuesday.

Both men's sentences were set for December 5, when it is expected District Attorney John B. Fredericks will ask for life imprisonment for James B. McNamara, the confessed murderer, and probably fourteen years for his brother. The men's lives are considered saved.

The great contention that The Los Angeles Times was not dynamited is dead beyond resurrection or argument.

Tonight as the two brothers sat together in the county jail, refusing to see anyone or make any statement, an interest second only to the occurrence itself hung about the question with reference to James B. McNamara. "Why did he confess?"

Only Way to Escape Gallows.

To this opposing counsel gave the same answer.

"He confessed because he was guilty and that's all there is to it," declared District Attorney Fredericks.

"He was counseled to confess because that was the best thing he could do, in the opinion of counsel," said Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief of counsel. "I will say now that there was no other reason or motive in it. I've studied this case for months. It presented a stone wall."

Darrow's statement was made as looking squarely in the faces of the charges that the recent arrest of Burt H. Franklin, an investigator employed by the defense, and two others with him, might have precipitated a situation untenable save by confession of the prisoners.

"Negotiations have been on for weeks," asserted Darrow, and this was corroborated by District Attorney Frederick. "We expected at one time that Jim would confess last Monday, but he did not," said Darrow.

Darrow also denied that external pressure was exerted from union labor sources and socialist sources, as General Harrison Gray Otis charged tonight in a formal statement or that the municipal election to be held next Tuesday in which Job Harriman, one of the defense's counsel is candidate for mayor, carried any weight. It was learned that Harriman was not consulted at all in the deliberations.

White, gaunt and hoarse, Harriman leaned against the wall of his office and confirmed this.

"The trial has nothing to do with local issues," he said. "A telegram from Darrow to Andrew Gallagher, a San Francisco labor leader, confirmed this declaration.

Tried to Save His Brother.

A brotherly affection bordering on worship, it became known tonight, brought about James B. McNamara's confession. A desire to save his brother from the necessity of confessing

Their confession Friday put quick end to what appeared to be long legal battle.

DETECTIVE BURNS RAPS MEN WHO HAVE CRITICISED HIM

Chicago, December 1.—"I consider the outcome a great personal vindication for me," said William J. Burns here today of the sensational developments in the McNamara case in Los Angeles.

"Especially," he added, "after men occupying such exalted positions as Samuel Gomps and others have repeatedly charged me with 'planting' the dynamite at Los Angeles. Following them, every socialist paper in the country and every labor paper have so often printed stories of 'frame-ups' in the case that some good people were beginning to think that the prosecution was not 'on the square.'"

After Mr. Burns had read reports of the action in court, he said:

"The effect of this will be far-reaching. I think that the outcome of the McNamara case will result in summary action by the body of organized labor by which the radical element will be suppressed. It will result, I believe, in ending such outrages as the one at Los Angeles.

"But the plea of guilty entered by the McNamara brothers today does not close the case, in my opinion. There are others involved and they may be arrested at any time.

"I have absolute information that certain radicals in the labor movement were ready to do anything to save the McNamara brothers. This is what Attorney Darrow was concerned about when he said he 'feared further bloodshed unless we obliterated the incident from Los Angeles at once.'

"I was not surprised particularly when told that the McNamaras had pleaded guilty. We had evidence which positively closed every avenue of escape, and they kne wthis.

"However, if the reports that J. J. McNamara is to get off with a light sentence are true, I shall be greatly disappointed. He deserves heavy punishment if anyone ever did."

TRIUMPH FOR TRUTH AND LAW, DECLARES HARRISON GRAY OTIS

Los Angeles, Cal., December 1.—General Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of The Times, issued a statement tonight, declaring that he had never denied the right of laborers of all classes to organize and act lawfully, and that the more enlightened leaders among socialists and labor unions "found themselves unnerved and unmanned," and for this reason pressure was brought on the accused men to confess.

The statement charges an alliance between socialism and trade unionists, and of the confession it says:

"The result of the confession of the McNamara brothers, in open court, is a great triumph for truth and law. It is proof of what we suspected from the outset—that this unexampled crime was inspired by organized labor, or was done by desperate members of organized labor who knew beforehand that they would have the sympathy of their lawless fellows; their lawless, not their lawful fellows."

JOHN MITCHELL SHOCKED AT M'NAMARA CONFESSION

Roanoke, Va., December 1.—John Mitchell, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and past president of the United Mine Workers of America, was tonight shown the Associated Press dispatches telling of the confession of the McNamara brothers. Mr. Mitchell said he was utterly shocked. "I confidently expected that the McNamaras would be cleared, and that it would be shown by experts that The Times building was blown up by a gas explosion and not by dynamite.

"Having been a miner, I have some knowledge of the use of dynamite. The report of the inspection of the ruined building showed plainly that the basement was not damaged. Knowing that dynamite always blows down, I felt confident that it would not have been used in this case. From the beginning all of the officers and leaders of the federation asked the public to withhold judgment until the McNamaras had been given a trial. This comes as a great shock to me," said Mr. Mitchell.

Mr. Mitchell is here to deliver a lecture tonight, and gave out the interview a few minutes before he entered the hall. He was asked if he would have any comment to make on the McNamara confession in his lecture, and he said positively that he would not. The labor leader would not express himself as to what effect the confession would have on the cause of labor.

LABOR LOATH TO ACCEPT CONFESSION OF M'NAMARAS

The confession of the McNamaras was received with most emphatic incredulity by the half dozen labor leaders still in the city yesterday while the local ranks were even more inclined to doubt if that were possible. At first the assertion that the prisoners had confessed was repudiated as a fake pure and simple, but when the Associated Press brought a complete confirmation it produced a state bordering on consternation among the men who have accepted the declaration of innocence made by the McNamaras when they were arrested and who have by resolution in bodies and individually pledged not only financial support but moral aid in their defense.

Only Few Leaders Here.

But few of the leaders of labor who come to Atlanta two weeks ago to attend the annual session of the American Federation of Labor, remain in the city. Among the number are Frank Ryan, of the Structural Iron Workers, who was with John McNamara in his office in Indianapolis when he was placed under arrest, and James Duncan, first vice president of the American Federation.

Labor's Position Made Clear.

While loath to discuss the confession of the McNamaras, declaring that he had not seen the reports of the confession and preferred to read a full story first and then have it verified, James Duncan, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, last night made clear the position of labor in this matter.

"Organized labor has no desire," he said, "to interfere with the law or to prevent the punishment of a guilty man, and has never tried to do so.

HENRY C. LEONARD TAKES HIS LIFE

Act Was Due to a Temporary Spell of Mental Aberration.

Mr. Leonard Had Been In Bad Health for Some Years, and This Had Caused His Mind to Become Unbalanced. Was Well-Known.

Henry C. Leonard, prominent in the business world, an officer of the First Methodist church for many years and one of the most highly respected citizens of Atlanta, committed suicide by shooting himself at his home, 53 Merritts avenue, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Temporary mental aberration, caused by a long term of ill health and much suffering, is ascribed as the cause of his act by Dr. J. Scott Todd, for many years his physician. About five years ago Mr. Leonard went through a long siege of illness which left effects felt up to the day of his death, and of late he has suffered keenly.

No recent death has caused more wide-spread sorrow in the city than the untimely end of Mr. Leonard yesterday. Having been a citizen of Atlanta from early manhood, he was intimately associated with many affairs, and both in his church and social life numbered his friends by hundreds.

Great Shock to All.

Mr. Leonard's death comes as a great shock to everyone. Although suffering greatly for the past month no one thought his illness had reached such an acute stage as to lead him to take his own life. Yesterday morning nothing strange was noticed in his behavior, and he went about the house as usual.

He was not missed when he went into his bath room and shut the door, and until a few moments later, when the report of a pistol was heard, there was no uneasiness on the part of his family. Mrs. Henry C. Leonard, Jr., his daughter-in-law, was the first to reach him. He was lying on the floor unconscious, and, until he died, half an hour later, was never able to speak.

"No use to investigate; my own act," was the substance of a note he had hastily written and addressed to the coroner, in anticipation of the inquiry which would be necessary after his death. Coroner Donehoo will hold an inquest this morning.

The family yesterday were prostrated by the shock. Both sons of the family, Henry and Louis Leonard, well-known traveling men, were out of the city, and only Mrs. Leonard, her daughter and two daughters-in-law, and a number of small grandchildren, were in the house at the time of the tragedy. The two sons were located last night and will reach the city today.

Mr. Leonard was born in Tolbert county, 63 years ago. He removed to Atlanta when quite a young man, and at once identified himself with the business life of the city. For several years he was credit man of the Frank E. Block Company, and later was appointed local manager of the Bradstreet company. When the well-known firm of Inman, Smith & Company, wholesale dry goods, was organized, he became one of the junior partners. Of late he was connected with the Lumpkin Company, wholesale notions and dry goods.

A Prominent Churchman.

In a business way he was widely known throughout the state, being an authority on credit matters and the wholesale dry goods field. In his private life he was always identified with works of charity and progress. For sixteen years he had been assistant superintendent of the First Methodist Sunday school, besides holding the offices of trustee and steward. He was well-known in a social way.

Surviving him are his wife, two sons, Messrs. Henry and Louis Leonard, and their wives, and one daughter, Mrs. Robert Troy, who lives on Ashby street in West End.

The funeral arrangements will be announced on the arrival of the two sons.

RETURNING TOURISTS WILL BE GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION AT DRIVING CLUB TODAY

After a splendid trip of ten days, during which time they encountered excellent roads and were shown the most lavish hospitality, The Constitution's Around the State Tourists, 100 strong, in thirty-five machines, will check out at the Piedmont Driving Club at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and the tour of 1911, which has been one of exceptional interest, will have passed into history.

Last night the tourists spent at Dublin. They leave that place at 7 o'clock this morning. When the car in the lead reaches Hapeville it will wait until the others catch up. A cavalcade will there be formeed and the whole party will come into the city by way of Whitehall street, past The Constitution office, and out Peachtree street to Piedmont park, where the tour will officially end.

It will be necessary for all cars to go to Piedmont park in order to check out and thereby comply with the last formality of the tour.

An Informal Supper.

At the club the tourists will be the guests of The Constitution at an informal beefsteak supper. They will be welcomed back home by Fred J. Paxon, president; Wilmer L. Moore, president-elect, and the directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Governor John M. Slaton and Mayor Winn, who will be guests of honor.

The tourists were communicated with by long-distance telephone at Dublin last night, and they took a vote on the matter of entertainment. The dinner will be informal, at their request ,as they will be thoroughly tired out from the long ride, and prefer to appear in their travel-stained clothes.

"For heaven's sake make it," came plaintively over the wire from Dublin. "We have had so much ornamental food and have been so gorged with the fat of the land at so many places that we want to get down to plain Atlanta fare once more."

Therefore the beefsteak dinner.

Cup to Be Presented.

Before the tour left the city the Atlanta Ad Men's Club offered a silver cup for the most unlucky entry. Paul Reese, president of the club, communicated with Fred Lewis, of The Constitution, last night at Dublin and requested that a vote of the tourists be taken so that the cup could be presented this afternoon.

Mr. Reese will be on hand at the Piedmont Driving Club and his presentation of the cup will be a feature of interest and amusement.

Right here it is only fair to say that the awarding of this cup is not to be taken as any reflection on the car. Hard luck of the driver will be the thing taken into consideration.

Hour Will Be Late.

Owing to the fact that it will be almost dark before the cars reach the city, there will be no effort made to welcome the tourists with a parade of cars. However, a number of machines will go out to Hapeville and greet the returning tourists.

NOVEMBER BEATS FRIGID RECORDS

Coldest Month in City's History, Says the Weather Man.

This is an obituary on Miss November, daughter of 1911. She was the coldest month in the history of the local weather bureau. She was one of the wettest, the windiest, the cloudiest, the most freakish, and, in the opinions of the coal man and plumber, "she was the dearest."

She opened her visit with a clear, beautiful day. She flitted away on the wings of a crisp, inspirational Thanksgiving, and she's now a memory.

Coldest November on Record.

November was the coldest one Atlanta has experienced since this city has had a means of diagnosing the weather. The average temperature was 4½ degrees below the average November normal. The coldest day was the last, with a minimum temperature of 21. The warmest was the first, with a maximum of 73.

Last month was the wettest November in several years. During her thirty days of existence there fell a rainfall of 3.56. There were thirteen days of rain. There were nineteen cloudy days. Sum up the clear ones yourself. It'll save space.

The heaviest rainfall was .24, which fell Monday, the 27th. The lightest, .01, fell Tuesday, the 9th. The tenths of cloudiness, added up, would total 89, which shows that the fall would have been greater had the floodgates been opened. The supply was there.

The wind during November played peculiar pranks. Its total movement was 10,026 miles. Its average velocity was 13.9 miles an hour. Its maximum velocity, lasting for five minutes at the time, was 46 miles an hour. This was noted Friday, the 24th. The prevailing direction of the wind was from the west, and it varied but little from that course.

November was a rather freakish month. There were six thunderstorms, three light frosts, thirteen killing frosts, four fogs, two solars, and two lunars. The highest atmospheric pressure was 30.57, on the 3rd, and the lowest varied but little from that condition, being 29.80 on the 28th.

Plumber and Coal Man Happy.

Oh, yes! The plumber and the coal man! Sure, they are both rivals for the hand of Miss November. "She's

Cannon Had Rained Shells Upon City For Days.

Nanking, December 2.—Nanking has fallen. The entire city is occupied by the insurgents.

Shanghai, December 2.—While Nanking early this morning still remains in the possession of the imperial forces under command of Lieutenant-General Feng Kwo-Chang, the revolutionists are bombarding the city and knocking at its four gates, demanding admission. It is believed much damage to the city has resulted. Large forces of rebel infantry are ready to rush into the city if the guns make breaches in the walls.

Late Friday afternoon a delegation came outside the city and firing ceased. It is reported they carried a proposition to surrender, the necessity for which is now believed to be inevitable.

General Feng, notwithstanding the willingness of the viceroy, Chang Jen Chun, and the tartar general to capitulate, holds out against such action and practically has made prisoners of them and established a complete military dictatorship.

For the last two weeks General Feng has defied all efforts of the revolutionaries to take the city. The circumference of the walled city is 22 miles. The wall at various places is 90 feet high, built of solid masonry and 30 feet thick. The four main gates are at the principal points of the compass.

General Feng, inside the city, commands 4,000 trained and loyal Shantung troops, and some 2,000 old-style imperial troops. The revolutionaries have 10,000 troops of all sorts, and field and mountain guns.

Last Wednesday a premature attack on two gates resulted in the revolutionaries securing a temporary foothold, but later were repulsed. The Associated Press is informed the gates were opened as a result of treachery within the city.

M. R. Jones.

Quitman, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—M. R. Jones, 56 years, died Wednesday about 9:30 a. m. as the result of a sudden attack of heart failure. A physician was immediately summoned, but he was beyond medical aid, expiring before the restoratives had time to act. He is survived by a wife and several children. The remains were shipped to Boston Thursday, where the funeral and interment was held yesterday afternoon.

ENTHUSIASTIC TOURISTS MAKING LAST DAY'S RUN

DUBLIN GIVES THEM HEARTY RECEPTION

Roads Made Rough by Much Travel Are Passed Over, Stop Made at Adrian In Honor of Late Colonel James Dublin.

By Fuzzy Woodruff.

Dublin, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) Dublin rang its every bell, Dublin's band played its every tune. Dublin's people showed their every greeting when the state-wide tourists reached here this afternoon at 5 o'clock on the last lap of their long journey around the state.

'Twas in spots a rocky road to Dublin from Savannah, but every car made the trip in grand shape, with the exception of the Overland, No. 28, which injured its radiator in a collision with the Americus Overland entry. The Ad Men's Imperial and a non-contestant met on the road a few miles from Statesboro, the Imperial being scraped and having engine trouble as a result. It lost about two hours, but through the plucky drive of J. H. Wait, the state agent of the company, the car made up its lost time and finished at Dublin with the vanguard.

The injured Overland was picked up by George Fauss, Dorris car, and towed into Summit, where the broken radiator was repaired by Manager Busse, of the Brush agency. Mr. Fauss came in tonight and reported that the Overland is on its way and will be able to come into Atlanta with the party.

Mr. Sutherlin's car had made a perfect score up to the time of the accident and was one of the most formidable contestants. His car had been excellently driven and it was a source of regret to every one that the mishap occurred. Though in Class D, the car has been right up with the Class A cars, finishing with the big fellows at Baxley after probably the hardest day's run of the tour.

Savannah Departure.

A blistering cold day greeted the tourists when they arose this morning for their departure from Savannah.

The start was to be made at 8:30 o'clock, eastern time, and each car checked out promptly. A big throng was gathered about the DeSoto hotel when they reparted and on the getaway the road was lined with automobiles from every conceivable part of the country.

Up to Statesboro the Atlanta tourists were running along with those who had made the trip from Augusta to the races and salutations, compliments and sympathy were liberally exchanged.

For fifteen miles perfect roads were encountered, but a few miles beyond Eden difficulties began. The White car of Mr. F. B. Corker, the treasurer of the tour, was here held up through running into a sandy rut, but it got away in good shape with the assistance of the shoving power of several willing tourists.

Over the entire one hundred and twenty-five miles today convicts were busy working on the roads and the unwilling servants of the state cheered the tourists as they passed, helped

The Long Roll

MARY JOHNSTON

TO HAVE AND TO HOLD

Mary Johnston has written a great book about one of the greatest of southern generals. All southerners are interested in the life of Stonewall Jackson. This book is the result of a wonderful amount of research of historical and autobiographical material. She may or may not have painted a picture true to life. This is left to your personal decision after you have read the book—which certainly is full of historic value.

cars in trouble and made themselves generally useful.

The passage of hundreds of cars over the foot bridges along the road had made them practically impassable and once within 20 miles of Savannah the entire party was tied up until a bridge could be rebuilt. All of the toruists died yoeman service in the work. County Engineer Christian, of Sumter county, who has established probably the best road system in the state, was in active charge of the volunteer workmen and the tour was speedily away.

Roadsides Lined.

As has been the case since the tour started, the road was lined with spectators at every point, and there has been no point at issue between the automobilists and persons in wagons, on horesback or on foot.

An entente cordiale has been thoroughly maintained between tourists and the people of the state whose guests they have been.

A long stretch of good roads was struck into Statesboro and there the party lunched. The town had turned out in force.

The Jaeckel hotel was the official stopping place of the party and luncheon was on the table when the tourists came in.

An excellent meal was served and it was done so speedily that the tourists were able to make their get-away without a hitch. Again the party was speeding merrily. Good roads were encountered most of the way, and while the tourists were in the muddy swamps, willing help was always at hand. Remarkable time was being made all the way and practically all of the heavier cars were within shouting distance of the pacemaker all of the time.

When the party whizzed into Swainsboro it was met by W. H. Procter, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who has taken a deep interest in the tour. He was assisted by a big committee of citizens who gave the tourists cigars and soft drinks in abundance. The town was gay for the tourists. Front porches were crowded and waving, while signs proclaimed that Swainsboro was strong for the party and its cause.

Honor Colonel James.

The next stop was made at Adrian. It was not a scheduled pause, but was made according to the order of Joe Brown Connelly, referee of the tour. The stop was made in honor of the memory of Colonel T. J. James, who had been one of the best friends of the good roads cause in Georgia. He had done much for the work around Adrian and had expressed the wish to welcome the state tour. He passed away a few days ago, and it was Mr. Connelly's idea to see that the tour gave his services recognition.

The town of Adrian also did its duty nobly. No tourist who paused had anything but the heartiest greeting. The stop was typical of the entire pilgrimage.

The tourists then began to burn the road into Dublin. They flashed through Scott while the populace cheered. So fast was the pace that though the cars were hardly twenty yards apart, the machine ahead was absolutely obscured from view on account of the vast dust clouds and the tourists were compelled to signal each other constantly.

Dublin Theirs.

At Dublin they received a regular reception. Far from the city automobile after automobile of welcoming citizens told the party that the town was theirs. As they entered the municipal confines, every bell rang, every whistle blew and the band played the popular classic named in honor of that most eminent musician, Mr. Alexander. Signs were stretched over many corners, the most prominent of which said "We are Dublin all the time."

Dublin, Ga., December 1.—At no point have the tourists received a more royal or more cordial welcome than here in Dublin, which city has done, perhaps, more than any other on the route for the promotion of the tour. The tour came into Dublin over the Dublin route from Savannah to Atlanta, which was planned and established by this city.

Dublin gave $500 to the tour fund, which was twice the size of the subscription of any other town on the route. There is no city in the state more enthusiastic on the subject of good roads.

Dublin had been looking forward to the tour and had everything well arranged for the tourists when they arrived. Two miles out the tour party was met by eight cars filled with well-known Dublin citizens, among whom were President R. M. Arnau and Manager Director R. M. Martin, of the chamber of commerce; former Senator C. W. Brantley, D. W. Burch, T. B. Darley, E. L. Perry, E. A. Reinhart, B. M. Greer, W. W. Bush, Lee Bennett, O. I. Hilburn, J. S. Simons, Jr., and many other prominent Dublin citizens.

The tourists were loudly cheered as they came up and as darkness was approaching they were motioned to go right on into the city without stopping. They drove around the Dublin courthouse square, led by Sam Bashinsky, in his Chalmers, which finished the run here with a perfect score. The car has made a splendid record on the trip and was well handled.

Citizens' Greeting.

The tourists stopped in front of the New Dublin hotel, where arrangements had been made for all of them to stop for the night, and there they were met by a party of one hundred leading Dublin citizens, headed by Peter S. Twitty, chairman, and Mayor E. R. Orr.

This reception committee was supplemented by a ladies' committee which looked especially after the lady tourists, of whom there are about twenty-five in the party. The ladies' committee was composed of Miss Louise Orr, chairman; Misses Kathleen Peacock, Marguerite Blackshear, Nina Cook, Ruth Smith, Inez Watson and Marie Johns.

The ladies pinned individual badges on all the tourists upon which was printed: "Welcome, tourist, to the only city in Georgia Dublin all the time. Our city is yours." The badge was in accord with large banners which were suspended across the streets in the court house square, and under which the cars passed as they drove up to the hotel.

Whistles blew and bells rang as the tourists came into the city and the cordial and heartfelt greeting was still further strengthened by the loud cheering upon the streets.

Every member of the tour party was warmly welcomed at the New Dublin by the citizens' committee of one hundred, and it was found that the hotel had arranged to take care of the entire party, so that there would be no trouble or delay in getting quarters. The hotel was well prepared for it, and the tourists were glad to get there after their long, cold day's drive.

Brass Band.

In front of the hotel was a brass band which still further added to the interest and excitement of the occasion, and Dublin looked exceedingly alive, as it always is when it comes to public spirited movements on the part of its citizens.

Everybody was soon comfortably quartered in the hotel, and as each member of the party registered he was handed a card to the Elks' Club, and all the tourists were invited to attend a dance tonight in the Dublin auditorium. Many of them took advantage of the generous invitation, and the dance was thoroughly enjoyed.

Such a burst of generous and open-hearted hospitality to a party of comparative strangers is seldom seen, and it stands out as splendid evidence of the appreciation of Dublin of the work the tour and the tourists have accomplished and will in the future achieve as the result of their trip.

Numerous evidences of this were seen all along the route today. Both in Bulloch and Emanuel counties large gangs of convicts were hard at work improving the very roads used as the route for the tour.

They had hoped to have more and better work done by this time, but the task was a gigantic one, and they had done their best. Both Bulloch and Emanuel had some splendid roads, while some of the route is still sandy and rough.

Laurens is working hard at her roads, many of which are now in fine condition. Especially close to Dublin, within ten or twelve miles each way, Laurens has some roads as good as any in south Georgia. Laurens' enthusiasm over the tour is evidence of the fact the good roads sentiment is as firmly fixed here as it is anywhere in the state.

When the game little Brush arrived it drove straight into the lobby of the New Dublin hotel, where it was greeted with uprorious applause. Immediately afterwards the entire party, escorted by the Dublians, went to the Elks' Club, where they were royally entertained.

the real goods," say they, "and a business partner with her commercial methods would make a paying proposition of any business, except the ice trade."

Shortly after midnight Thangsgiving, a light snow began to fall. It was the first of the year, and those who saw it anticipated a snowy holiday. Their expectations, however, were short-lived, for the fleecy flakes stopped within an hour after they had begun.

In agricultural circles, it is stated that the extreme coldness of November has benefitted cotton and corn crops throughout the state. The farmers, they say, have "nary a kick coming," and, while the moon shedded its radiant mantle about the crisp chilliness of the night, many a rural neighborhood resounded with the merry songs from the corn shuckings in the barn lofts, it might have been as cold as ginger blazes, but who cared?

All Comfort in Country.

The frost was on the punkin, and the corn was yellow. A huge block of ice was in the battered, old well-bucket. The frost under the shingles of the barn gleamed brightly in the moonlight. The wind whined dismally around the corners of the farm house. A faint shaft of light shone from a window facing the "bottoms" below. Every once-in-a-while a spark would fly from the old side chimney, waver in the air and die out. The wind howled and howled, then lost itself with a low moan in the pines across the way.

His pipe aglow, his eyes agleam and his stockinged feet tilted on a chair in front of the bright wood fire, sat Silas. His boots stood in the chimney corner. He dropped a foot to one of the many stones that composed the hearth. His features lighted up. He wasn't a miser, but banks, to him, appeared as "skittish" propisitions.

His wife sat in the opposite corner, knitting and rocking, knitting and rocking. Silas smoked, and she rocked and knitted, knitted and rocked.

A blast of wind whistled around the coroners. Kitty, on the hearth, arose, peered around, then stretched out again. "Bruno," awoke from the other end of the stones, and, looking sleepily at the cat, dropped again back into his dreams of dogdom.

"Mandy, Thanksgivin's a leetle late this year, ain't it?"

"I think so, Silas. This old month'll soon be gone."

"Well, it ain't been such a bad one, after all. Somehow, I kinder hate to see it go."

A hog grunted his dissent of the chilliness from the pen outside. The pines moaned and groaned supernaturally. A cricket chirped from the shucking of "Neighbor Zacharias" was wafted on the wind. The ice cracked loudly in the old wash tub on the back porch. The cat drew closer to the fire. The dog awoke, stretched out and moved an inch nearer.

Silas puffed out a stream of strong smoke, glanced up at the calendar and then at the clock. "Somehow," he mumbled absently, "I kinder hate to see it go."

BURGLAR LEAVES NOTES IN THE STORES HE ROBS

Kindly Advises the Owners How to Prevent Future Losses.

After he had broken into several stores on Decatur street Thursday night, a burglar stopped long enough to write notes addressed to the proprietors, giving directions how they should prepare their places against further invasion.

"You git ernother lock cause I doant give a — fer this, nor you neither," was in one note, along with a few trimmings.

This was left for Tandy Jordan, proprietor of a near beer saloon at 7 Piedmont avenue, who, by the way, has already gotten his new lock. The burglar secured 50 cents from the gas meter, a few pennies from the register and eight cigars in this place.

At Mrs. L. A. Sanders' fish market, 164 Decatur street, the burglar bumped into a safe which was too much for him. Unable to work the combination and evidently not furnished with nitroglycerin, he wheeled the strong box into an alley and proceeded to hammer the bottom of it. The contents were uninjured. A similar note was left on the counter, signed this time "From your old friend Bill Minor."

Next door to the Sanders store he broke into 162 Decatur street, J. T. Barfield's place, but only two pistols repaid his trouble. There was evidence that he had visited several other places before morning, from the Ivy street corner down into lower Decatur street, but no serious thefts were reported.

MERCURY RISES; FRIDAY WARMER

Predictions Are That Saturday Will Be Still More Pleasant.

According to the weather man, the comparatively warm wave which rode in after Thanksgiving is due to continue in "our midst" for a period, and Saturday will be fair and somewhat warmer than yesterday.

The highest temperature recorded yesterday was 52 degrees, while the lowest in the early morning hours was 26. At that December 1 of this year was considerably more pleasant than was the same date in 1910. Last year on this date the mercury's highest point was 33 degrees, while the lowest was 24.

The cold wind, which blew with considerable viciousness on Thanksgiving day, and which was troubled with a sort of "hangover" Friday, will very likely be absent Saturday, or will not be of sufficient strength to attract more than passing attention.

J. MAYNARD WAITE PAYS A VISIT TO ATLANTA

Will Establish Publicity Department to Help Secure Conventions.

J. Maynard Waite vice president and secretary of the C. A. Wood Company, which operates the Georgian Terrace hotel in this city, the Hermitage hotel, in Nashville, and the Holland house, in New York, is in the city for a few days, stopping at the Georgian Terrace.

Mr. Waite is establishing a publicity department which will work in conjunction with the chamber of commerce in securing conventions for Atlanta and boosting this city.

"The Georgian Terrace hotel has made remarkable strides since its opening in October, and the management is greatly pleased with the patronage accorded the house," he said.

Mr. Waite will divide his time between Atlanta, Nashville and Augusta, where Mr. Wood will open, in January, the magnificent winter resort hotel, the Hampton Terrace. Mr. Waite has just completed a 6,000-mile trip in the interest of the hotels he represents, and he reports business as being good, and that more tourists than ever are headed for the south this season.

TEE DEFENDS AUTO COLLEGE

Professor Declares Dissatisfied Students Are Those who Could Not Learn.

A. G. Tee, proprietor of the Automobile College of Atlanta, against whom a case is now pending in the federal courts, charging him with fraudulent use of the mails, is out with a statement to the effect that there is not nor has there ever been anything irregular with his school at 23 East Cain street.

He admits that there are a number of students who are not satisfied with existing conditions, but sets out that this is due to the fact that they have not the ability to learn. He sets out that he has at his school everything which might be of use in teaching what he claims to teach, as is proven by the fact, he says that he has a number of graduates now successfully holding down positions in Atlanta.

Statement by Mr. Tee.

Regarding the matter, Mr. Tee has the following to say:

"This is a case of a number of young men not finding themselves equal to the task of learning the principles of the automobile and its manner of operation. On whom does this sort of thing cast reflection? On the educational institution which has graduated scores of competent men during the year, or upon the students who can not learn?

"We occupy a modern, two-story, steam-heated building at 23 East Cain street, the second floor being devoted to demonstrating, lecture and library rooms. Practically every part of an automobile is here on exhibition and are used in teaching the student its construction, and should give him an accurate idea of just what an automobile is composed of. The beginner starts here, and after he has mastered these principles, he next enters an outside class of more advanced men, who assist in taking down, overhauling and repairing various makes of automobiles. The student, providing he makes satisfactory progress, then has the opportunity to enter upon a still further advanced line of study and work, which calls for special skill and in some cases the use of the lathe and other machinery.

Certain periods of each week are set apart for giving the student experience in handling a machine on the streets and this practice is continued until the student has mastered the desired principles. The course can be completed in about five weeks, and this fact is attested to in dozens of cases where graduates have obtained positions and held them after a four weeks course at the college. However, a student is allowed to remain at the college as long as he desires, with no additional expense for tuition. The tuition costs $25, including use of tools, use of library and reading rooms and also several automobile instruction books, which are furnished free.

The student is never asked to pay any additional amount for instructions for the reason that there is only one grade or course given, the best, and to know. Our enrollment book shows to know. One excellent book shows the names of graduates engaged as repair shop foremen, automobile salesmen, garage owner and manager and others who have positions as drivers of both private automobiles and motor trucks. These men are successful. They have brains and can learn. Unfortunately some of the students who enter the college may not be in this class, and this, and this only, is the reason they do not seem to get along. Our college only claims to furnish the opportunity. In every instance the student must be prepared to grasp it.

Our institution strongly advocates that all persons who operate automobiles on our streets and thoroughfares should first qualify for a license to be issued only upon the applicant proving his complete ability to properly operate and handle a car, including a certain knowledge of its construction. This would do away to a very large extent with the frequent automobile accidents which have inflicted injury or death on many an innocent pedestrian, and which serve to distort public opinion concerning the automobile.

"We believe that an institution teaching a certain specific and very necessary line of work fills a public demand, and such are our motives which actuate our endeavors."

Colt Show Success.

Milledgeville, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—The colt show given here under the auspices of the Baldwin County Progressive Agricultural Club was a great success from every standpoint. Farmers of the county were given only thirty days in which to prepare for the exhibition and the expectations of the Baldwin county people were far exceeded in the eighty-nine beautiful colts which were shown. Every citizen responded to the appeal for contributions and as a result it was possible to offer liberal and numerous prizes amounting in all to several hundred dollars. A parade of the colts was had through the streets and the exhibition is said to have been one of the best of the kind ever given in Georgia.

Moose to Own Home.

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—The Loyal Order of Moose will soon have its own home in Waycross. The local lodge has a building committee out after subscriptions to a stock company that proposes to build the home and from the success attained to date it is certain that the lodge will build within the next year. The membership is increasing steadily and all are enthusiastic "paps."

MONEY LENDERS NOW ON TRIAL

Majority of First Day Spent in Argument on Technical Points.

Interrupted by frequent objections on technical points from the attorneys for the defense, the state yesterday took up its fight against usurious money lending. C. S., H. R. and R. B. King, composing the firm of King Bros., are the defendants in the first case which has been put on trial, and they are alleged to have charged more than the legal rate of interest on loans made to salaried people.

King Brothers, through their attorneys, Luther Z. Rosser, J. D. Kilpatrick, B. B. Blackburn and Lamar Hill, claim that they have never made any loans whatever since the enactment of the law against usury, passed in 1908, and declare that since that date all of their transactions have been in the nature of a salary purchase.

Same Kind of Business.

Linton C. Hopkins, who is assisting the prosecution, insisted that since the enactment of the usury law the firm had continued to conduct exactly the same kind of business that it did before the bill was passed, and that it merely changed the form of its security papers in order to protect itself against the law. To substantiate this the state introduced one or two witnesses to testify that they had borrowed money before the law was passed on documents practically similar with the one which figures in the case now being tried, and court papers showed that King Brothers had sued on such salary assignments as plain indebtedness were introduced by Mr. Hopkins.

This brought forth some very spirited argument from the defense, who objected to the introduction of any transactions prior to the one which formed the basis of the indictment.

Attorney Hopkins argued that the business of the King Brothers really formed an unbroken and connected series of transactions similar in nature both before the usury law was passed and afterward, and that the change in their assignment blanks had been merely made to hedge themselves from the law.

Practically all of the argument was made in the absence of the jury, Judge L. S. Roan being called upon time and time again to rule upon some technical question.

The prosecution introduced five witnesses: F. W. Stephenson, the man who appears as chief prosecuting witness in the case; H. E. Jones, T. C. King (no relative of the defendants), H. C. Parnelle and R. E. Weeks.

Object to Testimony.

The defense objected to practically all of the testimony from these men and Attorney Kilpatrick publicly stated that H. E. Jones would be prosecuted for perjury if he swore that he had any dealings with King Brothers subsequent to the passage of the usury law.

Jones stated that he had secured money from the firm in the fall following the enactment of the law.

Up until 5 o'clock the case had progressed but little beyond the argument as to what constituted admissible testimony and at 5 o'clock the court was adjourned for the day.

It will meet again at 8:30 o'clock Saturday.

Much interest is felt in the outcome of the trial, inasmuch as there are 146 similar cases which will be influenced by the result.

Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey, D. K. Johnson and Linton C. Hopkins, for the state, urged that the court consider well before it threw out testimony which the prosecution felt to be of very material importance, inasmuch as there was no privilege of appeal for the state, while the attorneys for the defense insisted that their clients should have the benefit of doubt.

The argument was of such a legal and technical character that it was confusing to one not well versed in the law, but the spectators who came to hear the trial remained throughout the session.

RAILROAD TIE MEN WIN BIG VICTORY

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Crosstie dealers throughout this section and northern Florida, have won a distinct victory over the Georgia Southern and Florida railway by a decision announced today by the interstate commerce commission regarding rates on shipments of crossties. The various dealers involved in the suit brought before the commission asked that the railroad be required not only to discontinue the practice of charging carload rates for less than car load shipments but that a refund be directed on shipments they had made to Jacksonville.

The evidence was heard in Jacksonville last spring by a United States commissioner. Charles L. Redding, of this city, handled the petition for a local rate company. The refunds ordered mean that many thousand dollars will be paid to tie dealers and sets a precedent that will save a large amount annually for the tie men.

RECEIVER IS WANTED FOR ATLANTA-CAROLINA

Creditors Say Company Has Practically Abandoned Right of Way.

Alleging that the Atlanta-Carolina Railway Company has practically abandoned its right-of-way along Confederate avenue, and that it is in danger of losing its franchise from the city and county, a number of creditors of the road have filed suit in the superior court asking that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the company's affairs.

The petition states that the company is practically solvent, having but recently disposed of two bond issues for $6,000,000, well secured by Chicago bond companies. The company, however, cannot secure prompt action to insure the payment of its debt, complains the petitioners, because its bondholders are scattered in distant cities.

Checks issued by the road for work and supplies furnished have been protested, allege the complainants, and the company is apparently without ready funds with which to carry forward the work.

The Carolina-Portland Cement Company, Fielder & Allen, the Milam & Miller Stable Company are the creditors to the amount of $453.80. Robert C. and Phillip Alston are the attorneys for the petitioners.

Judge J. T. Pendleton granted a temporary injunction restraining the company from further work until the present matter is settled.

The defendant company was organized in 1906, and the projected road was planned to run through DeKalb, Fulton, Richmond and several other counties. About ten miles of grading have been completed in the vicinity of Atlanta.

WESTERN UNION IS SUED BY TWO TELEGRAPHERS

Refused "Clearance Cards" They Ask $5,000 Damages.

Alleging that they have been deprived of their only means of livelihood by the action of the Western Union Telegraph Company in discharging them without sufficient cause, and withholding "clearance cards" from them, Warren C. Wooten and D. G. Williams telegraph operators, have filed separate suits for $5,000 against the telegraph company.

The defendants say that they are dependent upon either the Western Union or the Postal for employment. The established custom in these companies, says the petition, when discharging an employee without prejudice to him is to give clearance cards showing that the dismissal was an honorable one. Without this clearance card, allege the petitioners, operators cannot obtain a position elsewhere.

At the time of their dismissal ten men were discharged from the Atlanta office, says the petitions. It is charged that the real cause of their discharge was because they had taken part in the telegraphers' strike in 1907.

The American Federation of Labor was in session at the time, says the petition, and the dismissals were for the purpose of intimidating other operators. Lowndes Calhoun is their attorney.

Alabama Wins Shoot.

New Orleans, December 1.—Alabama won the interstate shoot of the Southern Rifle Association at Beauregard rifle range here yesterday, by a margin of 179 points over Mississippi, which was second, 11 points ahead of Louisiana. The unfinished individual scores started yesterday were finished, Captain M. M. Brown, of Macon, Miss., winning by 8 points ahead of Captain J. A. Blythe, of this city.

INTERNATIONAL AVIATION MEET

To Be Arranged by the Governors of the Aero Club.

New York, December 1.—At the next meeting, on December 13, the governors of the Aero Club of America will appoint a committee to make plans for the international aviation meet of 1912, in accordance with the conditions prescribed by the International Aeronautic Federation at Rome last week. There is a disposition to give the event to the west, and present indications are that it will be held somewhere in the neighborhood of Chicago.

The distance of the race for the international cup will be increased to 117 miles, instead of 87 miles, as heretofore.

FORSYTH STREET ENJOYS CHASE AFTER A THIEF

Dr. H. J. Dimond Takes Bicycle Messenger's Wheel and Captures Negro.

"Stop, thief! Catch him! Catch him!" was the cry that met the stillness of the postoffice lobby yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock, when Mack Riley, colored, snatched $4 from the hand of George Brooks, also colored, and made a dash for freedom and one more square meal.

Riley was well under way when he sprang through the door to Forsyth street and by the time his pursuers got out he was rivaling the recent performances of Bruce-Brown up Forsyth street toward Luckie. A single cry from his would-be captors brought every pedestrian on the street into the chase. Taking the corner on two wheels without so much as skidding once, pursuers and pursued turned down Luckie street. Mack was now working for a record. After him was a motley and shouting crowd composed of every type of mankind from the portly and prosperous banker, with his silk hat flying in the wake, to homegoing stenographers and messenger boys.

Mack looked good for a winner until a messenger boy got excited and threw his bicycle down in the street to join in the chase on foot. Dr. H. J. Dimond, of 336 South Pryor street, was the man to grasp the psychological moment. Leaping upon the wheel he was soon gaing on the fast-vanishing negro.

Five blocks down the street Mack and the doctor were running neck and neck. It was the work of a second to grab the thief by the collar and call a policeman, who took him in tow.

Ramsey Drops Dead.

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—While packing his grip to return home today after witnessing the auto races, R. M. Ramsey, a well-known planter of Midville, Ga., dropped dead in a boarding house on Liberty street. His wife was in an adjoining room and hearing her husband groan, went in to him, but when she reached his side, he was dead. The coroner said death was due to an enlargement of the veins of the heart. Mr. Ramsey was 61 years old. The remains were taken to Midville tonight by his wife.

RUSSELL PEOPLE GREATLY PLEASED

Candidate Says That He Had Large Crowd at Newnan.

Reports at the local Dick Russell headquarters yesterday were to the effect that the wind-up of Judge Russell's week's speaking tour is proving far more satisfactory than even he and his most optimistic supporters had hoped.

From the judge himself came the telephone report from Newnan, where he spoke at 11 o'clock in the morning. His report was most enthusiastic. He stated that the meeting was largely attended, admitting that the crowd was about twice as large as he had expected. After concluding his work at Newnan, the judge journeyed on to LaGrange, where he was scheduled to speak last night. Reports from Troupe as sent in to the Russell headquarters during the afternoon were to the effect that the judge's coming had been widely exploited and his supporters in and around LaGrange said to be expecting a record crowd to hear his address.

Today Judge Russell will begin on the final day of his most remarkable week of campaigning. He will speak at Cartersville at 11 o'clock and two hours later will leave in an auto for Atlanta. He states that on the trip he will make a number of real "stump" speeches. He has no definite engagements along the route, but knuows the section well, and will make some four or five short talks on the way in.

This will wind up the most remarkable speaking tour ever made by a gubernatorial candidate in Georgia. Beginning on Monday, Mr. Russell will have averaged better than three speeches per day for a full six days. On Monday he spoke three times, on Tuesday three, on Wednesday six, on Thursday twice, Friday twice, and today he will speak at least four times.

The judge's campaign for next week has not yet been definitely settled upon.

WITNESSES THREATENED IN CASE OF BURGLARY

Charging that J. JJ. Varnadore and T. C. Howell have tried to intimidate witnesses who have been subpoenaed to testify in the case of the state against Grady Vanadore and Fletcher Howell charged with burglary, Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey yesterday made application to Judge L. S. Roan asking that the two men be cited for contempt of court.

An order to this effect was signed by Judge Roan and the matter will be taken up at the earliest possible moment.

The solicitor says that Louis Thompson and Jim Edwards were summoned to testify in the case against young Howell and Vanadore, this being known to T. C. Howell and J. P. Vanadore, the fathers of the two boys.

The solicitor charges that T. C. Howell threatened to kill Louis Thompson if he testified against the Howell boy, and that the same threat was made by J. P. Vanadore.

Other efforts at intimidation have been made, says the solicitor's petition to the court.

Judge Roan's order calls them into court Saturday to answer to the charge.

The Amazing Adventures of

Letitia Carberry

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

Author of

The Circular Staircase — The Window at the White Cat

The Man in Lower Ten — When a Man Marries (Seven Days)

LETITIA CARBERRY is as charming as a débutante, yet she has a spinster's instinct for the wily ways of man. As soft-hearted as a baby, she has a tongue as spicy as her curiosity is sharp. As domestic as a house-cat purring before the fire she owns a mad passion for gasoline, excitement, and the high spots of the road.

ADVENTURE is breath to her nostrils. Her high-bred heart is appalled by no terrors, deterred by no decorum. In detecting a crime she makes the police look like plugged nickels. Such is the ever charming old maid who dominates the humorous pages of LETITIA CARBERRY.

ENGINEERS GET NEW WAGE SCALE

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—Following the visit to Savannah of President Markham, of the Central railway, a new wage scale was signed between the engineers of the system and the officials of the road on Wednesday. It is retroactive and goes into effect from November 1. Passenger engineers are paid $4.40 per hundred miles against $3.95, which was the former scale.

The minimum day's pay is $5. Engineers on switch engines are to be paid $4.25 a day. The scale is a very complicated one, but the average increase in pay is about 10 per cent. The increased monthly earnings of an engineer running between Savannah and Atlanta on a passenger train, for instance, is in round numbers $25 a month. The committee representing the engineers that has been here for sixty days trying to adjust the new scale has been discharged.

UNCLAIMED LITERATURE WILL BE AUCTIONED

The auction sale at the postoffice building of magazines and other publications unclaimed by parties to whom they are addressed, will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. There is a large accumulation of standard publications, and, judging by the crowd at the last of these sales, which was the first of the kind ever held in Atlanta, the sale will have a liberal attendance.

Want Ministers Returned.

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Waycross is very anxious to have all the Methodist ministers located here the past year returned by the 1911 conference. In addition to the presiding elder, Rev. Whitley Langsdon, four ministers of the Methodist conference have churches in Waycross, and all have made many staunch friends.

Phoebe got a house for Christmas

Tug Warburton's father gave Phoebe a house for Christmas, either bought or built.

Phoebe started out to find the sort of house she wanted. She tells about it herself, about her change in standards of house building, as she chased this question of taste around the circle, as a cat chases its tail, and finally came out at the house she was born in and lived in all her life. It is not only amusing as a story, but Phoebe goes through all of the stages that we all go through before we land upon the safe ground of good taste in house and furniture.

ATLANTA MAY GET CHEAPER LIGHTS

Central Georgia Power Company Will Operate in City.

Councilman Chambers Tells Committee It Is Possible City Will Acquire Atlanta Telephone Company--Arkwright Attacks Turner's Figures.

Though Vice President Wickham, of the Central Georgia Power Company, of Macon, made no definite proposition to the council committee on electrical affairs to furnish electric lighting, current and power, he stated at the meeting of the committee Friday afternoon that it was the purpose of his company to furnish electric power to any one in Atlanta who wanted it within a short time. He said he was not prepared to discuss rates.

The approval of the 66,000 volt line which, he says, will soon be extended to Atlanta, and the furnishing of data that his company may make an intelligent bid on city contracts, were referred to special committees.

City May Acquire Company.

Councilman Chambers said that it was possible that the city would acquire a company that had ducts laid all over the city, and he asked Mr. Wickham if his company would be able to furnish power at the edge of the city, so that the city could distribute it, adding that the Georgia Railway and Electric Company would, of course, be asked to submit a bid on such a proposition. Mr. Wickham said that his company would be able to do this, and President P. S. Arkwright, of the Georgia Railway and Electric Company, intimated that his company, too, would be there at the bidding.

Mr. Chambers said afterwards that he was referring to the Atlanta Telephone Company, and that it was quite possible that the city could acquire this company.

But while the probability of competition for electric lights and power was the most significant matter that developed at the meeting, by far the most interesting feature was the very convincing and eloquent speech of President Arkwright. He began his speech by flatly denying the charge of City Electrician Turner that Atlanta was being charged 100 per cent more for electric power for its municipal buildings than other cities, and that the city was being discriminated against in favor of manufacturers.

"I want you to stop talking," said Mr. McClelland, "or I'm afraid we'll be raising the city's rates."

Hope for Better Rates.

The probability of getting better rates by competition, though, was welcomed by the members and no action will propably be taken in the matter until the Central Georgia Power Company makes its position definite and clear.

The meeting began by Mr. Turner reading his report, which was read at the former meeting and which has been published. When he had finished, Mr. Arkwright asked the question:

"You have made the statement that Atlanta is paying 100 per cent more for electric current than other cities; do you know any cities which are paying that much less?"

It had not occurred to anyone that 100 per cent less than Atlanta's present rate would be no rate at all.

"Yes," replied Mr. Turner.

"What are they?" asked Mr. Arkwright.

"Richmond owns its own plant and pays less and New York pays less," he replied.

"Do you know any others?" continued Mr. Arkwright.

"I can tell you others by referring to my records," answered Mr. Turner.

"What are the others and what do New York and Richmond pay?" asked Mr. Arkwright.

Mr. Turner submitted a contract New York has and said that he did not have the data concerning the others at hand.

Turner's Statement Denied.

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Arkwright, rising and his emotion displaying itself in his face and manner. "This man has made the sensational statement that the city of Atlanta is paying 100 per cent more for her electric current—meaning that the Georgia Railway and Electric Company is robbing the city. That statement is absolutely untrue and he cannot back it up."

"It is my opinion that Atlanta is paying that rate and there's the New York contract," replied Mr. Turner. "I have a right to interpret the contract."

"You have stated it as a fact and it is false," hotly answered Mr. Arkwright.

"Well, we won't fight about it," said Mr. Turner.

"We won't fight about it unless you want to," replied Mr. Arkwright even more hotly.

Mr. McClelland rapped for order and other members of the committee objected to personal feeling being displayed.

Mr. Arkwright then settled to more even arguments. He took up the New York contract and analyzed it to the committee, saying at the end that on the same classes the average charge for electrical power in New York by the company cited by Mr. Turner was 33 1-3 per cent more than the average charge the Georgia Railway and Electric Company made Atlanta and Atlanta consumers.

The proposition urged by Mr. Turner was that all the city's business should be lumped together and the city given one wholesale rate. He said that one of the officials in New York had told him that that city enjoyed such a rate, and that it amounted to about 3 cents per kilowat hour for lighting current and 1½ cents per kilowatt hour for power, and that this was the proposition he wanted for Atlanta.

Mr. Arkwright then read a telegram from the New York Edison Company, the company referred to by Mr. Turner, stating that no flat wholesale rate was given the city by that company.

Cannot Give Flat Rate.

Mr. Arkwright said that his company could not give the city of Atlanta a flat rate because it would be discrimination.

"The city enjoys the same rates that every individual and every corporation enjoys, and the laws of our state say that it cannot enjoy more," he said.

He read a long printed list of the rates in other cities, ranging from seven cents per kilowat hour in Los Angeles to 18 cents in Sioux Falls. Atlanta's rate is ten cents with a ten per cent discount for cash. But four of the list were lower than Atlanta's, and they were the cities having water power facilities, others were the same or higher.

"The rates in Atlanta," Mr. Arkwright said, "are lower than the great majority of cities of every class."

With fine sarcasm he then paid his respects to the printed statement of W. J. Massee, president of the Central Georgia Power Company; which statement was that the electrician was right that Atlanta ought to have a flat rate and that he would make a proposition to furnish the city current on such terms if he were given 180 days.

"In the first place he can't furnish power to the city in that time to save his life," he said.

"But in considering the probability of a man carrying out his promises it is well to see what he has already done," he said. "What would be fair and right in Atlanta would be fair and right in Macon, his home city and one to which he furnishes light and power. He has criticised our policy; of course he has the right policy toward Macon.

At this point Mr. Wickham, W. L. Southwell, commercial engineer, and L. A. Magraw, chief engineer of the Central Georgia Power Company, came into the hall but did not enter the room They had just arrived from Macon. Mr. Massee was expected but is was stated later that he was unable to leave Macon.

The Macon Rate.

"From the best information I could get," said Mr. Arkwright, "Macon is charged twenve cents for light current, seven and one half cents for power and $72 per year for arc lights. Atlanta pays $57 per year for arc lights, ten cents with a discount as the maximum rate for lights and six and two-tenths cents per kilowat hour as the maximum rate for power.

"That's the way Mr. Massee, who says Atlanta is being treated unfairly, treats the city with which he does business."

When the Macon men came into the room he verified his figures by them. Later he asked them about Mr. Massee's proposition to furnish Atlanta power according to the terms of Mr. Turner. Mr. Wickham said he could give no information about prices.

"I just wanted it made clear to the committee," said Mr. Arkwright, "that Mr. Massee didn't know what he was talking about, and that he had no intention of making good on any such proposition."

During the course of his talk Mr. Turner interrupted him.

"What do you pay per kilowat hour for water power?" he asked.

"It costs us just as much as New York's steam power," he said. "And with water power alone we could not do business with you at all, probably."

But he did not tell the cost of the water power.

Must Change Present Rate.

He reviewed the sixty-five contracts the company has with the city, showing that under an old contract the city pays only $75 per month for electric power for the police station, or $900 per year. This is a rate of 1 6-10 cents per kilowat hour. "When the city electrician only asks that we give you a 3-cent rate," he said, "under the regular rate the city should have paid us $3,384.72. The present rate is illegal and when the contract expires next September the rate will have to be changed."

It was called to the attention of Mr. Arkwright that heretofore each city department had made its own contract, but that now the matter was in the hands of the electrical committee and the city electrician, by the order of council. The desire of the committee was that whatever agreement was reached that one paper should include all the contracts and that they should each begin and end on the same date. To this Mr. Arkwright agreed.

The members of the committee present were McClelland, Chambers, Van Dyke, Warnock and Clayton. Showing the interest that members of council in general felt in the proposition was the presence of Councilmen Nutting, Vaughan and Sisson and Alderman Spratling.

The committee adjourned to meet on the call of the chairman.

Receipt For Weak Men---Free

Send Name and Address Today--You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor-failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 3982 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt in a plain ordinary sealed envelope free of charge.

MOUNTING STEPS TO GALLOWS NEGRO IS RESPITED BY SLATON

Valdosta, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—By a margin even narrower than that on a former occasion, Tom Jackson, the young negro condemned to death here for the murder of his wife and mother, escaped the gallows temporarily again today. Jackson was granted his fifth or sixth respite a month ago, and was to have been hanged today. His attorney's got into communication with Governor Slaton this morning, urging him to respite the man until the case could be brought before him.

Sheriff Gornto was instructed by the governor to delay the execution until 1 o'clock. Before that time, however, another message came instructing him to go ahead with it. The sheriff had completed the preparations before noon. Jackson's spiritual advisers had finished their prayers and the sheriff was starting up the steps to the gallows with the negro, when J. M. Johnson, one of Jackson's attorneys, came running across the street, calling to the sheriff to stop.

After hammering a moment or two on the closed doors of the jail, the attorney darted through the residence portion of the jail and carried a message respiting Jackson for one week. Governor Slaton had been reached by long distance telephone and the statements made to him by the attorneys influenced him in respiting the negro until he could review the case.

ROAD EXPERT ON TOUR TELLS HOW TO MAKE REAL HIGHWAY

Dublin, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) John C. Koch, professor of civil engineering of the University of Georgia, said: "In the trip from Savannah to Dublin about half of the distance was over fine sand-clay road, the remainder being very sandy and, in a number of places, deep mudholes were encountered.

"In Bulloch and Emanuel counties gangs of convicts were at work on the roads and doing good, work constructing sand-clay roads.

"Three of the most impressive things of this day's trip are absence of signboards, lack of maintenance and sand-clay roads, and the use of fords for even the smallest and most insignificant streams. Signboards to guide the traveler are not common in very many places in the state. Bulloch county is one of the few counties traversed on this entire tour of 650 miles where any attempt has een made to help a traveler pick his way through the network of roads radiating at every town.

"Deep-rutted, sand-clay roads were found where the road could have been kept in fine order y the occasional passage of a split logdrag. Our good roads department will be glad to supply full information to any county in the state regarding the construction and use of this drag.

"Fords should be entirely eliminated unless the expense is too great to warrant the expenditure. More than a score of fords were crossed today nearly always at some discomfort, and most of them could have been easily eliminated by the use of pips culverts.

"The problem of the long brides and trestles over streams have been solved in the cheapest and most practicable manner for this region by the use of wood.

"The various officials I met today were highly pleased with the establishment of the good roads department at the University of Georgia.

"And a number of road topics were discussed with these county officers."

New Trial Granted.

Hartwell, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Judge W. L. Hodges granted a new trial this week in the case of S. A. and Vinie Jones against The Phenix Insurance Company of Brooklyn. This case attracted widespread interest at the time of the destruction of the house of the plaintiffs by dynamite and fire in the city of Royston. The company declined to pay the policy of fire insurance held by the plaintiffs and through their attorneys, A. G. & Julian McCurry, of Hartwell, they filed suit for $1,200. The jury compromised and awarded $600. Both sides filed motions for new trials, and on both motions Judge Hodges, of the city court of Hartwell, granted both sides new trials. The insurance company was represented by J. H. Skelton, of Hartwell, and Slaton & Phillips, of Atlanta. The case will be tried at the next term of the superior court. When the house was destroyed by attacks several nights in succession the occupants, two ladies, appealed to Governor Hoke Smith to aid them, which request he denied, and after this their home was burned.

Unexpected Marriage.

LaGrange, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Leaving this city early Wednesday morning, D. A. Dansby, of this city, went to Macon, where he met Miss Myrtis Hill, of Hill street, this city, and the couple were united in marriage at a Macon hostelry. The marriage news came by telegraph to friends in this city, and was a great surprise. Miss Hill had been visiting friends in Dublin, Ga., and wrote her affianced to meet her in Macon for the wedding. The couple will, it is understood, sojourn during the next month or two at Florida winter resorts.

Waycross Thanksgiving.

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—All Waycross observed Thanksgiving yesterday. The stores, mills, shops—in fact, everything in the city—closed for the entire day. Between 2,500 and 3,000 of the citizens left on regular and special trains yesterday and today for the auto races in Savannah. At the Central Baptist Tabernacle, yesterday morning, the usual union Thanksgiving service was held. The sermon was by Rev. R. A. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church. A very enjoyable musical program was rendered. Several lodges of the city distributed Thanksgiving dinner baskets yesterday, giving the needy cause to remember the day.

BIG CANNON CRACKER BLOWS OFF HAND OF FOUR-YEAR-OLD

Cordele, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) As the result of a large 12-inch Giant Cannon Cracker exploding in his hands, Lawson, the 4-year-old son of Dr. G. M. D. Hunt, lies critically hurt, with his left hand blown off at the wrist, the right hand so bady lacerated that amputation near the wrist bone, will be necessary, while his chest and body are badly burned.

The accident occurred about 2 o'clock this afternoon while the children were playing in the yard and street.

Fireworks had been placed on sale at several stores and it is understood that some of the larger children in purchasing small fire crackers, secured the large cannon cracker and in some manner the child obtained possession of it, and playfully lighted the fuse and held it in his hand until the explosion occurred.

STATE RECORDS TO BE BETTER HOUSED

Basement of Capitol To Be Renovated and Guard Placed There.

With a view to the better preservation of the valuable records and other state property stored in the basement of the capitol, George Tumlin, keeper of public buildings and grounds, has given the basement a thorough renovating and has placed a guard there to look after the stores. T. A. Murray has been appointed to this place.

The state library has thousands of volumes of reports and other works stored in the basement and the military department also has several thousand dollars' worth of military supplies placed there for safe keeping. Heretofore little has been done to protect these stores from decay or loss by theft or fire, and Mr. Tumlin's innovation will very probably save the state several hundred dollars.

Mr. Tumlin was influenced primarily to place the guard in the basement because of the fact that a few months ago a fire originated in a trash pile in the basement which would have done considerable damage if it had not been discovered early.

Mr. Tumlin also announced that the new electric elevator which is being installed will be completed within the next few days. In the past the old hand elevator was used only during the sessions of the legislature but the keeper of public buildings intends to place a man in charge of it and to have it in operation every day that the capitol is open.

ALBANY WARS ON WIDE-OPEN TOWN

To Limit Number of Near-Beer Saloons and Regulate Licenses.

Albany, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) A determined effort will be made in the city council at the beginning of the new year to limit the number of near beer saloons in Albany during 1912. There are now thirty of these institutions.

It is the plan of certain members of council, of whom Alderman R. L. Jones is most outspoken, to limit the number of near beer licenses to about twenty, and to refuse to issue a license to any party who has been found guilty of violating the prohibition law, or of keeping a disorderly place. The matter will come up for action at the first meeting of the new council on the first Monday in aJnuary.

M'MANIGAL TELLS HOW PLANS WERE LAID FOR DYNAMITING OF THE LOS ANGELES TIMES

Los Angeles, Cal., December 1.—(Special.)—Ortie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamiter, tonight in his prison cell gave a graphic account of the planning and execution of the dynamiting of The Los Angeles Times building, with some details about which there now is no future necessity for secrecy on his part.

McManigal said he first began dynamiting June 25, 1907, in Detroit, where the Russell Wheel Foundry Company's building, then in course of construction, was destroyed. He skipped from that time until a year ago, when he was in the Conover woods, in Wisconsin, with James B. McNamara, and the latter, he said, told him then of having just previously dynamited The Times building.

"We left the Conover woods about a year ago," said McManigal, "and I went back to my home in Chicago and lay around there for a few days.

Plans for Llewellyn Explosion.

"It was December 8 last that I received a telegram from Indianapolis signed 'Frank,' and asking me to go to that city. 'Frank' meant James B. McNamara, as he at times used the name Frank Sullivan. I went to Indianapolis and in John J. McNamara's office I was given instructions by John J. himself regarding the Llewellyn job. He said it had been promised that a Christmas present was to be sent to Los Angeles and that I was to bring it.

"James B. and I went to John J.'s vaults on the fifth floor of the American Central building in Indianapolis where his offices were, and took out a case specially made to carry nitroglycerin. The district attorney has that case in his possession here now.

"Well, that was December 9. We hired a rig and drove out to Beach Grove, an Indianapolis suburb, where he had the explosives cached. There were twelve quarts there and we took it all, leaving two empty cases.

"We went back to J. J.'s office and I got instructions from J. J. himself to come to Los Angeles. He told me to put shots under the Llewellyn Iron Works and the Baker Iron Works, and to be sure to put one under The Times auxiliary plant to 'add a few more to the list.'

"I left Chicago on December 12 for Los Angeles. I had 10 quarts of the 'dope' in the special carrying case and two quarts in my suit case. I gave the case with the 10 quarts in it to the porter to take care of. I gave him a dollar for his trouble.

"Just before arriving at the depot on December 15 in Los Angeles, the train ran along by the Los Angeles river, and I took special notice of the river as a good place to cache the stuff. When I got here I went to the hotel Rosslyn and got a room under the name of T. F. McKee. Then I went back to the river, hid the stuff and marked the spot so I could not possibly fail to find it when I wanted it.

Inspects Iron Works.

"I had been told by J. B. how to get to the Llewellyn Iron Works. He said to go to the part of the city where the streets bore the names instead of numbers, so I located it all right. It took me a few days, though, to find the Baker Iron Works.

"Then I looked about for The Times auxiliary plant. J. B. had told me to buy a copy of The Times and look on the editorial page and I would find the address. I did so, but I found only the business and editorial offices on Spring street, where the paper had moved after its building at First and Broadway had been blown up.

"I finally found the auxiliary plant. They were setting up a new press there at the time. I had a long talk with the watchman. I looked the place over and decided it was too well guarded to do anything there. About 7:30 the night of December 24, I placed the whole 12 quarts of 'dope' at the Llewellyn Iron Works, timing it to explode at 2 o'clock.

"About 9 o'clock that night I took the Southern Pacific Valley train north to San Francisco, where I remained a few days and arrived back in Chicago New Year's day."

At this point in McManigal's story, Detectives McLaren and Barry, who were present, stopped him, saying that as the crimes committed in Los Angeles were few, compared to the whole number charged against the McNamara brothers and of which McManigal was said to have knowledge, it would not do for him to talk too much.

Asked About "Big Chief."

The confessed dynamiter, however, was asked about his confession in which he told of having been instructed to see "the big chief" and a man named "Clancy" in San Francisco before coming to Los Angeles on the "Llewellyn job," but the detectives instructed him to mention no person by that name. That statement, however, was made a part of the court proceedings, when his wife, Mrs. Emma McManigal, was a witness before the grand jury here last summer.

"I haven't seen my wife since she left here," said McManigal bitterly. "Darrow promised her a life's living if she would desert me and she took him up. I suppose she'll soon be selling McNamara buttons again. They ought to be in big demand in the next few days. I have scratched my uncle, George Behm, off the map, too. All I want to have is my children, but I don't suppose I can have them if I have to go to prison."

McLaren declared that Mrs. McManigal was fully cognizant of all her husband's dynamiting crimes, despite her statements to the contrary. The detective said that it was Mrs. McManigal who cut from the newspapers accounts of all the explosions caused by her husband and kept them for him to show to John J. McNamara, because the secretary and treasurer of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers always forced McManigal to produce such clippings before he would pay him for the "job."

REMARKABLE KIT OF TOOLS ON M'NAMARA WHEN ARRESTED

Detroit, Mich., December 1.—When James B. McNamara and Ortie E. McManigal were arrested at Woodward avenue and High street here on the afternoon of April 12 last, the public gained no knowledge of the charges that were held against the prisoners and even the Detroit police who assisted the Chicago detectives in making the arrests were kept in the dark as far as the Los Angeles case was concerned. The two prisoners were hurriedly taken to Chicago within a few hours and it was not until April 22 that the story of their connection with the destruction of The Los Angeles Times building was made public in Chicago.

When they were taken from Detroit they were supposed to be noted safebreakers, possessing the most remarkable kit of tools ever seen by the Detroit police. They were registered as Ortie McManigal, 32, and Frank Sullivan, 27, both of Chicago.

Reports gained circulation here that they had been captured on the eve of initiating a campaign of safe breaking here and that they had just finished such a campaign in Chicago.

The unique burglar kit which attracted so much attention at the time of the arrests was listed in the newspapers as follows: Five storage batteries, two magazine revolvers, one short rifle with Maxim muffler; two time clocks suitable for attaching to safes; one kodak; rolls of copper wire and bandages; wires with fuses attached; dry cell batteries; book of information about principal cities; insulation tape; burglars' tools of all descriptions; instruments for safe breaking and a supply of cartridges.

M'NAMARA CASE OCCUPIED MUCH TIME OF FEDERATION

That organized labor had absolute confidence in the innocence of the McNamaras and believed that the evidence would prove it, was plainly apparent during the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor in this city.

In speeches made from time to time during the two weeks of the convention President Gompers and other officials and delegates gave expression to this belief and charged that the prosecution of the McNamaras is a conspiracy hatched up by General Harrison Gray Otis, of The Times, and other enemies of labor for the purpose of checking the labor movement in this country.

The convention also adopted two or three resolutions in which the belief in the innocence of the prisoners and the hope that they would be acquitted was expressed.

$100,000 Was Raised.

The convention also adopted a resolution providing that each official of the labor movement should give one weeks' pay and that each delegate to the convention should give one day's pay to aid in the defense of the McNamaras. It was estimated that by this method probably $100,000 would be raised.

There was one resolution introduced which provided that $50,000 should be appropriated for the defense fund but the convention turned it down on the ground that the federation has not sufficient funds to appropriate that amount from the treasury. This resolution was introduced by socialists from California, who were especially active in behalf of the McNamaras.

Another instance of labor's belief in the innocence of the prisoners was the telegram the convention instructed President Gompers to send to them after receiving a telegram from the McNamaras sending greetings to the convention.

Belief in Innocence Implicit.

President Gompers had instructions to state that the convention had absolute belief in the innocence of the McNamara brothers and to express the hope that the trial would result in their acquittal. The motion that this telegram be sent was passed unanimously.

On the theory that his election would be of great aid to the McNamaras in their fight for freedom the convention adopted a resolution indorsing the candidacy of Job Harriman, socialist, for mayor of Los Angeles.

The convention was requested to take this action by the executive committee of the socialist party who stated that enemies of labor are making a vicious attack upon it in Los Angeles and that they are seeking to defeat Harriman who they said is a friend of labor.

In addition to defending the McNamaras whenever the occasion arose the convention also took a shot at Detective Burns, who arrested the McNamaras and who has been active in the effort to secure evidence against them.

Charged Kidnaping.

President Gompers and others in speeches in the convention charged that Burns had kidnaped the McNamaras and that he was hounding innocent men by methods which would do credit to the days of barbarism.

When the detective was given a vote of confidence by the secretaries' society of the American Bankers' Association in New Orleans last week the convention unanimously adopted a resolution declaring that such action tended to destroy confidence in banks and bankers rather than to increase it.

Spalding Court Reconvenes.

Griffin, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) The special term of Spalding superior court adjourned from last aSturday, reconvened at 8:30 o'clock this morning with Judge Robert T. Daniel presiding, and Solicitor General J. W. Wise at his desk. The first case called was that of Jim Harrison, charged with the murder of William McKune on the night of October last, on a side track near the rock quarry.

Big Crowd Witnesses Hanging

Palatka, Fla., December 1.—Will McCoy and Edgar Youmans, negroes, were hanged in the jail yard here at noon today, having been convicted of the murder of a man and woman of their own race some time ago. Fully 2,500 persons gathered to witness the execution, which was in the open jail yard.

Frost In Florida.

Tampa, Fla., December 1.—Light frosts fell over south Florida this morning, doing slight damage to tender vegetation.

The benefits to the citrus fruits, bringing color to oranges and grapefruit will offset any damage to growing garden truck. Ice was reported in some sections north of Tampa.

anything at all held back day after day the word that would end the trial.

"'Joe' is not in on this deal," the pale faced man reiterated with insistence born of one great idea. "I don't care what happens to me."

Summary of Day's Developments.

A summary of the day's happenings included the following incidents:

James B. McNamara pleaded guilty to having placed a dynamite bomb under The Los Angeles Times building in October, 1910, and caused the death of twenty-one persons.

John J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, brother of James B., did not enter a plea at this time to the indictment similarly entered against him for The Times explosion, but when he is arraigned next Tuesday it is virtually certain proceedings against him for this charge will be dismissed, as the state admits it has no evidence connecting John J. McNamara directly with this particular disaster.

John J. McNamara, however, pleaded guilty to the charge of having caused the explosion of the Llewellyn Iron Works, in which no fatalities occurred.

McManigal to Be Tried.

Ortie E. McManigal, who confessed to have actually blown up the Llewellyn Iron Works here in December, 1910, at the direction of John J. McNamara, will be brought to trial, but it is expected the state will recommend a light sentence, because he turned state's evidence.

Bribery charges against Bert H. Franklin, a detective employed by the McNamara defense, probably will be dropped now as irrelevant to the main issue.

This completes the part of the state of California in the affair, but District Attorney Fredericks declared tonight that if the United States government instituted any investigation concerning any unlawful transportation of dynamite, or if authorities elsewhere in the United tSates wished to delve into causes of explosions where labor was involved, it was a matter in which he had no further concern, though any information at his disposal would be given to the proper authorities desiring it.

A Dramatic Scene.

The scene in the court room today was one of protracted tension. Sensation followed sensation with such rapidity that the gaping crowd hardly realized what happened in those few minutes of formal procedure.

In less than twenty minutes the big case was disposed of, but for hours previously there had been a feeling that something startling would develop, and so closely guarded was the information that spectators were prepared for almost anything except the thing presented.

It was not thought that, after the vigorous battle waged thus far, one side would lay down its arm so willingly, so freely and even so happily—for both prisoners smiled, chewing gum, and appeared as they have on other days, confidently unconcerned. Even the district attorney was not sure until just before noon that the end was in sight.

There were to be developments in the court room, he told his associates, and all brought their wives and friends. In the crowd were detectives for both sides, many women and even a baby that emitted a whine almost simultaneously with the announcement of the pleas of guilty of John McNamara.

The Court Room Packed.

Thin brown curtains shaded a hot sunlight from the room. A mass of heads leaned forward expectantly as the hour for reconvening of court approached. Tensely waiting was a squad of newspaper men who had waded, though to no avail, through a maze of possibilities today to determine the reason for the sudden halting of the morning's proceedings.

Three little boxes concealing telegraphic wires were prepared for the developments and less than two seconds after the word "guilty" left the mouth of each defendant, the news was being flashed forth across the land.

Seated with District Attorney Fredericks was his entire staff. Facing him was Clarence S. Darrow and three associate counsel for the defendants.

James B. McNamara at first took a seat to one side, as usual, with two deputies, but soon Attorney Joseph Scott beckoned to him. The two men sat together for a few minutes. Scott's arms were about the prisoner's neck and he counseled courage for the supreme crisis.

It was James B. McNamara who had balked at entering into an arrangement to plead guilty if it might affect his brother. He was willing to sacrifice himself, but he wanted his brother to go free. The attorneys, however, convinced that the better course was for both to plead guilty and take their chances on a merciful sentence.

The First Ripple.

Word that John J. McNamara was coming caused the first ripple of excitement. He had not visited the court room since October 11, when the trials were begun and the case of the McNamaras was severed. When he entered it was generally realized that the case had reached a climax.

The bailiff rapped louder than usual when Judge Walter Bordwell mounted the bench. Instant silence fell.

"The people versus McNamara," remarked the court and Attorney Lecompte Davis, of the defense, arose.

"In this case," he declared, "after long consideration we have concluded to withdraw the plea of not guilty and have the defendant enter a plea of guilty, and the like course we intend to pursue with reference to J. J. McNamara, in the case of the people against him, wherein he is charged with having destroyed the Llewellyn Iron Works."

Mr. Fredericks: "Mr. J. B. McNamara, will you stand up, please."

Enter Pleas of Guilty.

The defendant arose.

Mr. Fredericks: "Mr. J. B. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on this indictment number 6939 and have entered your plea thereto of not guilty. Do you now wish to withdraw that plea of not guilty?"

The defendant: "Yes, sir."

Mr. Fredericks: "The prisoner answers yes. J. B. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on this indictment as stated before and you have withdrawn your plea of not guilty heretofore entered. Do you wish now to plead at this time?"

Mr. Davis: "At this time, yes, sir."

Mr. Fredericks: "To this indictment number 6939 charging you with the crime of murder, do you plead guilty or not guilty?"

The defendant: "Guilty."

Mr. Fredericks: "Guilty, your honor. Do the court and counsel for the defense wish to take up the other case?"

The court: "I will dispose of this matter and fix the time for sentence. The court appoints the time for pronouncing judgment in this case as 10 o'clock on Tuesday, the 5th day of December, 1911."

Mr. Fredericks: "J. J. McNamara, will you stand up, please."

He arose.

Mr. Fredericks: "J. J. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on indictment number 6955, in which you are charged with the crime of exploding or attempting to dynamite, nitroglycerin, etc., in the buildings or near the buildings adjacent to the Llewelyn Iron Works. You have been arraigned on that indictment and entered your plea of not guilty. Do you now wish to withdraw that plea of not guilty?"

The defendant: "I do."

Mr. Fredericks: "Do you wish now at this time to plead to the indictment?"

The defendant: "I do."

Mr. Fredericks: "J. J. McNamara, you have heretofore been arraigned on indictment number 6955. This is the time agreed upon for you to plead to the same. Do you want to plead guilty or not guilty?"

The defendant: "Guilty."

Mr. Fredericks: "Guilty, your honor."

The court: "Well, I will appoint the time for pronouncing the judgment in this case as 10 a. m., December 5, 1911, which is next Tuesday."

Rush for the Inclosure.

There was a rush for the inclosure where the attorneys sat when court adjourned. A group flocked around District Attorney Fredericks to congratulate him on the way he had worked up his case. He smiled in return—not a smile of exultation, but relief.

"I don't want a pound of flesh," he explained.

"I look at this from two viewpoints. As a lawyer I wanted these men to plead guilty because they were guilty—because the evidence we gathered showed them guilty beyond any doubt. But as a man, I want to say that if I can recommend a less severe punishment than death or be merciful in any way and at the same time rid union labor of its desire to use violence to obtain its ends, I want to do that thing."

Darrow Shows Strain.

Around Attorney Clarence S. Darrow gathered a crowd, too. From him the questioners wanted to know how it all had happened and why? Darrow's face was pale. The long wrinkled in his cheeks looked even deeper than usual and he talked in a low husky voice that indicated great fatigue.

"It was a hard struggle to bring this about, but it was the best thing that could have happened," he said. "I did the best I could."

Ortie E. McManigal, the confessed dynamiter whose admissions are said to have been a big factor in the McNamara's pleading guinlty, will go virtually free, if the plans of the state in his behalf do not go wrong.

After court had adjourned this afternoon Malcom McLaren, the Burns detective who has been a daily visitor to McManigal's cell since the dynamiter was brought here last spring ald has always sponek in a friendly way to the prisoner, came upon District Attorney Fredericks in the latter's office.

"There's just one thing I want to ask you," said McLaren to Fredericks, "and that is that you do all you can for McManigal."

Fredericks held up his right hand as he answered:

"I promise you I'll do all in my power for him. He may have to take a light sentence, but I'l do the best I can."

Later in McManigal's sell, after the dynamiter had gone into the story of the Llewellyn Iron Works explosion last Christmas, McLaren told him privately of what Fredericks had promised. McManigal was greatly affected when he learned that the state had become his friend. His eyes filled with tears and his voice choked so that he could hardly stammer his thanks.

Labor Leaders Refuse to Talk.

Washington, December 1.—Labor leaders at the national headquarters of the American Federation of Labor would not comment tonight upon the unexpected turn in affairs in the McNamara case nor its bearing upon the cause of organized labor.

Secretary Frank Morrison, of the federation, refused, in Mr. Gompers' absence, to discuss the situation. He may make a statement tomorrow.

That the temper of the American Federation of Labor had not changed toward the McNamara case was evidenced late today, when almost simultaneously with the confession of the accused men in Los Angeles, there was mailed from federation headquarters a weekly news letter summarizing events of importance in the labor world during the past several days and ridiculing the proceedings in Los Angeles.

The letter says:

"In order that further newspaper notoriety may be secured to bolster up the prosecution in the McNamara case another 'scheme' has been unearthed, according to the press dispatches by the lieutenants of the various hostile employers' associations in their effort to railroad the accused men to the gallows. The dispatches stated that a man employed by the defense to investigate the character and the interest of intended jurors has been detected in the act of bribing prospective jurors and the beneficiary has also been 'detected' with his pockets bulging with the coin of the realm."

Iron Workers' Union to Act.

Cincinnati, December 1.—"Until the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Iron Workers meet at Indianapolis, probably within the next ten days, I cannot say what action will be taken or could be by our organization in reference to the pleas of guilty entered today by the McNamara brothers," said H. S. Hockin, second vice president and acting secretary of the association. Mr. Hockin arrived here tonight from Indianapolis.

"Will the McNamara brothers be repudiated by your organization?" was asked by the Associated Press correspondent. "The board will have to decide that question," answered Mr. Hockin.

"Our members have always had the greatest confidence in the brothers and have done all in their power to assist them in the greatest fight that has ever confronted the labor world," he continued.

Hodgson Returns.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) Mr. Prince Hodgson, accompanied by members of his family and also by Miss Mildred Rutherford, returned tonight from Rabun Gap, where they spent Thanksgiving day with the children of the Rabun Gap Industrial school. Mr. Hodgson, who with his brother gave $10,000 to the school on condition that the Women's Federation give as much, carried with him more than $200 in cash as prize money for the best showings which the students have made on the farm and in the shops. Miss Rutherford went to see the work in actual progress that she may be able next month in her lecture before the southern societies in New York to tell first hand of the enterprise and its results—present and prospective. The women will raise the remaining $300 of the amount they must have in hand to complete the $20,000 fund.

M'NAMARA HOME DARKENED BY NEWS OF CONFESSION

Cincinnati, Ohio, December 1.—Had a bolt descended from a clear sky it could not have cast a greater shadow of gloom over the home of James B. and John J. McNamara in Cincinnati than did the news of their pleas of guilty today.

"I know my boys are innocent," wailed Mrs. Mary McNamara, their grief-stricken mother. "I am forced to believe that they have pleaded guilty, but I know they are innocent."

When questioned as to her plans and as to whether she would go to Los Angeles to see her boys, she said:

"I do not know. In fact, I cannot decide upon anything now."

Tears that had been bravely held back during this short interview brimmed to the surface and in a burst of sorrow the aged mother was led into another room by her daughter, Miss Mary McNamara.

Mrs. McNamara first learned of the pleas while on a street car on her way home. She refused to believe it until she was apprised of the news at her home. She returned from the west a few days ago.

Also protesting even in the face of the confession, Robert and Mary, brother and sister of the men, refused to believe them guilty. Neither of them seemed to be wrought up over the confession and while they refused to answer many of the questions put to them they stated they believed their brothers innocent. In a clear, cool manner, Robert McNamara said:

"I do not believe my brothers guilty of the crimes to which they have confessed. Our family received a letter letter from James dated November 24, just a few days ago, in which he wrote favorably of the progress of the proceedings in the case. He did not deviate any in this last letter from any we have received in the past, all of which were filled with cheering news. As for Frank Eckhoff, I believe he knows nothing of the case, but is pretending in order to receive money for his services."

During the interview Robert's sister, Mary, stood by, but did not utter a word. With a slight nod of the head she coincided with what her brother said and like him, did not seem moved at the news.

LABOR LOATH TO ACCEPT

If the McNamaras are guilty of the heinous crime charged to them, then labor would be among the first to ask for the law to be enforced.

"Labor itself has no connection with the case, and its cause can not be in the slightest injured by a confession of their guilt, if such has been made. We are not responsibe for the acts of misguided individuas.

"Our only interests in the McNamaras was to see that they received an absolutely square deal.

"Labor was shocked by the manner of their arrest, and the way in which they were hurried out of one state and into another. It seemed that if the prosecution had the case it claimed to have, one strong enough to convict, that the arrest would have been made more in accordance with the law.

"The prisoners were in need of assistance, needed counsel to aid them and money to help them in their defense. It seemed to us that they were innocent. We believed their story. The action of the state in slipping them from one state to another seemed a confession of weakness.

"All we have ever asked in their case, however, has been a just and square trial. If they were innocent, we wanted them given every opportunity to secure their freedom; if guilty, the state would lose nothing by labor supplying them with means sufficient to bring out all the facts in the case."

Mr. Ryan had not returned to his hotel up to a late hour, but he had heard the news and is said to have told some of his friends with whom he was talking at the time that he could not reconcile the confession with his knowledge of J. J. McNamara with whom he had been daily associated for years.

That organized labor had implicit confidence in the innocence of the McNamaras is proven by the endorsement voted them not only by the American Federation during its Atlanta session, but by similar actions taken by nearly every national and international labor organization in their annual sessions.

Called McNamara Kind-hearted.

President Gompers, one of the best judges of men in public life, has frequently expressed his unbounded confidence in the brothers and has spoken of them as men incapable of a crime which shocked the entire civilized world. Only a few days ago while in Atlanta he referred to J. J. McNamara as a gentle, kind-hearted, generous man.

Jerome Jones, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor and editor of The Atlanta Journal of Labor, when advised of the confession was dumbfounded.

"I can hardly believe it," he said. "Had the crime been proven at the end of an exhaustive trial I don't know but what I'd had doubts without the confession. But that confession—oh, well, let's hope some mistake has been made. I knew both of those boys personlly and I never met two young men with brighter prospects and with better surroundings. They were popular with all classes. They were high-toned and honorable, at least that was the impression they created wherever they went. Why should they destroy a bright future? That's what confuses me. It appears to me that it would have been better for them and their friends if they had been proven guilty than to acknowledge it. However, the general public cannot charge that crime to organized labor because the men acted only of their own will. Organized labor has grown into the hearts of the people of this country too deeply for them to believe they have been fooled by the men who compose the ranks of labor of this country. But what's the use talking. The least said the better."

"We Deplore the Act"—Still.

Luther Still, president of the Atlanta Typographical Union, and one of the most prominent labor leaders of the city, last night had the following to say of the McNamara confession:

"We deplore the act to which the McNamara brothers have confessed. This confession, however, will not affect the cause of trade unionism. The principles for which it stands are too well known and appreciated by the intelligent people of all classes. The McNamaras should be punished the same as any other criminals. In fact, there is no punishment too great for them."

A REBUKE TO JUDICIAL ANARCHY.

Against the menace of actual judicial anarchy as represented by a judge of the second highest court of last resort in the state passing on causes from the bench one day, and the next day ranting partisan tirades from the hustings as a gubernatorial candidate, there rises a tidal wave of protest from the most eminent jurists in Georgia.

Judge John L. Hopkins, Nestor of the Georgia bar, felt so outraged at the spectacle that he denounced it publicly in Atlanta, stating that, if condoned, it would lead to judicial "anarchy."

Approval quickly manifested itself from all Georgia, and The Constitution had occasion yesterday to comment upon a remarkable feature of the criticism that comes from all parts of the state—that of many lawyers being afraid to give utterance to their views lest it may give personal offense to one of three judges who are to pass upon cases now under their consideration.

Others speak out boldly. For instance, William W. Gordon, Jr., a prominent attorney of Savannah, and a member of the executive committee of the Georgia Bar Association, declares:

"A judge of the court of appeals should remain upon the bench and attend to his judicial duties. It is repugnant to the best ethics of the profession for Judge Russell to wage a political campaign while sitting as a judge of one of our highest courts."

Samuel B. Adams, of Savannah, himself a former justice of the state supreme court, and one of the ablest lawyers in Georgia, gives utterance to this scathing rebuke and warning:

"I entirely endorse the views of Judge Hopkins relative to a judge stumping the state for another office. If a judge wishes to do this he ought first to resign his judgeship."

Here is another prominent lawyer, high in the official counsels of the Georgia Bar Association, registering his resentment, but driven by fear of prejudicing his clients' causes, to resort to anonymity. He writes:

"Editor Constitution: I acknowledge your request for my opinion as to the correctness of Judge Hopkins' position that judges should keep out of politics while in service as a part of the judiciary of the state. The correctness of the principle is most forcibly shown by the fact that it cannot be safely discussed by lawyers in active practice. Being such, I conceal my identity.

"Present conditions are the natural and inevitable result of electing judges by the people. That system injects politics into the administration of justice; that inoculation breeds contempt for the courts; that attitude, becoming general as it rapidly is, means the ultimate overthrow of our most cherished liberties. The personal application to the present campaign pales into insignificance compared with the possibilities of evil imbedded in the system. If, by this discussion, public opinion can be aroused to the danger and change the system before further harm is done, Judge Russell's campaign will be a benediction to the state, whatever may be the result of the gubernatorial election."

In this connection, what a striking contrast between South Carolina and Georgia is shown in the action of Chief Justice Ira B. Jones, of South Carolina, who expects to run next year as a candidate for governor of that state. But he will not even make his official announcement until he has resigned from his judicial position, stating that no judge should even announce for office, much less campaign for it, while on the bench.

One of the most highly regarded men in Georgia, Judge Spencer R. Atkinson, is supporting the candidate-judge. Yet in 1892, while judge of the Brunswick circuit, and reaching the decision to offer for congress, this high-minded Georgia jurist resigned from his judicial position, saying:

"Feeling that the proprieties of judicial position will constrain a silence upon occasion when I should speak in vindication of the views I have upon public questions, I have reached the conclusion to resign."

I. J. Hofmayer, of Albany, member of the executive committee of the State Bar Association, denounces the "unseemly conduct of a judge of one of our highest courts in canvassing for a political office while holding his judicial position."

An ex-president of the Georgia Bar Association, ex-Congressman William H. Fleming, of Augusta, says:

"In the principle contended for Judge Hopkins is clearly right and no matter what the result of the pending campaign may be, the bar and the state now owes him other debts of gratitude for his manly deliverance on this subject."

Such condemnations could be multiplied indefinitely. Sufficient to say that no judge in Georgia defends or condones the utter lack of regard for the state's most sacred institutions set forth in the conduct of the candidate-judge. There is probably not one in the whole state who is supporting him on a precedent that sets at defiance human rights, liberty, property for the sake of political preferment.

The people of Georgia may be depended upon to put an end to this sort of a thing in Georgia—for we imagine that it will be a long time before another judge makes this venture while on the bench.

FRIENDLY TALK TO FARM BOYS.

There is a pertinent lesson to the young farm boys of Georgia and other southern states in the unfortunate experiences in Atlanta of several young men from Wilkes and other Georgia and southern counties. Baited by an advertisement which led them to believe they could come here and speedily become expert chauffeurs at high pay, they abandoned the farm. Most of them have been disillusioned and find they must make a fresh start in some other direction.

The lure of the city is proverbial and perennial, but at no time in the history of the country should it count less than right now as against the solid and proved advantages offered by the farm. Young men still start out boldly to seek "careers" in the city. But on the farms of the country, especially the farms of Georgia, there are careers far more attractive from the financial standpoint with the added handicap of dealing with conditions with which they are familiar.

As demonstrated in practically every issue of The Constitution, and as crystallized in our Homeseekers' Edition, published on Thanksgiving Day, there are fortunes waiting to be picked up from Georgia soil. The farms of this state produce everything that the market demands, and that sell as readily for cash, and often more profitably, than cotton itself. The boy who starts upon farming as a career is today assured the inestimable aid of scientific agriculture. There are a dozen state and federal institutions at his disposal, ready with high paid expert advice as to the crops he should select, the best manner in which they should be cultivated and the most effectual way to combat insect foes.

With the entire nation turning its eyes toward the farms of the south, with home seekers in the west and northwest developing a tendency to sell out and locate here under the most favorable conditions for fortune making—our own boys, here and there, appear blind to the opportunities literally being thrust at them. These young men from Wilkes, and elsewhere, should read a lesson in the spirit back of the boys' corn club movement, which has encompassed the south. Under state and federal stimulus, and the encouragement of far-seeing men of wealth, scores of thousands of young southerners are seeing the advantages in the land, and preparing to reap them.

That is the angle from which we should like to see every vigorous farm boy in Georgia regard the situation. Not only is farming made easier and more profitable for him than for his father and grandfather, but life in the country is infinitely more attractive. Rural free delivery, good roads, daily, weekly and tri-weekly newspapers, the rural 'phone and half a dozen other vital factors, conspire to make the Georgia farm one of the best possible places upon which to found and build a career.

Fortune, sure and unsurrounded by contingencies save those of the personal equation, lies right at the hand of every farm boy in Georgia. Better stay there!

REVOKING THE "RULE OF SILENCE."

In the spirit of broad humanity with which he regards and handles the problems of penology, it is probable that Warden Moyer, of the Atlanta federal prison, will soon find himself blazing a national trail in the effectual rehabilitation of criminals. From the beginning of the warden's administration, his theory has been that men were no less human for the fact that they had broken laws, and he has acted upon it. The creed has borne fruit in a decidedly constructive fashion.

His latest innovation is the temporary revocation of the "rule of silence," conventionally assumed to be one of the immutable regulations of prison life. By permission from Washington, he granted leave to the prisoners, during their Thanksgiving Day dinner, to break the silence imposed during meal hours and to talk freely with each other. The Constitution story runs that, at first, the privilege almost scared these men of shut mouths, but that finally they took advantage of it with a zest that was refreshing to the spectator. The warden warned them that the abrogation of the rule was simply an experiment, and that its repetition depended upon whether they used or abused the privilege.

Taken in conjunction with the outdoor and indoor sports he has arranged for the inmates of the big institution, and his steady effort to mitigate the harsher features of prison life without prejudice to discipline, this new departure is a tribute to Warden Moyer's perspicacity. It is distinctly in line with the twentieth century penology, which teaches that imprisonment for breaking of laws is not for punitive, but for corrective purposes. Gradually we have been getting away from old and false notions in the treatment of the criminal, as of the lunatic, and seeing that it is more profitable in the long run to restore him, capable and self-respecting, to society than to break his spirit.

The penalty of silence is one of the hardest visited upon the criminal, whether he be an amateur or a calloused customer. This is said without any patience with mawkishness, but simply as a feature of psychology, and ultimately of economics. To withhold from men the privilege of conversing with their fellows is to turn their thoughts inward. Introspective minds can not be healthy minds. They are apt to become morbid, with the owner emerging from his term more warped and hopeless than when he entered upon it.

It is imperative, of course, that discretion be employed in the experiment. It is possible for the less conscientious of prisoners to abuse latitude and plot against the discipline and the more fundamental rules of penal institutions. But safely used, as the innovation will be by Warden Moyer, it should prove a valuable adjunct in promoting the ends for which prisons are maintained.

WHILE JUDGE RUSSELL ASKS FOR VOTES, WOMEN OF BARTOW WILL PRAY GOD TO DEFEAT HIM

Cartersville, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—When Judge R. B. Russell, local option candidate for governor of Georgia, opens his political meeting tomorrow morning in Cartersville, he will find that the ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union holding an opposition meeting in the First Baptist church, directly opposite the courthouse. While Judge Russell appeals to the voters of Bartow county for votes, the good women will appeal to God to prevent the candidate from receiving a single vote in the county.

This afternoon the ladies are busily engaged in mailing literature denouncing Russell's local option platform, and the liquor traffic generally.

Every effort will be made to prevent Judge Russell from having a crowd tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, when his address is scheduled to be delivered in the courthouse.

The First Baptist church is directly opposite the courthouse, and the ladies will endeavor to secure the greater part of Judge Russell's audience.

A prayer meeting conducted by prominent prohibitionists will be held by the ladies and prayers will be offered to prevent the success of Judge Russell and his platform.

It is expected that a decidedly interesting situation will develop from the unique opposition meetings. This is Judge Russell's first visit to Bartow county, and a large crowd is expected to hear him.

CIVIC UPLIFT HOME OPENS IN ATHENS

Hiawassee Settlement Home Is Visited by Hundreds on Opening Day.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) Hiawassee Settlement Home, under the immediate direction of the ladies of the city's union home mission workers and in charge of Mrs. J. L. Julian, opened yesterday and between 500 and 600 of the members of the families in the Southern Manufacturing company's village visited the home and were entertained during the day—the children in the morning, the married people, fathers and mothers, in the afternoon and the young men and women at night. A separate entertainment was given and different refreshments were served to each class.

The public is being entertained there today to see the work that is being done for the general uplift, the brightening of the lives of the people in the settlement—reading rooms, domestic science classes, various forms of diversion and amusement being afforded. One of the officials of the mill has given $1,200 to the work.

DELTA TAU DELTA REVIVES GA. CHAPTER

Southern Conference Holds Session in Athens With Many Delegates.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) The southern conference of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity is in session here for two days, the opening session being this morning at 10 o'clock and a delightful smoker being enjoyed tonight. A banquet at the Georgian will conclude the social features of the meet Saturday evening.

Special business of the conference includes the installation of the officers in the revived chapter at the University of Georgia. The institution takes place tomorrow, the arch chapter having granted the needful permit for the revival of the charter of the chapter which became extinct several years ago. Under the style of the "Utopian Club" the petition went to the Karnea at Chicago last summer and was granted.

A fine bunch of fellows will compose the re-established chapter here. Leonard Snyder, of New York, is here and representatives to the number of 75 are present from Emory, Washington and Lee, Mississippi and several other southern colleges, besides a number of alumni who are scattered over the state.

VOTE FOR RUSSELL IS VOTE FOR LAWLESSNESS; VOTE FOR POPE BROWN IS THROWN AWAY

—Thomas E. Watson

(Thomas E. Watson in Progressive Democrat.)

Pope Brown cannot be elected governor. He has never fought a single day for prohibition. He has been as mum as a mouse when the great battles of the past were raging. He has never contributed one iota to our past victories. We owe him absolutely nothing.

Every vote cast for Pope Brown is wasted. Every such vote will help Dick Russell. EVERY SUCH VOTE IS A LOSS TO PROHIBITION.

Mark my words:

If Dick Russell should be elected, or should poll a heavy vote, the whole question of saloons or no saloons will be ripped open again. The state will be kept in a turmoil, for years and years.

The more stinging the rebuke administered to Judge Russell for leaving the bench of one of our highest courts, and thrusting this issue into the campaign, the less we will hear of it in the future.

The prohibition law is as successful as the law against pistol toting, or the law against gambling; and it tends to demoralize the people and to put a premium on lawlessness, for an appellate court judge to leave his duties, and go, hot-foot, all over the state PREPARING THE WAY FOR THE BARROOMS TO RETURN. Judge Russell knows full well what the natural fruit of the saloon is. He knows its inherent tendency to undo the work of parents, of schools and of churches. He knows, as well as you do, what it does for fathers and husbands and sons—what it does for wives and mothers. Judge Russell deserves a crushing defeat. He has set a bad example.

Holding one high office, he forsakes its duties and rushes about, begging for another. A sworn officer of the law, he brings the law into derision and contempt. He has lowered his own dignity, and that of the court of which he is a member.

Let us rebuke this conduct and thus insure ourselves against a repetition of it. Let us unite on Joe Brown, and thus make certain that the prohibition law will remain on the statute-book.

THIS CHIEF JUSTICE RESIGNS BEFORE ENTERING POLITICS

Editor Constitution: I would be glad if you would call attention to the manly course of Chief Justice Ira B. Jones, of South Carolina, who states he will be a candidate for governor of South Carolina next year, but will resign as chief justice as soon as the legislature meets in session in January, 1912. Mr. Justice Jones is not making a single political speech. Compare your judge with the course of the South Carolinan.

W. T. CARTLEDGE.

Atlanta, Ga.

W. D. UPSHAW REPLIES TO GOVERNOR BROWN

Attacks Position He Takes In Regard to Prohibition Issue.

In a lengthy statement in reply to Governor Joseph M. Brown, W. D. Upshaw, editor of The Golden Age, has the following to say, among other things:

I was vice president of the Georgia Anti-Saloon League at the time my good friend, Judge W. R. Hammond, the president, had to be restrained by his friends from publishing a declaration in favor of allowing beer saloons while our statewide prohibition bill was pending, and this fact, asfde from every impulse of patriotism, calls to every fiber of my being to defend our prohibition law against assassination in the house of its friends.

Governor Brown says he has always voted the prohibition ticket. Very good. That means that he thinks the sale of liquor is wrong—a civic and moral wrong; and yet he now says that if a barroom should be served up to him some fine morning for breakfast by the vote of the people, he would complacently swallow the whole dirty thing, regardless of its sickening influence upon his own morals and the morals and safey of the state. And in order to keep himself in that state of mind and heart so the thing won't go quite so hard with him, he blandly proposes to keep his guardian arms around the law-breawing beer saloons whether on Decatur street or in Savannah, and hold them close to his paternal and fraternal bosom until "the people" rise up and tell him it is time to stop the shame. May the Lord deliver us from leadership (?) like that.

Says They Go Together.

If Monte Carlo and "the people" were to bring him as governor, a bill legalizing gambling he would sign the bill because "the people" said so. And he might as well—for barrooms and gambling go together. Governor Brown, you cannot escape the logic of this conclusion.

Judge Russell has the moral, or rather the immoral courage to try to lead the people to the shame and crime of legalized barrooms, but Governor Brown expresses no preference for or against statewide prohibition. He refuses to try to lead toward the home and against the saloon.

Since the liquor forces under the leadership of "Plain Dick" Russell threw down a jug of whisky as the gauntlet in this campaign we want a candidate for governor who declares like Pope Brown, that all the distilleries and breweries in America, all the people in Georgia and all the devils in hell cannot make him sign a barroom bill.

We have always sought a vote of the people in order to get rid of the barrooms, but now that we are rid of them by the righteous, democratic enactment of a democratic legislature—a legislature representing the overwhelming majority of prohibition counties in Georgia, where the people had already spoken, nobody but a whisky-sympathizer or a stone-blind prohibitionist, or mayhap, a compromise candidate for office, would advocate bringing on an unnecessary election that would give the whisky forces a fighting chance to sit again on the throne of Georgia laws and Georgia politics. The people did not vote liquor in. The legislature did the awful deed. Why should not the legislature have the right to vote it out and keep it out?

Says Words Were Twisted.

Again I complain that despite his reputation for linguistic scholarship, Governor Brown openly, flagrantly twists my words into a meaning I never dreamed—a meaning refuted by the very words themselves. Hear him again:

"Mr. Upshaw, not by inference, but in direct words, charges that the white voters in this state are so corrupt that they are not to be trusted in the settlement of this great question."

I deny the allegation.

By leaving out the preceding paragraph this nimble, genial, agreeable, gubernatorial "wizard of words" tries to compare the wondrous feat of putting Pope Brown, Dick Russell, the gifted Mrs. Armor and Upshaw on the same platform.

I did not say that all the white and black voters of Georgia can be bought by liquor and money. I said that the breweries and distillers would pour money into Georgia, "buying white votes and negro votes." There are thousands, thank God, that they could not buy; but there has never been a statewide prohibition election where the whisky forces did not buy "white votes and negro votes." They buy them in different ways, but they buy them all the same—with money, or liquor or promise of office. And any man who is not as blind as a bat, or as verdant as a blade of grass knows this is true. And any man who is wise enough and patriotic enough to be governor of Georgia ought not to wish to bring such an unnecessary campaign upon his people.

YOUNG BOY RAISES 225 BUSHELS CORN ON ACRE

At Expense of $78.50 Makes Crop Worth $190—Probably Record For State.

Memphis, Tenn., December 1.—Bernie Thomas, 17, member of a boy's corn club near Lake Cormorant, De Soto county, Miss., raised 225 bushels of corn on one acre of ground this year at a gross expense of $78.50. The market value of his one acre crop is $190. His profit is $111.50.

The corn yield on his father's farm is from 40 to 60 bushels to the acre. Bernie, in Memphis last night, expressed the hope that he would be proclaimed the leading boy corn grower of Mississippi, when all the returns for the season are in.

Thirst or Cold.

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Whether the cold weather is responsible or the increased shipments just naturally the result of the thirst of citizens of this section are two questions that are being discussed as a result of the heavy shipments of whisky from Jacksonville and other whisky cities. The express and freight both handle large quantities now, something out of the ordinary so far in advance of the season that everyone looks for booze. The country districts seem to be getting equally as much of the wet goods as the cities and towns of this section.

Habersham Lands.

Clarkesville, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Habersham county real estate has been unusually active this fall and many large deals for immense tracts have been consummated. One of the largest was the purchase of what is known as the "Owens farm" and the "Clayton farm" for the total consideration of $37,000, by Dr. Lee Hardaman, of Commerce, Ga. Dr. Hardaman will expend considerable money and put these farms in the highest state of cultivation possible. He is now operating a large farm in Nacoochee Valley, north of here, with a large dairy from which he receives considerable revenue yearly.

Troup Sends 20 to Corn Show.

LaGrange, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Arrangements have been completed for the transportation of twenty young farmers of Troup county, members of the corn club, to Atlanta, on Wednesday next. The delegation's expenses will be paid by the chamber of commerce in so far as the exhibition is concerned. L. C. Davis, government farm land demonstrator, and County School Commissioner W. C. Davidson will accompany the boys. Arrangements have been made whereby a float will be decorated with Troup county corn.

HOMESEEKERS' EDITION IS ACCORDED GREAT TRIBUTE

Albany, Ga., November 30.—Editor Constitution: This is not a perfunctory letter of congratulation from a friend, but a sincere expression from a critic and customer.

I write to tell you how entirely pleased were your customers in Albany when they received the Homeseekers' Edition of The Constitution today. I have not heard a single disappointment expressed.

Speaking for myself, I think your paper was all that it possibly could have been. It set forth the advantages of the state in an attractive and convincing manner. It will surely bring fine returns to those who have patronized its advertising columns.

We were especially pleased with the Albany page and the way you handled it. Southwest Georgia received one of the biggest boosts it has ever had.

Thanking you for your generosity in dealing with us, and assuring you of my warmest personal regards, I beg to remain,

Yours cordially,

J. A. DAVIS,
Bus. Manager Albany Herald.

CITY NEWS

Petition in Bankruptcy.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday with the clerk of the federal court by S. Margon, an ad writer. The papers of file show liabilities amounting to $2,205.92 without any assests.

Receipts Show Gain.—The postoffice receipts for the month of November, just closed, were $107,674.12, while for the same month one year ago the income was $92,741.69, making a difference in favor of November of this year of $14,741.43 over November of the last year.

Maid Is Bound Over.—Sarah Glass, at the Peachtree inn, was bound over yesterday for larceny, when detectives exhibited to the court a big pile of linen, household articles and finery which, it is charged, she had stolen from the hotel. The finery was said to belong to Miss Mary Rosser, of Griffin.

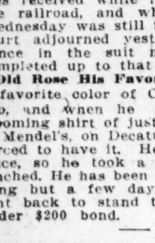

Goodwyn Was Toastmaster.—In the report of the Owls' banquet in Friday's Constitution it was inadvertently stated that President Stevenson, of the club, was toastmaster. The toastmaster was Thomas F. Goodwyn, one of the trustees, and he made one of the most pleasing and interesting presiding heads that ever sat at a banquet board.

Suit Still in Progress.—The suit in the United States court, Judge Newman presiding, brought by John Long against the Louisville and Nashville for $25,000 damages for alleged injuries received while in the service of the railroad, and which was opeend Wednesday was still in progress when court adjourned yesterday, the evidence in the suit not having been completed up to that hour.

Old Rose His Favorite.—Old rose is a favorite color of Chester Holt, negro, and when he saw a brightly blooming shirt of just the right shade in Mendel's, on Decatur street, he was forced to have it. He didn't have the price, so he took a chance—and got pinched. He has been out of the chaingang but a few days, and has been sent back to stand trial for larceny, under $200 bond.

Liquid Delight Confiscated.—County Officers Davis and Casey yesterday interrupted somebody's Thanksgiving cheer by confiscating two dray loads of whisky. There were 1,800 pints, valued at $1,500. The county officers discovered the peripatetic tiger out at Tenth street and Howell Mill road. They telephoned their information to Zach Rowan, who in turn telephoned the city police. The latter arrested two negro drivers and took charge of the whisky. A. D. Clifton, who, according to the police, is the owner of the whisky, was not arrested, however, as he did not come into the city.

STANDARD OIL IN 33 DIVISIONS

New Stock Causes Confusion in Wall Street

Thirty-three Subidiary Companies Into Which Standard Oil Divided After Court Decreed Its Dissolution Began. Existence Friday.

New York, December 1.—The thirty-three subsidiary companies into which the Standard Oil Company divided after the supreme court decreed its dissolution, began their separate, individual existence today.

Some 208,000 new stock certificates, containing proportionate shares in these companies, were mailed yesterday to 6,000-odd stockholders of the old Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. With the certificates was sent information giving the location of the headquarters of the thirty-three companies, the dates of their organization and the dates of their annual meetings.

No provision has been made for the elimination of the fractional shares now distributed. The usual Wall street practice of having fractional shares listed on the stock exchange and dealt in until they become consolidated, into full shares is not possible in this case, because at present the oil shares in general cannot be listed. Brokers said today, however, that some plan for the elimination or cancellation of the fractional shares undoubtedly would be worked out.

Suit Against Southern.—Mrs. Lucy Hawkins Higgs has filed suit for $15,000 damages against the Southern Railway Company for injuries alleged to have been received in the wreck which occurred September 22 at Armor, Ga. Her husband, Sherwood Higgs, has filed a supplementary suit for $5,000. Reuben Arnold is the attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Higgs. Mrs. Katie Pyron, through John Z. Foster and Reuben Arnold, has also filed suit against the Southern for $30,000 as recompense for the death of her husband, E. G. Pyron, who was killed in the recent wreck near Chattahoochee station.

Bound Over for Shooting.—A. K. Taber, of the Seventeenth infantry, was bound over yesterday for assault with attempt to murder and carrying concealed weapons under $1,000 bond, as the result of a Thanksgiving frolic on Decatur street. He shot and slightly wounded J. S. Dunaway, of 419 Washington street. Taber claimed that shooting was the result of an accident, and the trigger of the pistol, which would not stay "cocked," was exhibited as evidence of how it could have been fired when he was showing it to someone. Dunaway said he had been cursed by Taber just previous to the shooting.

"A Pauper in Heaven."—Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, Dr. L. O. Bricker, of the First Christian church, will have as his subject, "A Pauper in Heaven." The doubt of many at the present time is whether a soul is saved at the last moment, or whether it is possible for a soul to be saved in heaven while the life is lost. Dr. Bricker will, in his usual earnest, convincing manner, treat this subject from a scriptural standpoint only.

SAVANNAH GETS NEXT CONFERENCE

Competing Cities Withdraw and Savannah Is Chosen.

South Georgia Conference Celebrates Board of Missions Anniversary, Hears Reports and Elects Elders. Ministers Are Superannuated.

By Rev. W. A. Brooks.

Bainbridge, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—After a fervent devotional service conducted by Rev. George W. Mathews, of Thomasville, the South Georgia Conference convened today promptly at 9 a. m. Revs. E. W. Gray, P. T. Holloway, R. W. Cannon, B. D. Bourn, G. R. Partina, E. R. Cowart, L. B. Michael and R. S. Stewart were elected to elders orders and will be ordained next Sunday by Bishop Morrison. Revs. John F. Yancey and C. E. Dell were continued in the class of the third year. Revs. J. Frank Snell, Alex S. Powell, Wm. P. Ivey and J. Mack Clark, local preachers, were elected to deacons orders.

Revs. L. P. Rogers and W. C. McGill were admitted on trial into the itenerant ranks of the conference. These make a total of nineteen who have been admitted at this session. R. F. Burden, of Macon, was re-elected conference lay leader. Rev. J. H. Mather, of Macon, conference co-reporter, reported 8,000 miles traveled, 5,500 books sold, and 200 sermons preached. Rev. R. E. Bailey, of Ellaville, made report for the joint board of finance.

Finance Board Reports.

This board disbursed this year $6,000 to superannuated preachers and to the widows and orphans of preachers. Dr. James Cannon, Jr., representing the Southern Assembly Grounds, located at Waynesville, N. C., addressed the conference in behalf of this enterprise. A resolution heartily endorsing these Assembly Grounds was introduced by Dr. W. N. Ainsworth and was adopted by the conference. Invitations to hold the next session of the conference in their respective cities and churches were extended by Rev. Osgood F. Cook, pastor of First church, Waycross, and by Dr. T. D. Ellis, pastor of Wesleyan Monumental church, Savannah, and by Rev. W. A. Huckabee, of Douglas. Dr. Ellis, in his address of invitation, directed attention to many points of historic interest in the city of Savannah, the scene of John Wesley's American labors. Dr. Ellis made a very bright and witty address, urging the conference to go to Savannah next year, because of the very cordial desire of all the Methodist congregations in his city to entertain the body.

Waycross and Douglas, withdrew their invitations in favor of Savannah, and the latter named city was enthusiastically chosen. The reception of the class into full traveling connection of the conference, and the reading of the report of the committee on temperance and other moral reforms were made special orders for tomorrow's session.

Class Promotions.

Revs. L. L. Barr, Corley L. Nease, Earl W. Anderson, Clarence E. Roberts, James E. Channell, Martin A. Show, Milton M. Leggett, James J. Sanders, John A. Rountree, Benjamin C. Matteson, Walter Williams, R. F. Dennis, Jess E. Ford and R. L. Whitehead were promoted to the class of the fourth year. Continued in the class of the third year: Revs W. M. T. Belvin and Moody Booth.

The orders of Rev. Joseph H. Robinson who has come to our church and conference from the Congregational Methodist church, were recognized. Dr. John D. Hammond, president of Paine college, Augusta, urged the claims of Christian education for the negroes. A resolution pledging Dr. Hammond the sympathy, co-operation and prayers of the conference in his laudable work, was introduced by Rev. T. E. Davenport, of Cuthbert, and was adopted. A collection was taken for the institution, and the sum of $500 was contributed. W. G Solomon, of Macon, pledged $100 on this fund.

Superannuates.

Rev. H P. Myers, of Waycross, who was appointed to the Baxley charge for the current year, but who had to give up his pastorate because of ill health, was superannuated today. Rev. Myers has had forty-two years of effective service in the itinerant ministry, and is greatly beloved by the members of his conference. A resolution to raise a fund of $500 for his special relief was quickly and cordially passed. The names of Revs. George W. Childress, A Kelly and C. C. Hines were also referred for superannuation.

The call of question 22, "Are all the preachers blameless in their life and official administration?" was resumed today. Excellent reports were made by the pastors of the Macon district and some of the pastors from the Cordele district. Dr. J. E. Wray, pastor of Mulberry, Macon, reported 147 accessions received during the year, and the finances up to the standard of the best in the history of the church.

Rev. P. W. Ellis, pasor of Centenary, reported seventy accessions, 1,000 scholars in the Sunday school, the church edifice remodeled, enlarged and beautified and the sum of $12,000 raised for all purposes. Rev. M. A. Morgan made a fine report for his church at Cordele, 27 accessions and $8,000 raised for all purposes. Rev. Mr. Morgan has been sick for several months this year, but his many friends in the conference are delighted that his health has been fully restored.

Rev. J. P. Wardlaw reports the Fort Valley church in the best condition in years, with the finest league, Sunday school and woman's work he has ever had. There have been forty-one accessions, making a membership of 551, and 495 in the Sunday school. The assessment for foreign missions was doubled.

Dr. J. B. McGee reports another good year at Oglethorpe. Finances all up and the membership constantly increasing. Although Dr. McGee has served the conference more than half a century, he is still an active worker, with mental faculties unimpaired by age.

Appointments Monday.

The bishop announced today that unless complications in the dispatch of business arose the appointments would be read Monday morning.

Dr. H. C. Morrison, of Wilmore, Ky., preached this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The members of the conference, visitors and the people of Bainbridge have been well pleased with Dr. Morrison and have been giving him packed houses. At 7:30 tonight the anniversary of the board of missions was celebrated.

Conference Notes.

Rev. J. M. Outler, presiding elder of the Thomasville district, reported 1,250 accessions to the various churches in his district during the year; every charge paid up; three new parsonages built, and $6,000 paid for missions.

Rev. W. F. Smith, presiding elder of the Savannah district, reported gracious revivals this year, 550 accessions to the church on profession of faith, which was the largest number reported in the past twenty-seven years.

Rev. C. A. Jackson read a fine report of the work done in the Americus district the past conference year. Every charge but one paid all assessments, and advances along all lines.

Rev. R. L. Whitehead, of Wrens, reports a new parsonage in course of construction.

Rev. E. B. Sutton, of the Bascom circuit, Savannah district, reports fifty-seven accessions on profession of faith on his charge this year, and thirty-six infants baptized.

Dr. T. D. Ellis, pastor of Wesley Monumental church, in Savannah, reported 134 additions this year, and for the first time in the history of the church, all finances up, with a handsome surplus left in the treasury.

Rev. H. P. Myers, of Waycross, tendered his resignation as a member of the board of education on account of failing health, and Rev. W. A. Huckabee, of Douglas, was elected to fill his place.

A Picturesque Figure.

Rev. Wesley Lane, of Macon, one of the most beloved ministers in the South Georgia conference, made his report on his eighty-fifth birthday. "Uncle Wesley," as he is familiarly called, has served the conference for more than half a century.

Rev. G. H. Walker, of Brewton, reported two new churches built on the Brewton circuit this year.

Rev. J. A. Mills, of Cobbtown, has been transferred to the Missouri conference.

The Orphans' Home.

The South Georgia Conference Orphans' home, located in Vineville, Macon, has had a year of great financial prosperity under the able management of Rev. J. H. Smith, the efficient agent, who has just been re-elected to that position.

A reception cottage at the home has been erected this year at a cost of $6,000. The purpose of this building will be to provide entertainment, for a necessary period, for the children entering the home, so as to prevent an epidemic of any contagious disease that might otherwise be carried into the institution. The upper story of this reception cottage will be utilized for a school of dressmaking, where cutting, fitting, trimming, etc., will be taught the girls by a competent instructor.

Rev. Mr. Smith has also established a system of scholarships at the various educational institutions of Georgia Methodism. The home has now, under these scholarships, three students at Young Harris college, and two at Sparks Collegiate institute.

Approximately the sum of $9,000 was realized for the institution from the Work day, and upward of $18,000 from all sources of contribution, during the year.

It is the purpose of the agent and the trustees to erect, during next year, a building in which the boys of the institution may be given industrial training, taught printing and allied arts. A full course of kindergarten for the small children is also to be provided next year. It is a source of very great gratification that the affairs of the Orphans' home are in such excellent condition.

Sessions of Board of Missions.

The joint board of missions is in session each afternoon dispatching its affairs. The following is the list of missions which have been recommended by the board, and the amount of appropriation asked for them by the presiding elders

Waycross District—Townsend and Jones, $150; Woodbine, $150; Atkinson, $150; St. Marys and Kingsland, $150; Folkston, $150; Pearson, $150; Waresboro, $150; Nicholls, $100; Darien, $150; McKendree, $150; Lone Hill, $200; Alma, $150; Grandberry, $100; Deenwood and Hebbardville, $500; Gilchrist Park, $300; Homerville, $190; Ludowici, $100; Blackshear, $100; Mershon, $150; Ruskin, $150, and White Oak, $150.

McRae District—Chauncey, $275; Uvalda, $200; Hazelhurst, $100; Higgston, $200; Belleville, $200, and Surrency, $300.

Dublin District—The Dublin mission, $175; Allentown, $200; Riddleville, $200; Soperton and Stillmore, $175; Wesley, $150; Garfield, $200; Dexter, $150; Rockledge, $200; Dudley, $150, and Empire, $200.

Of course, these amounts requested by the presiding elders may be decreased or increased, as the board may deem the needs of the various charges, and as the funds hold out in meeting all pressing needs made upon the board.

Evangelist's Good Work.

Rev. J. M. Boss, the conference missionary evangelist, has had a year of phenomenal success in his work of saving souls. He has preached during the current conference year 458 sermons, received into the Methodist church on profession of faith 577 members; by certificate, 87; members to other churches, 230; total, 890, and several hundred persons have been converted under his ministry. He has held successful revivals during the year in the following towns and cities: Whigham, Pelham, Colquitt, Jasper, Fla., Quitman, Augusta, Carrollton, Eastman, Bainbridge, Abilene, Texas, Quanah, Texas, Haskall, Texas, Newnan and Birmingham, Ala. Rev. Mr. Boss will be recommended by the joint board of missions for reappointment by Bishop Morrison to his present position.

Rev. F. A. Ratcliffe, district missionary evangelist for the Thomasville district, has wrought wonderfully well in the bounds of that district during the past four years. Two new churches—one at Newton and the other at Iron City—have been established this year under the ministry of this godly man. There have also been 151 accessions to the church. The board of missions will also recommend his reappointment.

Rev. R. P. Fain, as district missionary evangelist, has a splendid report from the Valdosta district. He has had 260 accessoions to the church during the year.

Rev. E. C. Cowan, missionary evangelist for the Savannah and McRae districts, and Rev. G. P. Reviere, of the Waycross district, have both rendered excellent service in their respective capacities during the year.

Wesleyan College.

The following is the report of Dr. W. N. Ainsworth, made to the board of education of the South Georgia conference:

"The scholastic year, which ended June 1, was in all respects one of the most successful in the history of the institution. The enrollment reached the very creditable figure of 410—237 of these being boarders, and 173 being day pupils. Not a single case of serious sickness occurred in this large student body during the entire year. The earnings of the college, exclusive of all outside collections and conference appropriations, amounted to $86,976.67, being the largest in its history.

"The college is filled to the utmost limit of our capacity, making it again necessary to provide accommodations for a number of our teachers outside of the college. We have thirty more pupils in attendance than last year. The student body this year has representatives from every state, from Texas to Virginia, and from Florida to Missouri, and from Mexico and China.

"Wesleyan's requirements for admission and graduation are identical with those of our best colleges for men. Her large faculty, many of them being men of the best university training, is worthy of note in comparison with other institutions. Wesleyan's work and degrees are recognized by the best universities in the land.

"Wesleyan is positively Christian. No term is allowed to pass without an earnest revival of religion. The Bible is taught as a text book, and the college earnestly strives to maintain a religious atmosphere and uphold distinctively Christian ideals in all of its work. An active Young Woman's Christian Association and the College Missionary Society are conducted by the student body.

"A new building is now being brought to completion, and will be occupied this month. This building contains a first class gymnasium, with all modern appliances for physical development and exercise. One entire floor is devoted to the biological laboratories of the college, while the upper floors furnish dormitory space for forty additional young ladies. This building is fireproof throughout and cost about $40,000.

"The finances of the college are in a sound condition. Two years ago the college owed $43,000 of floating indebtedness, which had been largely incurred for necessary improvements during the last few years. This floating indebtedness has been entirely liquidated, and the bonded indebtedness still outstanding is now only $13,000. This remaining bonded indebtedness will be discharged in 1913. While we no longer have the large floating indebtedness which burdened the college for a number of years, it is well for the conference to know that this debt was liquidated by advances made from the Greater Wesleyan fund, the college relying upon the annual conference appropriations to reimburse this fund the amount of its appropriations to this debt.

"Eighteen months ago the first call was made throughout the state for a Greater Wesleyan. Many said that $300,000 could not be raised for a southern woman's college, but we are gratified to inform you that this task is almost done. A small balance of $15,000 is yet to be raised, and Georgia Methodism will rejoice in the accomplishment of this notable undertaking. It is confidently expected that the small remainder will be obtained before the expiration of the present year.

"There has never been any question as to the ownership of Wesleyan by the church, its board of trustees seeking at all times to administer their trust for the purposes of its creation by the church. We beg to report that steps have already been taken by the board to change the charter of the college so as to conform to the requirements of the last discipline and the action of the conferences last winter."

Conference Notes.

It is presumed that the Missouri Methodist must also be shown on some points, just as the ordinary Missourian. Rev. C. C. Grimes, of Moberly, Mo., in an address in behalf of church extension, amused the conference very much when he declared that Missouri dollars in the pockets of Methodists in that "shall show" state, reminds him very forcibly of two kinds of devils mentioned in the New Testament—"Their name is legion, but they come not out save only by fasting and prayer."

Rev. W. F. Quillian, president of the Methodist Training school for Christian workers, located in Nashville, Tenn., is a most welcomed visitor to the conference. Rev. Mr. Quillian is a member of this body, but has not been able for several years, owing to his pressing missionary duties in Monterey, Mexico, to attend its sessions. Before going to Monterey he was president of Warthen college at Wrightsville, where he rendered a splendid service. He is a son of the late Dr. W. F. Quillian, of the North Georgia Conference.

The report of Messrs. Smith and Lamar, agents of the Methodist publishing house, located in Nashville, Tenn., has had a year of phenomenal prosperity. Their financial exhibit follows: Amount of sales for the fiscal year at the Nashville house, $668,409.97; amount of sales at the Dallas house, $228,707.07; grand total at both houses, $897,117.04. Profits at the Nashville house, $74,089.43; profits at the Dallas house, $12,845.55; grand total of gain in profits at both houses, $86,934.98; total liabilities, $114,211.99. Total assets, $1,223,111.14. Amount appropriated to be distributed among the conference claimants, $10,000. The Dallas house has had a very successful year. Each month has shown an increase in sales and profits over the corresponding month of the preceding year.

The Methodist Review, as shown by the publishing agents' report, has increased in circulation until it is taken by more of our preachers and people than ever before in its history, and now yields some revenue to the house. By the class to which it appeals, it is regarded as the equal of any review published in this country.

Rev. Robert S. Stewart, professor in the Mell college, Meridian, Miss., is being cordially greeted by the brethren of his home conference.

Troup Colored Fair.

LaGrange, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—The Troup county colored fair opened Thursday and a crowd of several hundred people attended the exhibition of products and handiwork made by the colored people of this county at their fair grounds in this city. The fair association having in charge the exhibitions expect next year to have the fair opening late in October to avoid the cold weather, which prevented a large attendance this year. Very creditable exhibits were made and the show will continue until December 4. Among the speakers at the fair Thursday were Rev. Dr. H. D. Phillips, Mayor J. H. Edmondson, Representative Hatton Lovejoy and others.

GIVES UP CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TO STUDY "HOLY ROLLERISM"

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) Local religious and literary circles are agog over the fact that Professor J. A. Moseley, for several years the leader of the Christian Science church here, has renounced that faith and is now studying the "Holy Roller" religion, with the view of possibly embracing it. Professor Moseley, as is well known, resigned his chair at Mercer university about five years ago, after he had professed the Christian Science principles on account of a conflict in views about this matter with the college trustees.

Then he devoted himself entirely to the new doctrine and was soon the leader of the local congregation. However, several months ago his zeal began to lag and now he has formally renounced the Christian Science faith, saying that there is something "higher and better." He has given his entire library of Christian Science books, one of the largest and most valuable in the south, it is stated, to Colonel W. A. Huff, Nestor of the Macon public library. Last week he lectured the students at Mercer university in the chapel and next week he will address the Macon Atheneum on "Ibsen."

Professor Moseley is one of the best-known scholastic, literary and religious men of the south, and his change of faith will doubtless be of widespread interest. Mrs. J. W. Preston has succeeded him as the leader of the Macon Christian Science congregation, in which Mrs. E. L. Martin, Miss Carrie Colbert and Mrs. Mary Boynton Findley are leaders.

United States Court.

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) A special term of the United States court will be convened Monday morning, with Judge Shepherd, of Florida, presiding. Judge Speer is disqualified, as he will be a witness in one of the cases, that of Marshal George F. White, who is suing the Southern railroad for damages in the sum of $2,500 on account of the loss of a finger. There will be three local courts in session here next week.

To Phi Delta Thetas.

A brilliant entertainment last night was the dancing party given by Mr. and Mrs. William A. Speer at their home, on Peachtree road, the occasion a compliment to the Phi Delta Theta fraternity, of which Mr. Speer is an alumnus. The two hundred guests included the delegates to the Etta province convention, now in session here, this province made up of the southern states, and a number of Phi Delta Theta "sisters" and alumni in Atlanta were present.

The fraternity colors, sky blue and white, were the theme for an elaborate decoration, which was carried out in a profusion of white chrysanthemums with streamers of blue ribbons, and frequent bowls of forget-me-nots, while a luxuriant background was provided in foliage plants and smilax.

The spacious reception floor was thrown together for dancing, except the pretty breakfast room, the sun parlor and the fern room, where bowls of punch were inviting between dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Speer received in the long living room, and they stood before the mantel, which was banked with palms. Clusters of white chrysanthemums tied with blue ribbon, shone out of the green, and an cabinets and book cases and in window niches were vases of chrysanthemums and the growing forget-me-nots. All the reception rooms had a similar decoration, and the orchestra was stationed on the broad balcony landing of the stairway, where palms were massed and clusters of white chrysanthemums tied with blue ribbon showered from the balcony railing.

The fern room and sun parlor, like indoor gardens with their profusion of handsome foliage plants, had a supplementary decoration in chrysanthemums and forget-me-nots, and punch was served from tables veiled with smilax and massed with chrysanthemums.

Supper was served in these rooms at small tables with blue Japanese linen mats on lace covers, and blue and white china was used for some of the delicious dishes. The lights had sky blue shades, and the entire plan of hospitality was marked by elaborate and effective detail.

Mrs. Speer wore an elegant toilette of Irish lace over white satin charmeuse, and forget-me-nots were garlanded in the lace.

Serving punch was a group of pretty school girls, Misses Julia Murphy, Ida and Louise Winship, Rosalie Davis, Emily Walker, Dorothy Traynham, Jeanette Hatcher.

Dancing Party.

Miss Julia Murphy has issued invitations for a dancing party next Friday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy.

Salon Musicale.

A beautiful occasion last night was the musical given by Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn D. Scott and Miss Scott at Washington seminary to present a group of artists who are associated with them for the winter—Mrs. Mary Craft Ward, Miss Mary Wyatt Lovelace, Miss Marguerite Bartholomew, Miss Shatteen Mitchell.

Two hundred and fifty guests enjoyed the program, which was one of highest artistic stamp, and afterwards a delightful hospitality was expressed in a reception which served to introduce socially the four attractive women who were the artists of the evening.

Mrs. Ward is the latest comer to Atlanta after study with Godowsky in Vienna, and her brilliant musicianship, which is founded, needless to say, on the most substantial musicianly qualities, was a source of keen enjoyment to her hearers, who were, many of them, critical enthusiasts. She played the Liszt concerto No. 1 with Mrs. Scott at second piano, the beautiful Toccata, by Schumann, and a nocturne and polonaise by Chopin.

Miss Lovelace, soprano; Miss Marguerite Bartholomew, pianist, and Miss Shatteen Mitchell, dramatic and dialect reader, with Miss Eda Bartholomew, accompanying Miss Lovelace, contributed to a beautiful program.

The entire reception floor was thrown together, and decorated with artistic taste, palms and ferns with red roses and carnations forming the basis for a color combination of red and green, which was continued in details of delicious refreshments. Punch was served from a grape-hung bowl in the library, the table garlanded with smilax.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott and Miss Scott were assisted in receiving by the artists of the evening, Mrs. Ward wearing blue chiffon cloth over white satin; Miss Lovelace was gowned in black net embroidered in sequins over king's blue satin; Miss Mitchell wore a white Olga crepe draped with chiffon and lace; Miss Bartholomew wore a flame-colored chiffon cloth.

Mrs. Scott was gowned in violet olga crepe embroidered, and her corsage bouquet was of orchids. Miss Emma Scott wore black lace draped over flame-colored satin.

Assisting in entertaining were the ladies of the faculty, Mrs. Lilias Palmer, Miss Sharpe, Miss Belle Martin, Miss Stella Martin, Miss Emma Beard, Miss Rosa Converse, Miss Nora Belle Starke, Miss Butler and Mrs. J. O. Wynne and Mrs. Howard Mathews also assisted.

Rummage Sale.

The ladies of the Jones Avenue Baptist church will run a rummage sale Saturday, December 2, 1911, between the streets of Alexander and Mills.

Birthday Dinner.

Dr. and Mrs. Willis Westmoreland gave a pretty dinner last night in compliment to Mr. Willis Westmoreland, Jr., the occasion being a delightful celebration of his birthday.

The party of twelve were seated at a handsomely appointed table, its decorations in pink. The centerpiece was of carnations and the place cards were handpainted in a design of the same flowers. The silver candlesticks had pink shades and the candies and ices were pink.

Mrs. Westmoreland was gowned in gold charmeuse trimmed with gold lace and fringe.

After dinner Mr. Westmoreland entertained his guests at a theater party at the Atlanta.

To Miss Andrews.

Miss Laura Wyatt will entertain at bridge on Tuesday afternoon, inviting her bridge club to meet Miss Emma Kate Amorous. There will be also one table of the special friends of Miss Amorous.

5 O'Clock Tea.

Mrs. James Edgar Paullin will entertain a few friends informally at 5 o'clock tea today in compliment to her guest, Mrs. Dupont Guerry, of Macon, and to Mrs. Judson Hand, of Pelham, the guest of Mrs. Thomas P. Hinman.

Social Clubs Announce Their Christmas Gaieties.

The social clubs have made their announcements for the holiday gaieties and they indicate a carnival of it for older and younger society. An event of broad social interest will be the opening of the new Capital City club, the afternoon of December 16. The opening will be in the nature of a reception when the entire building will be open for inspection. There will be music but no refreshments served, as the club cuisine will not be installed until the 18th of December.

The first entertainment of the new club will be the annual New Year's ball, which will be given the evening of January 1 instead of December 31. Committees appointed are planning to make the ball one beautiful, elaborate and enjoyable.

Piedmont Driving Club.

The Piedmont Driving club now having a season of unprecedented gaity announces open house Christmas day after 12 o'clock. There will be yule tide decorations; music, and a delicious repast. For several years the open house at the Driving club Christmas day has drawn the members there in congenial, happy parties and already many are planning to go out there together.

On New Year's day the same program has been arranged for the pleasure of the club members. There will be open house after 12 o'clock. Tonight there will be the usual table d'hote dinner at the club, and tomorrow night the suppers.

The Brookhaven Club.

It is anticipated by a large and enthusiastic membership that the Brookhaven club will open its doors Christmas day, and the entertainment will be in the nature of a house warming and informal gatherings from 12 o'clock on through the afternoon. The new club house is a most attractive one; the furnishings are beautifully appropriate and every convenience is suggested in the arrangement of the various parts of the club.

Besides these club gaieties there are many other entertainments which will be given during the few weeks coming under the holiday season.

Heart-Dice Party.

Miss Thelma Harrell will entertain at a pretty heart-dice party this afternoon at her home at the Aragon.

The decorations and score cards will all be suggestive of Thanksgiving.

Miss Harrell will be assisted in entertaining by Miss Louise Lipscomb and Miss Constance Harrell, who will serve punch. Miss Harrell will be gowned for the afternoon in a brown velvet.

The guests will include Misses Marie Cobb, Marguerite Carbine, Silvey Mims, Helen Latimer, Ada Donaldson, Cora Dunbar, Lillie May Squires, Ruth Freeman, Dodo White, Marion Neal, Mary Minnhinnett, Helen Midell, Frances Wardlaw, Ludie Weinburg, Mary Harper and Fannie Blanch Coleman.

Baptist Ladies Patronesses of Montgomery Theater.

The members of committee No. 5, of the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, of which Mrs. John A. Boykin is chairman, will have charge of the Montgomery theater next Tuesday, December 5, from 12 noon until 11 p. m., and they ask the patronage of their friends and of the public. The pictures will be very fine, and there will be violin solos also.

Mrs. W. F. Dykes is chairman of the day, and she will be assisted by the committee members, who are Mrs. Clarence Bloodworth, Mrs. H. D. Carter, Mrs. Howell Dodd, Mrs. R. V. Connerat, Mrs. George Forrester, Mrs. A. S. Gray, Mrs. R. C. Henderson, Mrs. Fred Law, Mrs. T. A. Murray, Jr., Mrs. Howard McCall, Mrs. George McKenzie, Mrs. H. M. Nicols, Mrs. J. S. Sylvester, Mrs. W. A. Selman, Mrs. A. T. Spalding, Jr., Mrs. Louise Spalding Foster, Mrs. B. D. Sims, Jr., Mrs. Robert Turman, Mrs. W. A. Vaughn, Mrs. Carrie Benson York, Mrs. Robert J. Scott.

Some of the charming girls who will usher from 12 to 3 and from 5 to 6 o'clock are Misses Allene Gentry, Nina Gentry, Margaret Haverty, Edith Kirkpatrick, Antoinette Kirkpatrick, Gladys LeVin, Jessie Mason, Susan Osborne, Elvira Westmoreland, Annie Sykes Rice, Annie Lee McKenzie, Elizabeth Morgan, Mignon McCarthy, Laurie Hooper, Alice Parks, Louise Ripley, Laura Ripley, Marie Dinkins, Grace Sims, Edith Sims, Leila Sims, Elsie Boykin, Myra Clarke Scott, Christine Hooper, Bertha Moore, Julia Padgett and Evelyn Green.

Wallace—Allen.

The marriage of Miss Myrtle Wallace, of West End, and Mr. Earl Allen, of Oakland City, will take place at the Oakland City Methodist church next Sunday at the close of the morning service, Dr. S. R. Belk officiating.

Parties for Miss Willamette Bradley.

Miss Willamette Bradley, a popular member of the younger set of Washington, Ga., who is studying this winter at Brenau, Gainesville, and now the guest of Miss Sarah E. Smith on North Jackson street for the Thanksgiving holidays, is being delightfully entertained.

Thursday evening Miss Smith was hostess at an informal reception followed by cards for Miss Bradley.

Friday evening Miss Honor Lee will entertain a dancing party in honor of Miss Bradley.

Misses Annie May and Susie Clark will entertain an afternoon tea Saturday evening from 4 to 7 o'clock complimentary to Miss Bradley, inviting to meet her fifty guests.

For Mrs. Haley.

Mrs. John Brodrick was hostess at a delightful bridge party yesterday afternoon in her apartments at the Majestic, in compliment to Mrs. Herbert Haley, of Macon, the guest of Mrs. Epps Brown.

Palms, ferns and vases of Richmond roses decorated the rooms. The prize for top score was a brass bridge score, and a brass candlestick was the consolation prize.

The guest of honor was given a Rookwood vase. The guests included: Mrs. Haley, Mrs. Epps Brown, Mrs. Lewis Beck, Mrs. John W. Pearce, Mrs. Macon Martin, Mrs R. B. Ridley, Jr., Mrs. Jesse Couch, Mrs. B. C. Cawthorn and Miss Nell Phillips.

Bowling Party for Miss Carter.

Mrs. Alfred Newell entertained at a delightful bowling party yesterday morning at the Driving Club in compliment to Miss Belle Carter, of Columbus, who is the attractive guest of Miss Emily Cassin. The game was followed by a delicious luncheon, served in the loggia.

The guests included Miss Belle Carter, Miss Emily Cassin, Miss Passie May Ottley, Miss Carolyn King, Miss Ellen Wolff, Miss Etta Putnam, Miss Frances Connally, Miss Courtney Harrison, Miss Elizabeth Dunson, Miss Maggie Foote, Miss Adrienne Battey, Miss Jeannette Lowndes, Mrs. J. D. Cromer and Mrs. William Hurd Hillyer.

Christmas Bazar.

The ladies of West End Presbyterian church will open a bazar and restaurant Monday, December 4, at rooms 113 and 115 Whitehall street.

A hot dinner for 35 cents will be served each day during the entire week.

MEETINGS

The executive board of the Woman's Missionary Union of the Atlanta Baptist Association will meet with the first district superintendent, Mrs. H. H. Hale, at her residence, 591 North Boulevard, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting is to nominate an associational superintendent to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. L. M. Landrum. Mrs. Landrum has been the capable, faithful superintendent of this association sixteen years, and now feels that, for good reasons, she must give it up, much to the regret of her many friends and co-workers.

The meeting of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, postponed from Tuesday on account of inclement weather, will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at Carnegie library. A full attendance is urged as business of importance will be discussed.

The board of management of the Atlanta chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the D. A. R. restaurant, across from the Aragon hotel.

Go and Look in Your Mirror

Gray hair adds fully 10 years to your looks. Go and look in your mirror, and look without seeing those white hairs. Why, your eyes are brighter and your cheeks actually dimple with pleasure. What a difference those few white hairs make. You'd look five years younger than Mrs. Blank, next door, if it wasn't for those few white hairs, and another year or so and your whole head will be gray!

Not necessarily. We give you our positive guarantee (and our guarantee has never yet failed) that our Robinnaire Hair Dye will restore your hair to its own original color and beauty without injuring hair or scalp, and it will make your hair soft and keep it in fine condition. It is not a vulgar bleach or artificial coloring. It is a restorative to bring back to the hair its natural color and life.

If you have dandruff you use a hair tonic to cure it; and if your hair is fading and turning gray and lifeless you should use a restorative to renew its life and color. Both troubles result from diseases of the scalp, and there is no more reason why you should reject a pure color restorative than that you should reject a good dandruff tonic. Think this over. Remember, Ten years younger!

We prepare Robinnaire's Hair Dye for light, medium and dark brown and black hair. Try it immediately with a 25c trial size and see the remarkable result. Regular large size 75c sent postpaid. Jacob's Pharmacy, Atlanta.

HALL SPEAKS FOR 'LITTLE JOE' BROWN

Hall's First and Last Speech In Present Campaign Made at Columbus.

Columbus, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Hon Joe Hill Hall, of Bibb, made his first and last speech in the present gubernatorial campaign tonight when he addressed several hundred Muscogee county voters at Springer Opera house.

His address was an earnest and forceful plea for the election of Joseph M. Brown. He was introduced by Hon. Ed Wohlwender, one of the Muscogee county representatives, and his address was characteristic.

He said that the liquor question had no place whatever in the present campaign and in this connection said that the only sane and honest position taken on this subject by any of the present gubernatorial candidates was that held by Joe Brown.

Mr. Hall said he was not a prohibitionist and regretted that the liquor question came up so often and obscured more important issues, but that between rule by the barrooms and rule by the prohibitionists he would take the latter, he predicted that next year Georgians would get together and frame a prohibition law that could be enforced and that would make more for real sobriety than the present measure.

"Judge Russell told us in Macon last night that he had a backbone as big as a telephone pole," said Mr. Hall. "My God, we don't want a monstrosity in the governor's chair."

Judge Mose Wright, of Rome, was the other speaker and made a splendid address. He was introduced by Hon. Lester Slade, president of the Muscogee Joe Brown club. Speaking as a former Hoke Smith man, he made a strong plea to the Hoke Smith men present to lay aside old prejudices and vote for a man who had given Georgia a safe and progressive administration as governor. He paid a very high tribute to Mr. Brown, both as railroad commissioner and governor.

Groover Vice President.

Quitman, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Robert L. Groover has been elected vice president of the Bank of Quitman, succeeding Samuel S. Rountree, recently promoted to president. This bank is one of the oldest and strongest banking institutions, located in a small city, in the state, the capital and surplus being $240,000. The late Judge J. O. Morton was its president for eighteen years.

Flornoy Exonerated.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) L. L. Flournoy, whose hack collided with a bicycle ridden by Cleveland Spriggs, yesterday, was this morning exonerated from blame in the matter of the boy's death, which occurred from the fall received when the vehicle and bicycle came together. The coroner's jury this morning investigated the case and decided that the boy's death was purely accidental.

Frederick Cope Whitehouse, a scientist, of wide reputation and distinguished principally as an Egyptologist, and for work in connection with reclamation of waste lands in the valley of the Nile, died in New York recently.

State Normal Field Day.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) Today was "field day," an annual occasion at the State Normal School, when the following unique and interesting program of athletic events was carried out, after which a big Thanksgiving dinner was enjoyed by the entire student body, faculty and a few invited friends—about 700 in all.

GAINESVILLE'S BIGGEST FIRE WHICH WAS MARKED BY DYNAMITE EXPLOSIONS

/ Gainesville, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Guarded by the local troops of the state militia and being checked from spreading by a relief shift of firemen, the ruins of this city's $300,000 Thanksgiving fire were still smouldering at a late hour tonight.

Thursday's fire was the worst in the history of the city, excepting that of several years ago, when half of the business section was wiped out by flames. For a time it looked as if last night's fire would outrival the firemen, and an order for apparatus was wired the Atlanta department. However, the flames were well under hand at midnight, and the order was annulled.

B. H. Welchel and John Hobbs, who were victims of an explosion, were doing nicely this afternoon, and their recovery is expected immediately.

When the flames reached the front of the hardware store, facing the square, several hundred pounds of cartridges and shot gun shells exploded one after the other. Then it was seen fit to order out the Candler horse guards, the local troop.

Almost a full troop was secured within ten minutes. Scattered in detachments the soldiers managed to keep the huge crowds back and out of the danger zone, and guard the property that had been carried to the street from the burning buildings.

Although no other one would enter the blazing structure, an employee of the hardware firm dashed heroically into the flames while they raged fiercely and managed to secure all valuable books and place them safely in the vault. Shortly after he made his way to the street, an explosion that resounded over the city tumbled in the roof and scattered sparks all about the business section.

The insurance on the damage is only half. This statement was given out by the owners of the burned property. No definite plans for rebuilding have yet been made, although it is thought that the valuable property will be occupied by more modern and a larger building.

MAJOR GEO. MARTIN WEDS MRS. ELLIS OF SAN ANTONIO

Telegrams received by friends in the city Thanksgiving day, announced the marriage in Austin, Texas, Wednesday, of Major George Martin, United States army, to Mrs. Olive Graves Ellis, of San Antonio, Texas. The bride is the daughter of Doctor Graves, a prominent physician of San Antonio, and is a woman beautiful and charming. Major Martin has been stationed in Atlanta for two years with the Seventeenth regiment, and has countless friends wherever he is known. He and his bride are now at Hot Springs, Ark., and will return to Atlanta in two weeks, when they will be at home to their friends at Fort McPherson.

POLICE WILL HOLD SONG FEST SUNDAY

The annual song fest of the police choir, formed of a number of well-known officers of the city force, will be held tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 1 o'clock, in the recorder's court room at headquarters. Good instrumental music will be provided to accompany the singers and the occasion promises to be an interesting one.

This is an annual event with the officers, but heretofore has lasted all day, instead of just in the afternoon. It is hoped that the change will bring out many people who would not otherwise be able to attend. The public is cordially invited to be present and to take part. Officer Perry is in charge of the arrangements.

Upchurch Attacks Johnson.—Another pool room fracas, which took place last night, almost tolled the knell of Tom Johnson, 143 South Forsyth street, when he was assaulted by Chatty Upchurch, according to a police report. Johnson was hit several times in the head and it was at first thought he had a fractured skull. He was resting well at last reports and is in no immediate danger. The trouble occurred in Case's pool room and was provoked by Upchurch, it is alleged, who attacked Johnson with a "billy." Upchurch got away.

TAFT DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION

In Authorized Interview in Current Issue of Outlook.

In Talking of His Occupancy of Presidency He Declares That He Has Always Tried to Do His Duty As He Saw It and Without Outside Influence.

New York, December 1.—In the current issue of The Outlook, there appears an article entitled, "President Taft's Own View, an Authorized Interview," in which the president discusses current topics with an interviewer, as follows, in part:

"Speaking of the tariff issue, Mr. President, if you could begin your administration again, would you repeat your Winona speech tomorrow?" the interviewer asked.

"In phraseology, no; in effect, yes. Had I known as much then as I do now, I should have realized that there are some things one cannot leave to be taken for granted. I dictated that speech to a stenographer on the car between two stations, and glanced through it only enough to straighten its grammar; it was sent out by the press with correspondingly little ceremony, so that the papers received it in all sorts of shapes. If I had prepared it two or three weeks before, and revised it deliberately, as I ought to have done, I should have clarified several passages. And, particularly, I should have changed the sentence where I proclaim the Payne tariff act the best ever passed. The comparative would have been a better description than the superlative; for, whatever its shortcomings, the act still contains less to be criticised than its predecessors, and it did, as a whole, revise the existing schedules downward.

"I had no fault to find with either democrats or insurgents for trying to reduce any duties they chose; what I object to is disturbing the business of the country today, when there is nothing better than guess work to proceed upon, an dthen disturbing it afresh six months later, when the best available information is before us. I do not join in the charge of inconsistency against the democrats for compromising with La Follette on the wool schedule instead of standing by their own figures. If they could not get all the reduction they asked for, they were quite justified in taking what they could get. My chief criticism on their tariff activities last session was that they were willing to send to me legislation so crude and ill digested that they must have known, if they had paused to think, that I could not possibly approve it."

Tariff Reduction.

"Is your tariff reduction program based on the theory that it will bring about a corresponding reduction in the cost of living?"

"I think that that effect is greatly overestimated. My chief objection to a needlessly high tariff is that it nourishes monopoly. It holds forth a constant temptation to the formation of little trusts, which often are more directly oppressive to the consumer than big ones."

"Mr. President, there is your tariff board. You have been sharply criticised for making it up of men who are not tariff experts."

"And that is true; they are not. If I had been appointing a board of tariff experts, I could not have got along with less than twenty-five, in order to do justice to all branches of the subject. What I undertook to do was to make up a board of trained investigators, capable of managing a thorough inquiry into costs of production and of analyzing its elements. First, Mr. MacVeagh wrote to friends in leading universities, asking each to give me a list of the economists considered by them best equipped for the task in hand. Professor Emery's name was on all the lists, and at the top of half of them, so I made him chairman of the board. Page came from the University of Virginia; Sanders is an authority on agriculture; Reynolds, in interpreting and enforcing the tariff laws for four years, had presumably learned the ins and outs of that business; and Howard I regarded as the ablest southern representative in congress in my day. These men made no pretense of being tariff experts; they employ all the expert help they need.

The Prosperity of Treasury.

"I fully realize, and I wish our people would, that the present prosperity of the treasury is due, in no small measure, to the existing tariff, which, notwithstanding all its faults, is a revenue-producer. There is a good deal more that can be said for that act. It gave us a maximum and minimum tariff proviso which I deem of the highest importance, and which tended to increase our foreign trade substantially. It gave free trade with the Philippines, which has made the islands more prosperous than ever in their history, without injury to any American industry. It gave authority that I used to create and appoint a tariff board, which, though not the commission I sought, is doing a most useful work; and it imposed a corporation tax, on which I had set my heart, but wh'ch, at times, I despaired of getting through."

"Now that you have launched your project for a constitutional amendment, you probably have in mind some particular form of general income tax to recommend to congress when it is free to act?"

"In a way, yes. I believe, on principle, in a general income tax. The only good arguments against it are that it is inquisitorial, and that it offers a temptation to perjury. But I would not resort to the ordinary income tax except in an emergency like war, when I would have it graduated, so that those citizens who had most at stake should bear a correspondingly large share of the burden of the common defense. In time of peace I would avoid temptation to perjury, and would confine the government to taxes that do not involve such inquisitorial methods in their collection."

Justice White's Appointment.

"Mr. President, I suppose you have noticed Mr. Bryan's comments on your appointment of Chief Justice White?"

"All that I have to say about my judicial appointments is that I have regarded my duty in respect to them as the most sacred with which I am charged, and that I have spared no effort to secure for the supreme court and other courts the best men I could get, with the fullest appreciation of the fact that the federal courts, and especially the supreme court, constitute the chief bulwark of the institutions of civil liberty; created by the constitution."

"Now, Mr. President, something of the future. What do you purpose treating as your 'calendar of unfinished business' for the rest of your term?"

"In the domestic field, I suppose reductions in the woolen and cotton schedules, and possibly in the metal schedule of the tariff, will go to the top of the calendar. These will be founded, as far as my recommendations are concerned, on the report of the tariff board. I have heard it intimated that congress will not heed the suggestions of an executive board. As to that I have no means of judging in advance. What I shall do is to put the whole thing up to congress, and leave the members to settle with their constituents if they prefer not to act. In the house the democratic majority have always professed themselves ready to accept any reductions they can get, and I am going to take them at their word in good faith. Where the insurgents will stand, I am not prophet enough even to surmise.

"For another thing, we ought to obtain some legislation which will enable Alaska to develop without infringing on our broad policy of conservation. Then, there is the question of ratifying the peace treaties with England and France, and the fiscal treaties with Honduras and Nicaragua, which, in their way, are peace treaties, also, as their purpose is to remove one of the most prolific causes of war."

Campaign for Re-election.

"I assume that you know that it has been widely hinted that your tour was the opening of your campa gn for re-election?"

"Certainly, as is the case with all administration much of what I have done since I have been in office has had some political color put upon it by those who were inclined to be critical. The truth is, however, that political considerations have not weighed heavily with me. I have tried to do in each case what seemed to me the wisest thing, regardless of its effect upon my own future. Indeed, in more than one instance I have been perfectly conscious whose bad blood would be stirred by some act of mine or some refusalto act. The circumstance that the same persons who hail me, after one application of equal justice, as a far-seeing conservative patriot, denounce me after the next as an unreasoning radical, does not greatly disturb my equanimity. I set that down as 'all in a day's work.'

"I am very grateful for the honors the people have given me. I do not effect to deny the satisfaction I should feel if, after casting up the totals pro and con, and striking a balance, they should decide that my first term had been fruitful enough of good to warrant their enlisting me for another. Any man would be proud of such a verdict. But I have not been willing, nor shall I be, to purchase it at the sacrifice of my freedom to do my duty as I see it. My happiness is not dependent on holding any office, and I shall go back to private life with no heartburnings if the people, after an unprejudiced review of my administration, conclude that someone else can serve them to their greater advantage."

STEEL TRUST WILL AID GOVERNMENT

In Dissolution Suit If It Has Violated the Law.

Leading Official of United States Steel Corporation Declares It Will Not Delay the Litigation by Demurring. Case Comes Up On Monday.

New York, December 1.—The United States Steel Corporation joins with Attorney General Wickersham in a desire to know if it is violating or has violated the Sherman anti-trust law, and to that end will aid in expediting the government's dissolution suit against it. The corporation's attorneys are now preparing the answer to the government's bill, to be filed early in January, and will not delay the litigation by demurring. A demurrer, taken to the federal supreme court, might block the trial for two years or more.

A leading official of the United States Steel Corporation made this declaration this afternoon while discussing the next step in the case, the appearance of the defendants in the United States circuit court at Trenton, Monday.

This appearance, he said, would be made in their behalf by Richard V. Lindabury, the corporation's New Jersey counsel. The "appearance," he explained, is a technical step. The government, he thought, would not be represented in court at the time.

There may be an application next Monday, however, for an extension of the time allowed the defendant to file its answer. Under court rules this answer must be filed on January 1 unless an extension is granted. This leaves little time for preparation of an answer, and should an extension be sought, the official said, it would be solely to obtain sufficient time for the defendant to complete its answer, necessarily voluminous.

"This answer," he continued, "will not be evasive, but will endeavor to meet squarely the allegations the government may make."

PROHIS HOLD RALLY SUNDAY

A prohibition rally will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Grand opera house. The leading speech will be delivered by Hon. W. A. Covington on "Prohibition, Its Friends and Its Foes." Other speeches will be made by Bolling H. Jones and Dr. S. R. Belk. Ladies are cordially invited.

Negro Baby Burned to Death.—Crawling out of her go-cart and into the open grate, Alberta Fletcher, a little negro baby, met a horrible death yesterday afternoon about 6:30 o'clock. The child had been left at 225 Edgewood avenue by its mother for a few moments, who returned to find its clothes burned off and the baby unconscious. It died at the Grady hospital some hours later.

TEXTILE LEADERS MEET HERE TODAY

Southern Association Will Hold Sessions in the Kimball House.

The annual convention of the Southern Textile Association will begin this morning at 11 o'clock, when a large number of delegates gather in the convention hall of the Kimball house.

M. G. Stone, president of the organization, will preside, calling the meeting to order at 11 o'clock. The first session will be one of business, with adjournment at noon. In the afternoon a textile discussion will be held, and at night a plan of entertainment has been mapped out for the visitors.

ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE IS MADE BY JOHNSON

Charlie Johnson, who took his sweetheart a-burglaring one Saturday night some weeks ago and got both of themselves arrested, made a wild break for liberty yesterday afternoon as he was being transferred from the court house to the Tower just after receiving a 12-months sentence for his crime.

Johnson was one of a group of prisoners, attended by Bailiffs Coursey and Dameron. Out of consideration to the white men and to spare them humiliation, handcuffs had kindly been left off. Just as Johnson reached the Butler street corner, where they turned to go to the Tower, he "lit out" down the road.

The bailiffs were not long after him, as the Tower was but a few steps away, and the chase was a classic in its form and speed. Johnson turned into Terry street so fast he had to cross his feet to keep from stepping on his heels, then dived into a negro resort where his recapture was soon effected.

Nellie Briggs, 17-years-old, of 73 Elmore avenue, was Johnson's partner in the burglary. They claimed they were running off to get married when they found the store broken open and paused to collect some of the scattered stuff. The Briggs girl is out on her own recognizance.

AVIATOR HAS CLOSE CALL IN BIG AUTO

Greenville, S. C., December 1.—Returning from the aviation field this afternoon after giving three sensational flights, "Jimmie" Ward had one of the closest calls of his adventurous career when the automobile in which he and his business manager were riding in turned turtle at a sharp turn in the road.

Ward made a leap for life as the car crashed into the embankment and fell upon his hands, receiving several painful bruises. Despite his injuries, the young aviator announced tonight that he would continue his flights tomorrow.

LEE ON WAY TO TEXAS TO GET $3,600 PRIZE

With a $3,600 prize hung up in San Antonio if he gets there by Washington's birthday, Walter Lee, of the Liberty Athletic club of New York, reached the city last night on his long walk. He is alone as the other three starters have become "also rans," and Lee is the only contestant for the smal fortune.

Alone? Well, not quite. A Dog is Lee's only companion, and judging by the way they stick to each other he makes a first rate pal. The dog walks his 30 miles a day without a falter, in spite of the fact that he has no name.

The prize for which Lee is trying was gotton up by four well known athletic clubs of New York and an evening newspaper.

ANOTHER VICTIM IS RELIEVED

Mrs. Hoskins Lost Heart and Gave Herself Up to Die, But Is Relieved by Taking Cardui, the Woman's Tonic.

Cary, Ky.—"I am in better health than I have been for years," writes Mrs. Sarah J. Hoskins, from this place, "and I thank Cardui for it.

I suffered for years with womanly ailments, and at times would nearly cramp to death. My back and right side would nearly kill me.

I tried everything to get relief, but failed. I lost heart, and gave up hope of ever getting well. Then I saw Cardui advertised, and got a bottle. I was down in bed, but before I had taken two bottles of Cardui, I was up and helping with my work.

Now I can wash all day and do my house work with ease. I feel better than I have for years. Since taking Cardui, I have gained more flesh than I ever did in my life.

I praise the medicine to all my friends, for I believe Cardui saved my life."

If you are weak, tired, worn-out, or suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women, such as headache, backache, pains in arm, side, or limbs, or any other symptoms of womanly trouble, you are urged to try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It will help you.

During the past fifty years, more than a million women have been benefited by using Cardui. Ask your druggist.

AUTHOR OF REBECCA SENDS AUTOGRAPHED COPIES OF HER BOOK AS PRIZES FOR THE REBECCA CONTEST; DAVIS STREET SCHOOL ESSAYS MAKE FINE RECORD

Members of the Klaw & Erlanger "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" company in street costume, who entertained the school children of Atlanta who were the guests of The Constitution on Thanksgiving Day matinee. Miss Ursula St. George is shown in the front center.

Everybody thought that when the $50 cash prizes were awarded for the "Rebecca" contest at the matinee at the Atlanta theater Thursday, when 300 schol children were guests of The Constitution, that the contest was all over, and had become a matter of history; but this proved not the case, as some of the most interesting features developed yesterday.

First, there came a telegram from Mrs Kate Douglas Wiggin, the author of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," in which she announced that she was sending autographed copies of her books to be awarded to those coming next to the cash prize winners.

Mrs. Wiggin's Offer.

Her telegram is as follows:

"New York, December 1, 1911.—Editor Constitution: I am highly honored at the interest in my 'Rebecca' taken by your famous newspaper. The 'Rebecca' essays are of much interest to the author of 'Rebecca,' and I am sending three autographed copies of my book for those taking the first, second and third prizes, excluding those who already have been awarded the cash prize.

"KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN."

This thoughtful and magnanimous offer on the part of the distinguished author necessitates another decision by Julian Harris, editor of Uncle Remus's Magazine, and final judge of the essays. He decided that the books should be presented to those writing the essays marked "A," "J" and "R."

The New Prize Winners.

These were respectively: Irene McGaughey, aged 11, of the fourth grade, Forrest Avenue school, whose home is at 334 Highland avenue; Jean M. Pickett, aged 13, of the eighth grade, North Avenue school, whose home is at 485 North Boulevard; Maud Barker Cobb, age 12 years, of the seventh grade, Tenth Street school, whose home is at 45 Ninth street.

When the books are received they will be presented to these bright little school children.

That was one event.

Another feature, which was not noted Friday, was the remarkable record made by the Davis Street school.

Miss Mildred Miller, of this school, tied with Miss Kathryn Turner, of the Washington seminary, for first place, and twenty other pupils of the Davis Street school were among the 300 winners of tickets to the Thanksgiving matinee at which The Constitution was host. Considering the fact that more than 2,000 essays were submitted, the record is truly one of which the Davis Street school may feel justly proud.

The neighborhood is one of straightforward, hard-working people, and the capacity of the parents for honest and serious endeavor seems to have been inherited by the children. A great deal o fthe credit for the remarkable showing of the pupils should be given the principal, Miss Julia Riordan, the assistant principal, Miss Annie Simms, and the corps ofefficient teachers.

Wrong Names Over Essays.

It should be explained that in Friday's Constitution, a typographical error was made by which Miss Mildred Miller was given credit for the essay written by Miss Kathryn Turner, and Miss Turner was given credit for the one by Miss Miller. The names over the essays were reversed.

Another interesting development Friday was the announcement by Miss Miller that she had deposited the $25 in gold awarded her, thus making it a nucleus for her first banking account.

And still another feature was the visit paid the editorial staff of The Constitution by a delegation of little girls from the Davis Street school, who came to thank The Constitution for the contest, and to submit a letter of appreciation from the twenty-one pupils who had been awarded prizes.

Davis Street Letter.

Their simple and sweetly sincere letter follows:

"Davis Street School, December 1, 1911.—Editor Constitution: We are sending you a committee with this letter to thank you and The Constitution for the pleasure and encouragement which you have given us through the 'Rebecca' contest.

"The afternoon which we spent with 'Rebecca' at the Atlanta theater was a pleasure which we shall not soon forget; and the fact that one of us shared first prize, and twenty-one won tickets to the play, has given us encouragement which will stimulate us to work harder than ever, and will add a great deal to the interest which we feel in our composition work.

"In behalf of our teachers and the pupils of the school, we thank you, and hope that you will have another contest very soon. Your little friends,

"Mildred Miller, eighth grade, sharer in first prize; Esther Carlsen, Ben Hyer, Celeste Aenchlacher, Effie Rodgers, Beatrice Peek, William Humphries, Freda Lander, Una Chambers, Ida May Myers, eighth grade; Eunice Warren, Florence Woodcock, Lois Jackson, seventh grade; Ethel Kalech, Pennie Goldin, sixth grade; Annie Duke, Earline Prichard, Lula Lewis, fifth grade; Camilla Winters, fourth grade, A; Royce Dobbs, third grade, B; Vivian Swink, third grade, A, winners of tickets to 'Rebecca,' from the Davis Street school."

Rev. James B. Whelan, for 32 years pastor of St. Patrick's church, Scranton, Pa., who died recently, never accepted any salary from his congregation.

THEATERS

"The Bohemian Girl."

(At the Grand.)

The Aborn Opera Company is presenting at the Grand what is said to be the most massive production of Balfe's great masterpiece, "The Bohemian Girl," that has ever been presented on the American stage. In the Paris version specially designed and arranged for the gala season of the French second empire, quite different from the old English version so familiar to the present generation of opera-goers. Messrs. Aborn promise the same stupendous spectacular presentation that proved a revelation to theater-goers last season. As well as a remarkable cast of soloists, chorus and corps de ballet, and incidental features that lend realism to the several great scenes, are bands of real Gypsies a cavalcade of horses, troupes of wonderful acrobats, etc.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Matinee and night performances today will conclude the engagements of the acts that make up the excellent bill of vaudeville, that has broken the attendance record for this season at the popular Forsyth. The Four Mortons, in their delightful comedy entertainment have won a place in the affection of Atlanta theater-goers that will be of great future value. Miss Clara Morton's charm and grace and really delightful talents established her as a favorite.

There is a great bill for the coming week, headed by Joseph Hart's "A Night in a Turkish Bath." In this act there is Robert J. Webb, the singing comedian, and nine other artists and it is said that the headline feature is one of the great novelty acts of vaudeville. Hickey's Comedy Circus, with Obey, the unridable mule, will be another feature and the other acts are all classy.

"Woman Against Woman."

(At the Orpheum.)

The Orpheum Stock Company continues to make real friends. The combination of dramatic talent finishes its first week at the Orpheum with matinee and night performances of "Woman Against Woman" today. There has not been a breath of adverse criticism from press or public, and there has been a decided improvement in attendance at every performance since the company was introduced last Monday afternoon.

"The Fatal Wedding" will be the bill for next week, commencing with a matinee performance on Monday afternoon. There will be the regular evening performances all week and the regular matinees, Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. The prices will continue at 10, 20 and 30 cents.

"At the Mercy of Tiberius."

(At the Lyric.)

The Lyric will no doubt be the mecca of playgoers next week, as the Vaughan Glaser company of players are producing for the second time in this city the sister play to St. Elmo, called "At the Mercy of Tiberius." This play was dramatized from the book of the same name by the author of St. Elmo. The stage version is the work of Charles Carver, in collaboration with Vaughan Glaser. The great success attending the tour of "St. Elmo" inspired Mr. Glasier to look further into the books of Augusta Evans Wilson with the result that he hit upon "At the Mercy of Tiberius," and those who are fortunate enough to secure tickets will pronounce it a far greater play than St. Elmo.

The admirers that Miss Eleanor Montell has in our city will be delighted with her work as the winsome heroine. Richard Tucker is all that could be desired as Lennox Dunbar, oft called "Tiberius," on account of his strict sense of justice.

William Ross gives a fine performance of the weak Bertie Brentano and Earl Yeaderker gives promise as a juvenile actor, Lawrence Atkinson's work is well worthy of mention as the hard old General Darrington.

FOOTBALL FATALITIES

Fractures Hip.

Norwick, Conn., December 1.—John A. Vizner, of Hartford, a student at Trinity college, is in a hospital here today with a serious fracture of the hip received in a football game yesterday. Vizner, who was a member of the Trinity squad the past season, played with a scrub team against the Norwich Free Academy eleven and received his injury in a scrimmage.

Dies With Paralysis.

Elsie, Mich., December 1.—Leon Galeshouse, 17 years of age, is dead from partial paralysis which physicians claimed resulted from injuries received in a high school football game played a year ago.

Spine Broken.

Washington, December 1.—John McMorris, a member of the football team of Mount St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md., was seriously injured here yesterday in a game with the Catholic university eleven. His spine is believed to be broken.

Concussion of Brain.

Baltimore, Md., December 1.—Robert K. Marmion, of Washington, D. C., son of Rear Admiral Robert A. Marmion, U. S. N., is in a serious condition at a hospital here, having suffered a concussion of the brain in a football game between Washington and Baltimore amateur teams yesterday.

JIM CORBETT WILL WRITE BOXING FOR CONSTITUTION

The Constitution has added a new and bright feature to its sporting page on Sunday. James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world, has been engaged to write a weekly boxing letter.

No man is better fitted to write on the Queensberry art than Corbett. He knows the game across and back, Was always a past master and is, therefore, capable of telling an artist when he sees one.

Corbett's first letter will start on Sunday. In this he discusses the muchly-claimed welterweight title. Corbett places a new-comer on the top of the ladder in this class.

He has other gossippy items. Read them. They're good. Corbett writes as well as he boxed.

NEW YORK BOXING COMMISSION DRAWS COLOR LINE IN BOUTS

New York, December 1.—The New York state boxing commission is considering the advisability of enacting a rule that white pugilists shall not put on the gloves with negroes in public bouts at clubs operating under the new law. There is said to be a considerable sentiment among promoters and trainers for compelling negroes to box among themselves.

This would mean that Langford, Johnson, Jeanette and McVey would have to fight among themselves for the negro championship, while Kauffman, Flynn, Morris, Palzer, Kennedy, Lester and others would compete for the white man's title.

The problem is not a new one, but it is the first time in this country that a state official body has taken cognizance of it with the idea of providing a remedy if public clamor favors one.

The Choice.

(From The Baltimore American.)

"I would rather marry a ladies' tailor than a man in any other business."

"Why so?"

"Because he is bound to be a man of excellent habits."

Its Moral Influence.

(From The Baltimore American.)

"Aviation must be a very amiable business."

"Why so?"

"Because if aviators quarrel, they fall out."

FULTON CLAIMED FOR JOE BROWN

Reports Received From All Wards and Precincts.

Every Indication That Joe Brown Will Show Goodly Majority Over Both Opponents It Is Stated---Speakers Announced for Meeting.

Friday proved to be the most enthusiastic of any during the present campaign, the members of the several Joe Brown ward clubs being in a particularly happy mood over the present conditions existing in Atlanta and throughout the entire county.

During the day reports came in from all of the wards and a majority of the country precincts and after all these had been received and carefully studied, it was stated that there was every indication that Governor Joe Brown would show a goodly majority in Fulton county over both of his opponents.

Big Joe Brown Wave.

Practically all of the reports stated that there has been a tremendous Joe Brown wave sweeping every portion of the city and county during the past two or three days and that if it continues to carry everything before it during the remaining few days as it has during the past few, there is simply no estimating the majorities for "Little Joe" that will follow in the wake of the present tidal wave that is reported as gaining in strength every hour.

The officers and members of the different ward clubs are getting busy and this is stated as one of the reasons for the tremendous Joe Brown strength that is now appearing in every direction and many of those who have been investigating the situation state that while a week ago there were many non-committal Atlantans that practically all of these had joined in the Joe Brown wave and were now emphatic in declaring for "Little Joe."

The following were named officers of the Seventh Ward Joe Brown Club: J. Cheston King, president; D. W. Morrah, vice president; T. B. Branch, vice president, and L. W. Wilson, secretary.

Executive Committee.

The following were named members of the executive committee of the club:

Joe Brown Meetings.

Requests for Joe Brown speakers are coming in from all parts of the state, according to statements made by those in charge at the ex-governor's headquarters, and it is being found most difficult to satisfy all of these demands.

The following dates and speakers are among those announced at Joe Brown headquarters Friday:

Saturday—John P. Ross at Douglas, E. S. Griffith at Lavonia and Toccoa, J. Durham Watson and A. G. Golucke at Gibson, W. S. West at Cairo; Judge Mose Wright at Sylvester, Judge J. J. Flint at Thomaston.

Monday—Judge John P. Ross at Dawson, Joseph S. Davis at Bainbridge, J. S. James and Phil Davis at Covington and Mansfield.

Tuesday—H. H. Cabaniss and J. S. James at Monroe, Judge Mose Wright at Carrollton, Bartow S. Willingham at Newnan at day meeting, LaGrange at night meeting; Judge John P. Ross at Baxley at day meeting, at Brunswick at night; E. S. Griffith at Greenville day meeting, at Senoia at night.

REINHARDT ASKS FOR $30,000 FUND

Board of Trustees Meet and Decide to Rebuild College.

School Is One of the Best Known in the State and Has Done a Splendid Work For Mountain Boys and Girls of Georgia.

A meeting of the trustees of Reinhardt college, which was burned to the ground Tuesday night, was held at the residence of R. A. Hemphill Thursday night for the purpose of launching an immediate campaign for the purpose of securing sufficient funds to rebuild the college as soon as possible.

Reinhardt college is one of the best known educational institutions in the state and during its twenty-seven years of existence has done a wonderful work for the mountain children of Georgia. About 80 per cent of the pupils are composed of this class and the destruction of the building was keenly felt by the people of Cherokee and surrounding counties.

At the time of the fire the college had an enrollment of over 300 pupils, boys and girls, approximately 75 per cent of whom entered the college with the purpose of going forth as teachers or preachers. The college has been controlled and helped by the Methodist church.

The fire entailed a loss of about $20,000, there being insurance to the amount of $10,000.

The trustees decided to ask the people of Georgia to subscribe the sum of $30,000, which, with the $10,000 insurance money, will enable them to erect a building thoroughly modern in every respect, fire-proof, steam-heated and supplied with water.

W. S. Witham, Ben F. Perry and R. A. Hemphill were appointed a building committee. W. S. Witham was named financial director and all donations should be sent to him.

Those present at the meeting last night were: Dr. S. B. Ledbetter, president of the board; Ben F. Perry, R. A. Hemphill, W. S. Witham, Dr. M. Reinhardt, S. P. Wiggins, W. B. Sharp, Dr. Joel T. Daves and Professor R. C. Sharp.

Character in your Printing or Stationery gives it an air of importance that adds to its efficiency. We furnish both.

PERRY TAKES HIS PLACE AS COMMISSIONER

He Takes the Position of Stevens on the Board.

James Perry, of Lawrenceville, who succeeds Colonel Obe Stevens as a member of the state railroad commission, was at the office Friday for the first time in his official capacity. Colonel Stevens' term expired at midnight Thursday night.

Mr. Perry took the oath of office as railroad commissioner last July. His first sitting with the commission will be at the meeting next Tuesday.

Waterwormks. Inspectde

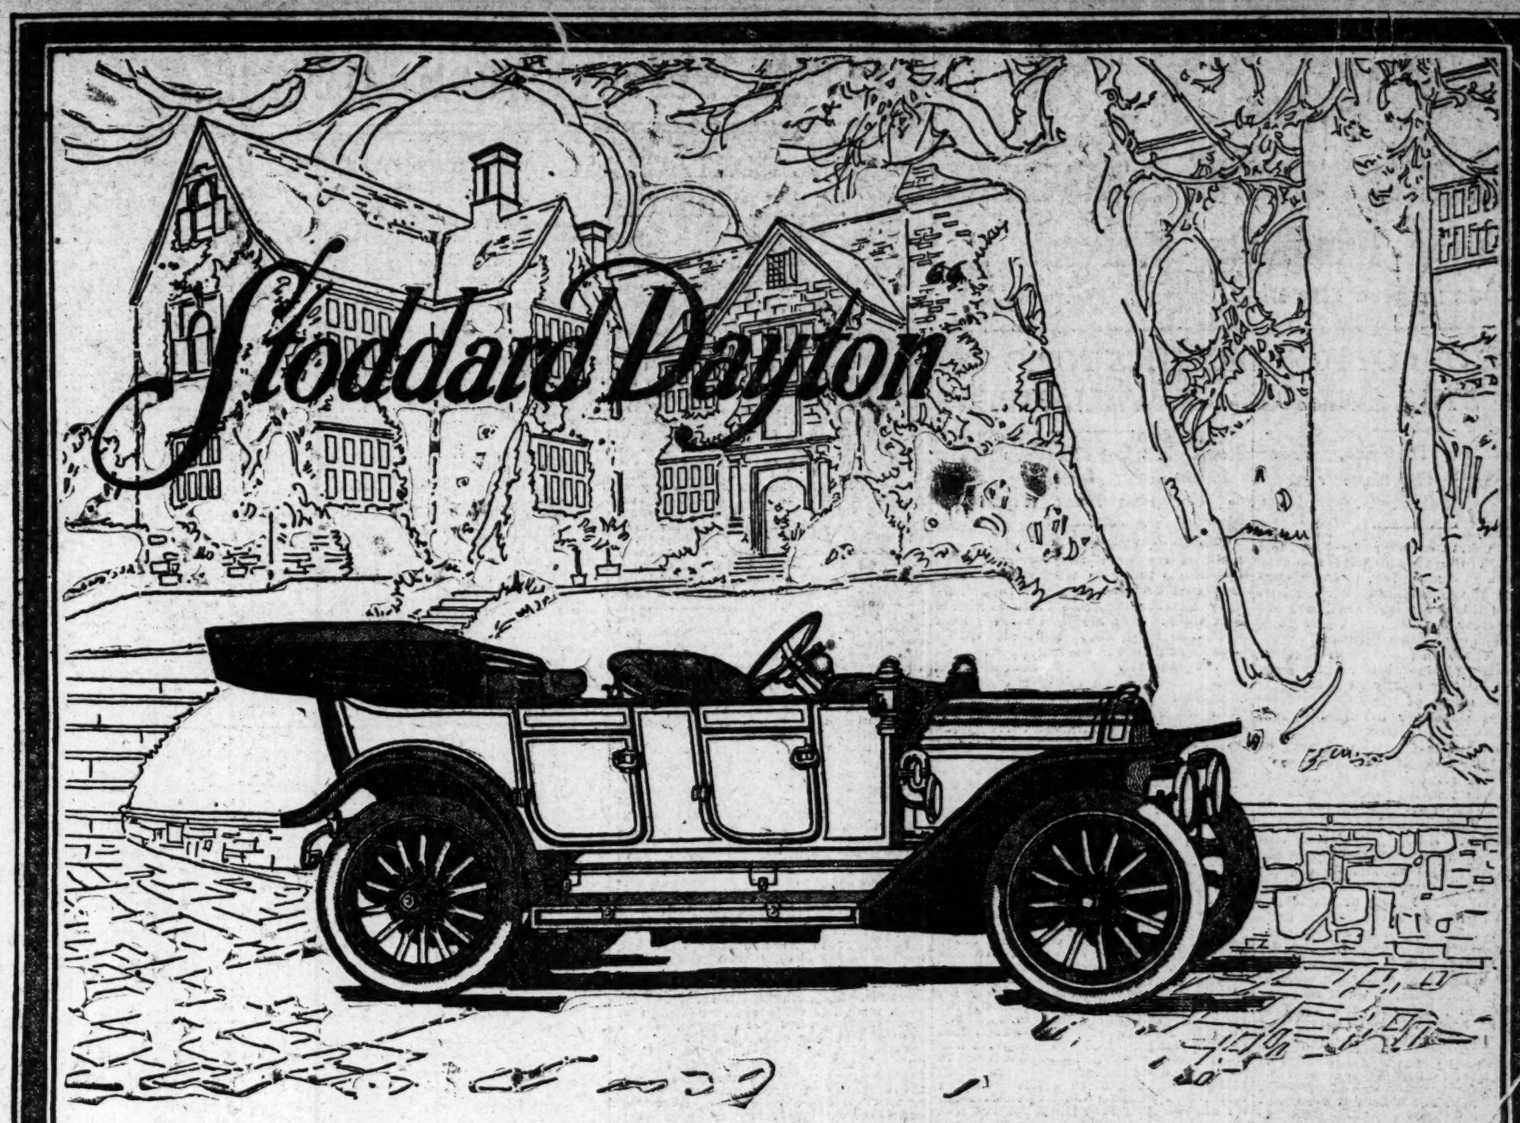

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) Messrs. Wilcox, Fitner and Henderson, water commissioners for the city of Macon, visited Athens for the purpose of inspecting the waterworks plant here. Captain J. W. Barnett, city engineer, and Superintendent Barrow, of the department, accompanied them on their inspection. Athens was the first city in the country to install electric turbine pumps instead of using steam power in the pumping of water for the city use.

Elks' Memorial.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) The Athens Lodge, No. 790, B. P. O. E., will hold a memorial service in their renovated home Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

THE "Saybrook" is most aptly and sufficiently described as "complete."

No one feature stands out more prominently than another—there's no single device to catch the eye. There is every last detail of construction, finish and equipment in and on the "Saybrook" Touring Car to make it—complete! It is head and shoulders above all other cars—it has no "experiments" to be tried by the buyer.

Every detail on it we have tested and proven to be worthy before it finds a place on the "Saybrook." The satisfaction any car can give depends on the whole car, and on that thought the "Saybrook" Touring Car is offered for your consideration.

"Saybrook"

Here are some of its features, which go to make it such a successful car; all of them as conducive in the highest degree to comfort in riding, long service, and wise investment.

These for comfort

BODIES NOT TOUCHING THE DASH—This sweeping improvement eliminates the sounding-board effect of the one-piece body; it prevents the irritating squeaks due to road twists; it refines the entire car into silence. Strains on body cannot bind the steering post.

BODIES DO NOT TOUCH THE FRAME—Between the frame and body are placed rubber lugs. These cushions do away with the usual vibration ordinarily transmitted to the body from the running gear of the car.

SECOND SPEED TRANSMISSION HAS SPIRAL GEAR—The ratchetty buzz of the second speed is thus soft-pedaled into an inaudible, smooth efficiency.

NEW TYPE RADIUS RODS—A universal joint, cross and yoke type (covered with leather boots to keep the dust out and the grease in), allowing for up-and-down and side motion. Result: no wear nor rattle, and a much-easier-than-ordinarily riding car.

ADJUSTABLE FRONT SEATS—Movable forward or back, to suit convenience of the driver.

WHEELBASE—Of 122½ inches. Exhaustive tests proved this the most advantageous wheelbase for a comfortable 7-passenger car.

HARTFORD SHOCK ABSORBERS—Makes sure the riding comfort of the already perfect car.

SPRINGS ARE 2½ INCHES WIDE—Permitting the use of fewer leaves and while making a far easier-running car, also makes for more strength. Electric furnace steel in these.

These for long service

VALVE-IN-HEAD MOTOR—With four cylinders, 4¾x5.

MULTIPLE VACUUM EXHAUST PIPE—The same principle is utilized as in steam engines. It means a difference of 20% more power over other motors having same size cylinders.

EASY STARTING DEVICE—A priming arrangement that forces gasolene directly into cylinder ports.

WATER COOLING—A gear-driven pump keeps the water moving. Radiator has spreading manifolds. Casing separate from the core, so that strains on frame don't damage radiator.

POSITIVE LUBRICATION—A gear-driven pump forces oil directly to each crankshaft and cam shaft bearing. This means more oil when you want it and less when you need less. No ifs and ands about it.

GREAT BRAKING SURFACE—No car in America at anywhere near its weight has the brakes acting on such a great spread of braking area. These new brakes are of an improved and novel design, absolutely rattle-proof and thoroughly efficient. Spring-operated releases. Brakes can't drag.

IMPROVED TYPE REAR SYSTEM—Full-floating rear axle. It is larger than formerly and carries, in this 1912 model, improvements that make it invulnerable.

DEMOUNTABLE RIMS—Quick detachable, demountable. Tires 36x4½. An extra rim is furnished. Also tire irons.

COMBINATION ELECTRIC AND OIL LAMPS—Makes kerosene an optional reserve, and not a necessity.

WINDSHIELD—Of latest improved pattern is part of this equipment.

TOP AND COVER—Full mohair top and top boot are furnished to harmonize with the car. Storm curtains are also regular equipment. Foot-rest, foot-throttle, and robe-rail are included.

STODDARD-DAYTON SERVICE—Does not cease with the purchase of a car by you. Then is when it BEGINS. The pleasure part of Stoddard-Dayton owners is the prompt and willing service rendered to car and owner at all times.

THE PRICE—Complete, as outlined above, (f.o.b. Dayton,) $2800.

We will send you a catalog and, later, call upon you, if you wish. Or, see the Saybrook at our place. We will be glad to show it or give you any further information without obligating you in the least.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. L. A. Mitchell Motor Car Co.

A positive oiling system, because—

A gear-driven pump forces the oil through separate pipes direct to each crank-shaft and cam-shaft bearing and to the commutator bearing.

As the speed of the motor varies the oil pump, being driven by a gear on the cam-shaft, likewise varies the supply of oil in exact proportion to the motor's changing requirements.

By this system a continual flow of oil is forced to each and every bearing.

An oil regulator pressure is provided by which you can give as much, or as little, oil to the motor as the service demands.

Athens Poultry Show.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) More than a thousand birds have been entered at the Southern Poultry Association's show to be held here from December 5 to 7. The winning this week of three loving cups, $300 or $400 in value, and more than a dozen prizes at Savannah by Mrs. L. L. Upson, of this place, and the taking also of several prizes by J. C. Jester, of Athens, adds more interest to the show, in which birds will be exhibited by Athens fanciers alone, besides out-of-town entries which took prizes at Allentown, Memphis, Knoxville, Cleveland, Augusta, Macon and Savannah. Many of the birds will go to the Atlanta show also.

NO DEATHS FROM GRANDSTAND COLLAPSE

Though Football Crowd Suffered Many Injuries at Jackson None Die.

Jackson, Miss., December 1—None of the fifty or more persons who were hurt in the collapse of the grandstand at the football game yesterday have succumbed to their injuries.

A majority of those hurt sustained bruises and fractured or dislocated limbs. Three or four of the patients are in a serious condition.

SOCIETY LEADER SENT TO JAIL FOR WHOLESALE CHICKEN THEFTS

Laporte, Ind., December 1.—Charles J. Rambo, who for months was regarded as a Beau Brummel by Laporte's best society, yesterday was taken to the state prison to serve a sentence of from one to eight years for stealing chickens. At the trial it was shown that after social functions he had robbed hen roosts in all parts of the county for shipment to the Chicago market.

His home is in Pittsburg, Pa.

Miss Lucy Page Gaston, founder and president of the Anti-Cigarette League, has been commissioned policewoman in Chicago. She can now arrest anybody she finds smoking cigarettes on the streets.

PRICE OF COTTON STILL SINKING

Factors in Declines, Freer Southern Offerings and Liquidation.

New York, December 1.—New low records for the season were made in the cotton market today, under a continuation of the selling movement noted before Thanksgiving, continued reports of freer southern spot offerings, talk of large ginning returns for the period ending with the close of business last night, and liquidation. The market closed barely steady at practically the lowest prices of the day and from 8 to 16 points under the final figures of Wednesday.

The opening steady at an advance of four points to a decline of 1 point, near months being relatively steady on scattered covering, which probably was inspired by the failure of Liverpool to show any special weakness over the local holiday. Selling, however, was aggressive and the market weakened right after the call under southern offerings local bear pressure, and liquidation attributed to some of the larger bulls. Covering of shorts, trade buying, and purchases here by houses with foreign connections possibly against sales in Liverpool held the decline in check for the market gradually worked lower being particularly weak and unsettled in the late trading, when spot houses were heavy sellers of march and all active positions sold below the 9 cent level. Rumors of bearish returns to the National Ginners' Association as to the amount of cotton ginned to December 1 were more or less in evidence during the day, but were not accompanied by any defensive figures and the main factor on the decline was said to be the talk of freer southern offerings of low grades, and a fear that the pressure of cotton of this description might increase on a scale down.

A well known southern crop authority issued a statement in defense of a crop estimate of 13,750,000 bales and a western brokerage house published the result of a canvass of southern correspondents pointing to a crop of 14,-379,000 bales exclusive of linters, but neither of these items seemed to make much immediate impression on sentiment owing to the expectation of large ginning figures, and the reports of southern selling.

Receipts a all ports today, 40,000 bales against 83,386 last week and 77,-654 last year. For the week, 475,000 bales against 487,761 last week and 438,567 last year. Todays receipts at New Orleans 2,924 against 13,833 last year and at Houston 14,869 against 12,-099 last year.

Cotton spot closed quiet, five points lower; middling uplands, 9.25; do. gulf, 9.50; sales, 38,800 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, December 1.—Spot cotton steady; quotations revised, middling, 1-16 off at 9 3-16; sales on the spot, 370 bales; to arrive, 3,250; low ordinary, 5½ nominal; ordinary, 6 5-16, nominal; good ordinary, 7⅜; strict good ordinary, 8⅛; low middling, 8 7-16; strict low middling, 8 13-16; middling, 9 3-16; strict middling, 9 7-16; good middling, 9 11-16; strict good middling, 9⅝; middling fair, 10 5-16; strict middling fair, 10 9-16; to arrive, 10 15-16, nominal; receipts, 2,024; stock, 211,716.

Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 2 points down, compared with Wednesday's close. Cables were about as expected, but there were few buying orders on the first call and a little selling served to keep prices down. The weather continued unfavorable, temperatures being low over the cotton region, but this did not stimulate buying. The early trading was featureless. At the end of the first half hour of business, prices were 3 to 4 points under Wednesday's final quotations.

The morning session was very dull. Prices sagged slightly and the market showed no disposition to recuperate. Bears were not aggressive and the bulls offered no special. Gossip was chiefly in connection with the pending report on ginning and it was rumored that private bureau estimates of the amount turned out in the last period would be nearest but no figures were given. Bulls forecasted figures around 12,500,000 as the amount ginned to the end of this last period while the bears talked about 13,000,000 bales. At noon the trading months were 4@5 points under Wednesday's close.

In the afternoon session the market weakened on the report that certain dry goods interests had sold 100,000 bales of futures, against stocks of dry goods.

At 2 o'clock prices were 13 to 15 points under Wednesday's close.

Dry Goods.

New York, December 1.—The cotton markets opened steady with the demand somewhat lighter than early in the week. Fine cottons are very quiet.

Local wools are quiet with traders awaiting news of the proposed tariff revision. Yarns are steady and quiet. Jobbers are receiving many small orders for holiday merchandise for immediate shipment.

Sea Island Cotton.

Savannah, Ga., December 1.—Sea island cotton: Receipts 3,058; sales 1,887; shipments 3,620; stock 10,801. Receipts since September 1, 34,888 bales. Prices: Fancy Georgias 21½; fancy Floridas 21½; extra choice Georgias 20½; extra choice Floridas 20½; choice 19@19½; extra fine 17½; fine Georgias and Floridas 16½; common 15@16. Market firm.

Charleston, S. C., December 1.—Sea island cotton: Receipts for the week amount to 388 bags and total since opening of season 2,829. Total exports for season 297. Stock 3,885. Quotations omitted.

POLITICS TOPIC OF WALL STREET

Stock Market Traders Talk About Assembling of Congress Next Week.

New York, December 1.—Politics and money rates were the foremost considerations today in Wall street. Politics was brought to the fore principally because congress is to assemble next week. Call money was still held at figures much above the levels which have prevailed for several months until the last few days. Loans were placed as high as six per cent, the maximum reached on Wednesday. Both these influences were bearish and speculative sentiment corresponded. Pressure which has been directed against the stock market most of the week was continued and prices sagged, although losses were not heavy.

For the first time in almost a year, out-of-town banks were extensive tenders of money in this market. The high rates for call money attracted much of this outside capital, especially from New England and the middle west. Interior banks are stronger than local institutions, whose resources are threatened with further depletion this week by reason of the continued outflow to Canada and the Pacific coast. The movement continued today with the shipment of $500,000 to San Francisco, bringing up the total loss during the recent outflow to $17,270,-000. Known movements of money for the week indicate a cash loss by the banks of between $5,000,000 and $7,-000,000. In view of the continued loss by the banks, less confidence was shown today of a speedy return to lower rates than was expressed when rates first began to stiffen. Much reliance is placed upon American credits abroad as a secondary reserve and the willingness of out-of-town banks to loan funds here to preserve a balance. Nevertheless, it is regarded as not unlikely that during the remainder of the year money may be quoted at considerably higher figures than have prevailed since January.

The effect of political consideration upon the market was largely negative. Traders displayed the reluctance to buy stocks, which is usual when the convening of congress and the publication of the presidential message are close at hand.

Northern Pacific was the conspicuous weak issue of the list, at one time ruling 2 points below the previous close. Trading was chiefly in the railroad stocks and the pressure against them was insistent during the morning, although losses in most cases did not exceed a point. In the last half hour the market became dull and toward the close covering brought about some improvement.

The copper shares were strong at the opening, on the advance of copper stocks in London, and the sharp decreases in the supply om metal abroad, as shown by the fortnightly report. The European visible supply is now at the lowest point reached since May of 1909.

Several of the large railroad systems made their October reports today. That of the New York Central showed a gain in net earnings of nearly $900,-000, owing largely to reduced expenses, sustained the favorable record of this road within recent months. The Pennsylvania's showing was less favorable, that road reporting a shrinking in net earnings for all lines of $260,000.

Bonds were irregular with some of the local traction issues again showing pronounced strength. Total sales par value $4,293,000. United States 4s registered declined ⅛ on call.

Money and Exchange.

New York, December 1.—Money on call firm at 5@6 per cent; ruling rate, 5; closing bid, 4; offered at 5.

Time loans strong; 60 and 90 days, 3¾@4 per cent; six months, 3¾@4.

Prime mercantile paper, 4@4½ per cent.

Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.8525 for 60 days and at $4.8620 for demand.

Bar silver, 55⅝.

Mexican dollars, 46½.

Government bonds easy; railroad bonds irregular.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, December 1.—At the beginning of business today the condition of the United States treasury was:

Working balance in treasury office, $75,319,636.

The total balance in general fund was $132,-243,628.

Ordinary receipts yesterday were $3,707,053, with ordinary disbursements of $1,091,382.

The deficit to date this fiscal year is $20,641,-157, against a deficit of $9,629,043 at this time last year.

These figures exclude Panama canal and public debt transactions.

London Stock Market.

London, December 1.—American securities were quiet and featureless during the early trading today. Prices ranged from ¼ above to ¼ below parity. Wall street offered stocks in the afternoon and the market declined and closes weak.

Consols for money, ex.-div., 77⅝; for account, ex.-div., 77⅝.

Illinois Central, 147½.

Southern Railway, 30⅝.

Money, 2¼@3 per cent.

Discount in open market for short bills, 3⅜ per cent for three months' bills, 3⅜.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL THE MARKETS

WHEAT SHORTAGE SENT PRICE UP

Market Closed Half a Cent Higher --- Corn and Oats Also Up.

Chicago, December 1.—With the world's wheat crop estimated at 104,-000,000 bushels less than last year, the market for the cereal today took a decided upward twist, prices at the close showing half a cent net advance all around. Corn made a rise of ¼ to ⅞@1c, and oats a gain of a shade to ⅛@¼. The end of the day left the hog products 5 to 10@12½c decline.

The fact that the wheat crop a year ago from all countries, taken together, was only a moderate one, drew attention more emphatically to the falling off in the current new supply. A record-breaking shortage of potatoes, it was pointed out, made the outlook seem even more serious, in the opinion of many traders. An additional source of strength developed from statements to the effect that late seeded winter wheat east of the Mississippi was in a somewhat unfavorable condition. Besides there were heavy rains, making the prospect in the Argentine assume a less hopeful aspect. A similar effect resulted, too, from a decrease of nearly 3,000,00 bushels in the stock of wheat at Duluth. It was this latter item, in fact, which overcame a rather sharp dip in prices early, owing to continued heavy receipts northwest.

Firmness late in the day received additional impetus owing to gossip that the government report on growing wheat would exhibit a material drop from last year in the total of acreage under seed. December deliveries here amounted to more than 3,000,000 bushels, but were well taken, and had no adverse influence on the market. Between the opening and the close, May ranged from 98¾@98⅞ to 99⅞, closing steady half a cent up at 99½@99⅝.

Corn shorts were uneasy over the moderate marekting and the strong cash situation. Small stocks and good eastern demand combined to cause an advance. May fluctuated from 64 to 64⅝, with the close 64½, a net gain of ¼c. Cash grades were firm; No. 2 yellow was quoted at 72@73.

Oats held a strong undertone. Cash and elevator concerns were taking off their hedges. Furthermore, the movement of the crop continued to be small, and the deliveries on December contracts, though large, went to dealers financially well prepared. High and low prices touched for the May delivery were 49⅝@49⅞ ad 49½, with last sales 49⅝@49¾, a gain of a shade over 48 hours before.

Provisions sagged, owing to predictions there would be a heavy run of hogs next week. It was also expected that stocks of product here would show tonight a substantial increase. As a result, prices were cut all around—pork, 10; lard, 5 to 7½c, and ribs, 7½ to 10@12½c.

THEODORE H. PRICE AND CO., 24 South William Street NEW YORK

The progress and prosperity of the South, and the recognition it is receiving in the financial centers of the North and Europe, have prompted me to organize a firm which will give special attention to—

1st. The negotiation of collateral loans for responsible borrowers, and especially loans secured by cotton in store in the South.

2d. The purchase and sale of commercial paper issued in connection with sound commercial business.

3rd. The negotiation of rediscounts for banks and bankers.

4th. The purchase and sale of securities of industrial or cotton manufacturing companies or public service corporations.

5th. The negotiation of loans or bond issues for counties and municipalities.

6th. The procurement of additional capital for industrial enterprises already organized, and the financing of new corporations for the legitimate development of undeveloped opportunities.

7th. The organization of interurban trolley or motor 'bus lines, for which there is a large field and great opportunity.

8th. The formation of local Companies for the purchase and operation of the Price-Campbell Cotton Picking Machine, the success of which has now been amply demonstrated.

Correspondence is invited upon any subject suggested by the foregoing statement of my general purpose, which is the development of Southern opportunity.

THEODORE H. PRICE.

LATEST MARKET NEWS

COTTON THE PAST WEEK REVIEW OF THE MARKET

New York, December 1.—Cotton has fallen below the 9-cent level, owing to the increasing pressure from the south to sell. Of course there has also been more or less selling for short account, but this has been limited to a small number of operators. Spot markets in some cases have declined under the weight of a liberal crop movement and a tendency to increase the size of the estimates of the crop. The New Orleans Times-Democrat puts it at 14,835,000 bales, exclusive of linters, and repacks. Some have figured that this really means an estimate of something like 15,300,000 bales. A Texas estimate was as high as 15,845,000 bales. The average estimate of 183 members of the New York Cotton Exchange was 15,238,000 bales. December notices amounted to at least 30,000 bales, and being larger than expected, had a more or less depressing effect. New low levels of prices have been reported. At times the offering in Liverpool have been large. Following the decline in raw cotton, the trade in cotton goods is said to have slackened somewhat and a large Chicago house is said to have made a downward revision of domestics. Northern spinners' takings continue to run considerably behind those of last year. Rumors are in circulation to the effect that the next National Ginners' Association's report will show a large total.

Manchester has been quiet. The spot sales in Liverpool have been small. Wall street and Waldorf-Astoria interests have sold to some extent. There is talk to the effect that a superabundance of low grades exists in the present crop and that this is a weak feature. On the other hand, the continent is buying freely in Liverpool and is taking considerable quantities of the next crop months here, particularly October, but also September as well as July and August. October is in such demand that it has been selling at 12 points over July, whereas in recent years July has sold at 200 points over October. Augusta has been 5 points over July, against 20 points under July a year ago. These premiums on August and October at this time of the year are most unusual and reflect the urgency of the demand for these far-off months.

Already it is believed that the continent has taken several hundred thousand bales of the next crop months. The sales of print cloths and convertibles last week reached the big total of 1,000,000 pieces or more. Many think that the crop is being overestimated and that the census report of the ginning on December 8 and the bureau of agriculture's estimate of the crop on December 11 will tend to make this clear. The recent cold weather is believed to have interfered with marketing and ginning. But the sentiment here is still generally bearish and on Friday new low levels were reached for all months except December. Memphis sold freely enough to give rise to a rumor that the next report of the National Ginners' Association on the ginning will be bearish. The active months here were selling at 100 points under the corresponding months in Liverpool.

Hester's World's Visible Supply

New Orleans, December 1.—Secretary Hesters' statement of the world's visible supply of cotton made up from special cable and telegraphic advices compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before. It shows an increase for the week just closed of 253,744, against an increase of 292,116 last year and an increase of 64,761 year before last.

The total visible is 4,673,578, against 4,419,834 last week, 4,299,214 last year and 4,624,834 last week, 3,535,214 last year and 3,814,480 year before last, and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 641,000, against 607,000 last week, 764,000 last year and 810,000 year before last.

The total visible supply of cotton as above shows an increase compared with last week of 263,744, an increase compared with last year of 374,364, and an ingrease compared with year before last of 49,098.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton as above, there is now afloat and held in Great Britain and continental Europe 2,191,000, against 2,100,000 last year and 2,002,000 year before last; in Egypt, 185,000, against 257,000 last year and 212,000 year before last; in India, 226,000, against 215,000 last year and 306,000 year before last, and in the United States 2,072,000, against 1,728,000 last year and 1,504,000 year before last.

Taking of American Cotton by Spinners.

New Orleans, December 1.—Secretary Hester gives the taking of American cotton by spinners throughout the world as follows, in round numbers:

This week 388,000 this year, against 350,000 last year, 366,000 year before last.

Total since September 1, this year, 3,877,000, against 3,456,000 last year, and 3,540,000 the year before.

Of this northern spinners and Canada took 773,000 bales this year, against 924,000 last year, and 833,000 the year before; southern spinners 751,000, against 711,000 last year, and 702,000 the year before, and foreign spinners, 2,353,000, against 1,821,000 last year, and 1,985,000 the year before.

HESTER'S WEEKLY COTTON STATEMENT

New Orleans, December 1.—Secretary Hester's New Orleans Cotton Exchange statement issued today covers the monthly movement to the end of November.

Compared with last year it shows an increase for the month in round figures of 212,000 bales, compared with year before last an increase of 750,000, and with 1908, 97,000.

The total for November was 2,602,398, against 2,480,767 last year, 1,842,639 year before last and 2,595,097 same time in 1908.

In addition to the monthly figures Secretary Hester issued today a statement of the weekly movement for the seven days ending December 1, inclusive showing total brought into sight this year 607,521, against 610,683 for the seven days ending December 1 last year, 368,113 year before last and 634,496 same time in 1908.

The movement from September 1 to November 30, inclusive, shows receipts at all United States ports 5,349,098, against 4,430,905 last year, 4,200,687 year before last and 4,441,441 same time in 1908; overland across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers to northern mills and Canada, 241,675, against 350,246 last year, 303,146 year before last and 435,183 same time in 1908; southern mills takings, exclusive of quantity consumed at southern outports, 730,000, against 688,000 last year, 655,000 year before last and 677,000 same time in 1908; and interior stocks in excess of those held at the commencement of the season 723,626, against 645,407 last year, 611,000 year before last and 657,085 same time in 1908.

These make the total movement of the cotton crop brought into sight during the three months ending close of November 7,044,399, against 6,114,558 last year, 5,808,833 year before last and 6,846,709 same time in 1908.

Northern spinners took during November 861,224 bales, against 456,242 last year and 450,105 year before last, increasing their total for the three months to 1,762,294, against 1,206,571 last year and 825,878 the year before. This makes their average weekly takings for the season 57,877 against 69,901 last year and 63,529 the year before.

Foreign exports for the three months of the season have been 3,752,682 bales, showing an increase over last season of 675,550, and an increase over the same period year before last of 720,352.

Stocks at the seaboard and the twenty-nine leading southern interior markets on November 30 were 2,086,477, against 1,683,616 the same date last year, and 1,505,968 the year before.

Including port and interior towns stocks left over from the previous season and the number of bales of the current crop brought into sight during three months, the supply has been 7,331,573 bales, against 6,362,520 last year and 6,061,149 the year before.

Up to November 30 last year 50.45 per cent of the cotton crop had been marketed and for the same three months in 1909 the percentage of the crop brought into sight was 54.75 and for the same time in 1908 the percentage was 45.91.

WEEK'S TRADE REVIEW.

What Commercial Agencies Say About Business.

New York, December 1.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that weather and holiday influences have dominated distributive trade this week. Cold weather throughout a wide area, the cool wave penetrating far to the south, has helped the seasonable trade in winter wear goods at retail and also measureably helped demands upon jobbers for immediate shipment. Spring trade has tended to conservatism similar to that hitherto noted. Still, a few markets note an increased number of orders received for spring and recent revisions of cotton goods prices are expected to evoke more business in this line. There is noticeable a slightly more cheerful tone in reports from some leading western centers hitherto reporting rather quiet trade. Holiday prospects are classed as fair to good. The influence of the low price of cotton upon southern trade still is perceptible in the reports of advices of widespread holding of cotton by farmers. Indeed, the slowest trade reports now come from that section.

In line with the past and present relatively low prices of cotton are the revisions of prices of bleached goods and sheetings reported this week, but the print cloth market has held firm and sales at leading points of production are reported large.

Among the industries there is evident a rather fuller volume of production than for some time. Prominent in this line are iron and steel, evoked probably by the recent placing of liberal car orders by railroads. Pig iron especially has sold well and the feeing has grown that prices are on the bottom. Fairly good reports come from the woolen goods manufacturing and kindred trades.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending November 30 were 293, against 290 last week, 217 in the like week of 1910, 230 in 1904, 234 in 1908 and 272 in 1907. Business failures in Canada for the week number 26, which compares with 34 last week and 32 in the corresponding week of last year.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending November 30 are the largest reported in two years, aggregating 14,855,216 bushels, against 4,002,440 last week and 3,598,193 this week last year. For the twenty-two weeks ending November 30, exports are 70,734,441 bushels, against 244,789,132 in the corresponding period last year. Corn exports for the week are 144,856 bushels, against 188,803 last week and 280,363 in 1910. For the 22 weeks endirg November 30 corn exports are 11,137,357 bushels, against 8,212,052 last year.

TRAINED NURSE CONFESSES TO MURDER OF YOUNG BABY

Nashville, Tenn., December 1.—A Florence, Ala., dispatch says that Miss Jersie Mabry, the attending trained nurse, has confessed to having given poison to the infant of A. H. Carmichael, ex-speaker of the Alabama house of representatives.

The child died about six weeks ago. Those who know the nurse think the confession, it is said, the result of an unbalanced mind. After her confession she was placed in jail.

DID BEATTIE LEAVE SECOND CONFESSION FOR FAMILY?

Richmond, Va., December 1.—The News-Leader here today prints the outline of what is said to have been a detailed and private confession left by Hery Clay Beattie, Jr., for the perusal of his family aloen.

According to this alleged confession, Beattie decided two weeks before the crime was committed to kill his wife The details of the murder coincide almost precisely with the theory of the case set out by the state at the trial. Beattie induced his cousin Paul to buy the gun and hide it behind a stump on the Midlothian turnpike.

He is said to have stated that he shot his wife full in the face as she was stepping from his automobile, and that she fell backward into the road. Beattie denied that he first knocked his wife down, a story which gave him "much annoyance, implying cowardice." Beattie is also said to have denied that he sat upon his wife's body during the wild drive to Richmond. He is said to have asserted that his marriage was comparatively loveless, and was forced upon him by his father's earnest wishes.

THIS INMATE OF SING SING REFUSES TO ACCEPT PARDON

Issining, N. Y., December 1.—Patrick Kiernan, convict in Sing Sing prison, likes his prison quarters so well that he declines to enthuse over the announcement of his pardon by Governor Dix. The aged man glanced at the document curiously when it was received, and then handed it back:

"I don't know that I care to accept it," he said. "I haven't any relatives, and I've no friends outside these walls. They've all died or scattered in the twety-five years I've bee here. This pardon means really that I leave my home."

Kiernan was sentenced to death for a murder committed in Brooklyn more than a quarter of a century ago, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Never during his confinement has he broken a rule.

The pardon will not take effect until next week, but he will have to accept it then, whether he wants to or not.

CELEBRATES HER 116TH BIRTHDAY BY PREPARING TURKEY DINNER

New York, December 1.—Mrs. Rosie Levy, 116 years old, New York city's oldest inhabitant, celebrated her birthday anniversary yesterday by preparing a turkey dinner for more than thirty guests. She is the grandmother of Aaron J. Levy, chairman of the judiciary committee of the New York state legislature.

Mrs. Levy was born in Russia and has had 16 children, 10 of whom are living. She has retained her faculties to a remarkable extent, and can read, sew and knit without the aid of spectacles. She wears the latest styles in millinery. She has a great faculty for remembering the names and faces of persons she meets.

AUTOISTS CRASH THROUGH FENCE

Of the Party of Five, One Is Dead and Others All Badly Injured.

Haverstraw, N. Y., December 1.—An automobile traveling at 40 miles an hour plunged over a 20-foot embankment near here last night with five occupants. One was fatally injured and the others were severely hurt.

The party had been attending a dance. The accident happened at a sharp turn in the road. Crashing through the rail fence which protected the embankment, the machine landed in a group of trees and turned over, throwing its occupants out in all directions.

All five were unconscious when discovered by a passing milkman.

DID NEGRO FAMILY KILL 10 NEGROES?

Man and Daughter Charged With Slaughter of Four and Six.

Lafayette, La., December 1.—Clementine Bernabet, the negress charged with the murder of a family of six negroes last Sunday night, was last night transferred to the parish jail. Her father, Raymond Bernabet, awaiting a new trial after being convicted of killing four negroes last February, was carried to Crowley, La., for safekeeping.

Bernabet secured a new trial on the novel plea of being too drunk to take the stand in his own behalf. No new evidence has been discovered in the case of the negress.

THREE TURKS KILLED IN BOMBARDMENT

Likely Attack on Mocha Will Be Made by More Powerful Italian Warship.

Perim, December 1.—The bombardment of the fortified seaport of Mocha, on the coast of Arabia, caused considerable damage, but only three Turks are reported to have been killed.

The Turkish gunners in the fort replied to the firing from the Italian warships with fifteen shells, all of which, however, fell short except the last one, which passed over an Italian cruiser, causing it to withdraw promptly.

It is stated that the bombardment probably will be resumed on December 4 by a more powerful Italian warship.

THEATERGOERS STRUCK BY AUTO

Fifty Knocked Down and Eight Badly Hurt in New York Street.

New York, December 1.—Fifty persons were knocked down and seven were seriously injured when a runaway automobile dashed into a crowd of theatergoers in Times Square late last night.

The car was driven by a stranger in silk hat and evening clothes, who evidently was unable to guide it. He escaped through the crowd.

DYNAMITE BLOWS CAR OFF TRACK

Trolley Motorman Injured. Bad Feeling Over Transfers May Be Responsible.

Birmingham, Ala., December 1.—An interurban electric car on the South Ensley line was blown up by dynamite at Ensley Highland station shortly after 7 o'clock tonight. Motorman Johnson was seriously injured about the hip and back and Dispatcher Parsons was badly cut about the face by flying glass. Conductor J. D. Lee and the passengers who were on the inside of the car were uninjured, though practically every bit of glass in the car was shattered.

Motorman Johnson believes a stick of dynamite was placed in the groove inside the track, as one side of the front wheel was blown completely off. He says the front end of the car appeared to jump upwards a foot, which threw him backward against the door.

Considerable feeling against the local traction company has been aroused by the signing last Saturday by the city commissioners of a new contract with the company affecting street car rates, transfers and the prices of electricity. The chief seat of objection has been around Wylam, a place near Ensley, where transfers are not allowed under the new arrangement.

Homeseekers Arrive.

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Seven eastern states were represented by homeseekers reaching Waycross last night to begin work on farms purchased in Ware county some months ago. Without exception the new settlers came from points where heavy snows have already fallen and where it has been too cold for outdoor work for weeks before the first light frost in this section. They are all enthusiastic over south Georgia and state that they will be followed in the spring by several families from each locality. They propose to farm on the intensive plan and will not undertake to care for a greater acreage than can be properly cultivated.

Swamp Lands Reclaimed.

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—Engineer J. V. Phillips has been kept busy for several weeks on various drainage projects, mostly in middle and north Georgia, where owners of swamp and river bottom lands are preparing to place the land in such shape as will allow its cultivation. In Jackson county about 3,000 acres will be reclaimed along the Grove river. In Gwinnett county 2,000 acres will be made useful along the Appalachee river. In Telfair county the government has been aiding in underground tile drainage. Proably one of the biggest drainage feats now being investigated is that of Cedar Lake, in Jackson county, Florida.

Cut Mayor's Salary.

Waycross, Ga., December 1.—(Special)—The People's League, one of the several political organizations in Waycross at this time, is working to have the salary of the mayor cut from $600 a year to $300. This is in view of the proposed establishment of a recorder's court, thereby relieving the mayor of the tedious task of conducting daily police court. An effort has been made in council to prepare the way for a recorder's court, but the motion was defeated.

Price of Beer Going Up.

Chicago, December 1.—For the second time within sixty days the price of beer will be raised today. Beer that October 1 sold for $4 a barrel will sell for $4.50. All grades of the malt product are similarly affected.

GUARDIAN'S SALE FOR REINVESTMENT.

To Whom It May Concern: You are hereby notified that I, J. W. Bachman, guardian of the person and property of Adelaide Wilson, insane, will, on Friday, December 22, 1911, at 9 o'clock a. m. (or so soon thereafter as same can be heard), make application to the Superior Court of Fulton county at the courthouse in Atlanta, Ga., for an order authorizing me to sell at private sale to Mrs. W. B. Wilkerson for the sum of $300 cash the following described property: One vacant lot in DeKalb county, Georgia, fronting on Connecticut avenue 47 feet and extending back 325 feet, more or less, on the one side and 302 feet, more or less, on the other side, and being known as lot No. 2 in block "P" of the Colquitt Hill property, the proceeds derived from said sale to be reinvested in such manner as said court may hereafter direct.

Also at the same time and place I will make application for leave to sell at private sale, to J. N. Renfroe and N. M. Daniel for the sum of $3,100 (to be paid $1,000 cash and balance on or before six months from the date of the order authorizing the sale with interest at 7 per cent per annum) the following described property:

All that tract of land in the city of Atlanta, a part of land lot 46 of the 14th district of Fulton county, Georgia, and more particularly described as beginning at the southeast corner of North Boulevard and Highland avenue, thence south on the east side of the Boulevard 54 feet, or half the distance from said street corner and the Wikle property, and extending back east same width as front 174 feet, more or less, to a ten-foot alley. The proceeds from the sale of this lot to be reinvested as the said Superior Court of Fulton county, Georgia, shall hereafter direct.

Also at the same time and place I will make application for leave to sell at private sale to John T. Slaughter for the sum of $1,125 (to be paid $100 cash and balance in equal payments due in six, twelve and eighteen months with interest at 7 per cent) and deferred payments, the following described property: All that tract of land in the city of Atlanta in land lot 46 of the 14th district of Fulton county, Georgia, and more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at a point on the south side of Highland avenue 384 feet east from the east side of the Boulevard, thence east along the south side of Highland avenue 50 feet, and extending back south same width with front 108 feet, more or less, together with such rights in a 20-foot alley in the rear of said lot as the said estate of Adelaide Wilson may have. The proceeds from the sale of said lot to be reinvested as the said Superior Court of Fulton county, Georgia, shall hereafter direct.

Said orders of sale will be asked, for the reason that all of the above described real estate is vacant, unproductive, producing no income, nor can it produce any, and all of the same is expensive to keep and maintain.

Also at the same time and place I will make application for leave to sell twenty shares of the capital stock of the Lakewood Land Company to J. D. Collins, Jr., for the sum of $300, to be paid $100 cash, balance in six, twelve and eighteen months in equal payments, the proceeds of such sale to be reinvested upon such terms and conditions and in such manner as to the Superior Court of Fulton county, Georgia, may seem fit and proper. The reasons for asking for this order of sale being that said stock is not income producing, has never paid a dividend and is not likely to pay one.

Guardian of Adelaide Wilson.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—To the Superior Court of Said County:

The petition of M. C. Carroll, Jr., Richard A. Magill, Robert R. Otis, Peter P. Clarke, Joseph H. Hines, Thomas C. Hamilton, Cornelius Sheehan, J. Charles Gavan and Jack J. Spalding, respectfully shows:

I.

"COLUMBIAN BUILDING ASSOCIATION."

II.

Petitioners desire that said corporation shall have a capital stock of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars, divided into shares of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars each, with the right and privilege to increase the same from time to time to an aggregate amount not exceeding fifty thousand ($50,000.00) dollars.

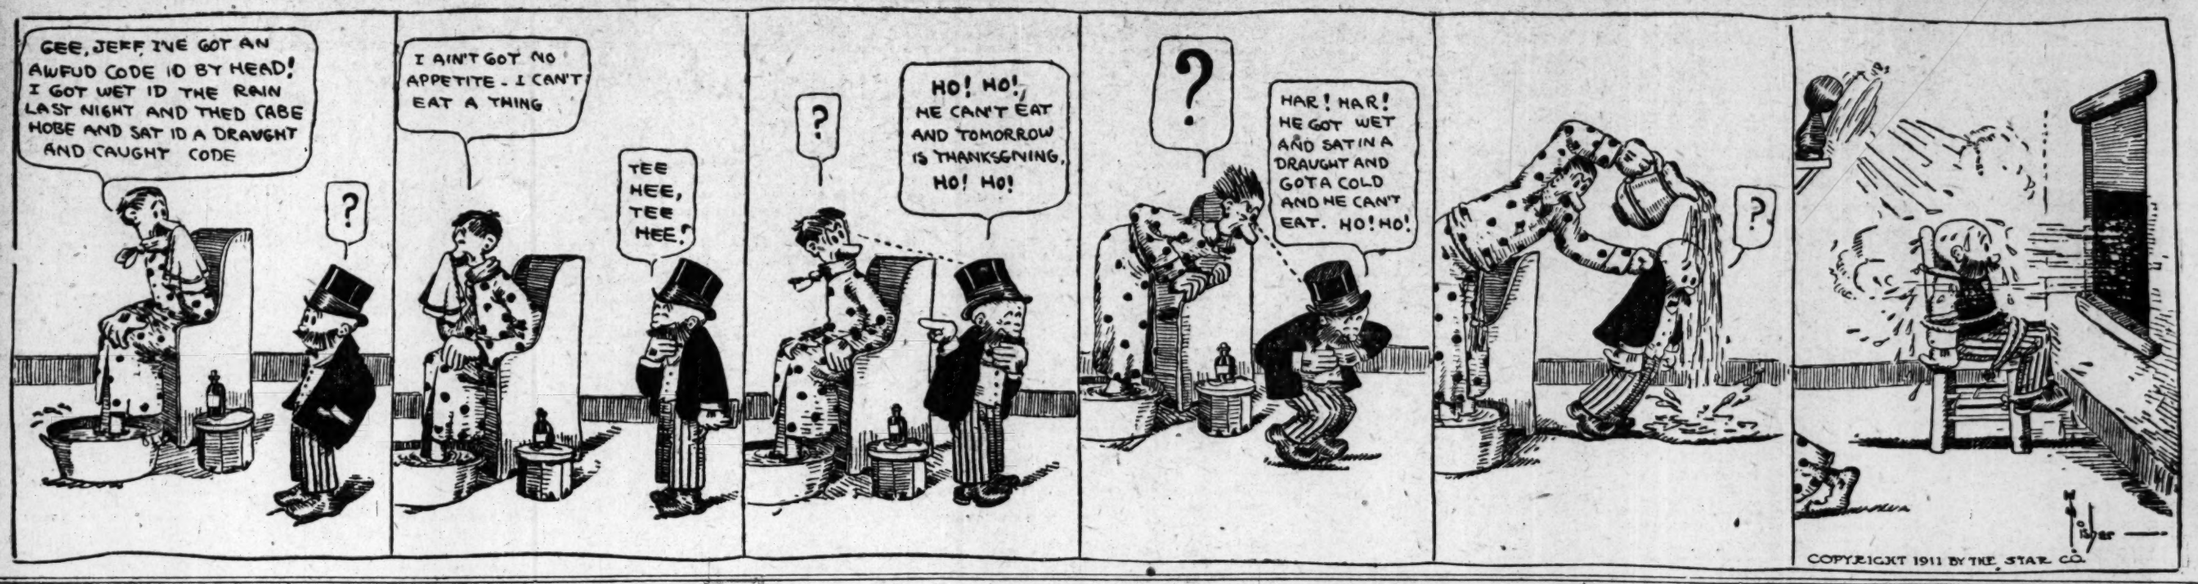

III.

The purposes of said corporation are to conduct business for pecuniary gain by buying, selling, holding and dealing in, building upon and otherwise improving real estate and any and all interests therein, by leasing, renting and otherwise acquiring or disposing of real estate or any interest therein, and generally to do all such things in owning, improving, selling and disposing of and using Real Estate and all interest therein that as a private individual could do.

NURSE ON STAND IN HYDE CASE

Defense Trying to Prove That Cyanide Traces Were From Food Eaten.

Kansas City, December 1.—Mrs. Baumann, formerly one of the nurses in the Swope household, testifying in the case of Dr. B. Clark Hyde, on trial for the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, this morning declared that Chrisman Swope had eaten food during the few hours preceding his death which might have caused a response to the cynaide test.

The state is trying to show that Chrisman Swope and his uncle, Colonel Swope, died under similar circumstances, and contends that experts found cynaide in the stomachs of both after death. Hyde's attorneys will attempt to show that the cynaide reaction might have been caused by fruit seeds swallowed with food.

Attorney Jost, for the state, spent practically the entire morning in continuation of the examination of Mrs. Baumann.

No delay will be caused in the trial on account of the illness of Harry Waldron, the juror who was stricken yesterday. He was feeling much improved today, and was able to resume his seat in the jury box.

So rare is hydrophobia in Europe that fewer than a dozen fatal cases of the disease have been reported in the last ten years.

UPSHAW SPEAKS FOR POPE BROWN

Judge Covington, Who Was Also Expected, Did Not Appear.

Athens, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) The Colonial opera house was filled tonight with the best people of Athens t ohear Judge W. A. Covington and Mr. W. D. Upshaw speak on behalf of Pope Brown's candidacy for governor. Judge Covington failed to appear, and there was no explanation from either the judge himself or from the managers of the campaign, state or local.

The audience heard two full hours and more of speaking, however, Judge G. C. Thomas taking an hour to introduce Mr. Upshaw, affectionately known here as "Earnest Willie." Mr. Upshaw kept the crowd in good humor for an hour and a half. The audience gave close attention to the speeches.

Car Dyn mited.

Birmingham, Ala., December 1.—A south Ensley car was blown up by dynamite placed on the track at Hill Top station early tonight. The wheels of the car were torn off, glass shattered and the motorman and conductor were so severely injured they were hurried to a hospital.

Lepine to Retire.

Paris, December 1.—Somewhat of a sensation has been created here by the report that M. Lepine is about to retire from the prefecture of police, which he has held for sixteen years, to become a candidate for the senate in the next election. The fact that M. Lepine has written a letter criticising the present political situation to the newspapers in the department of Loire is taken as confirmation that he will be a candidate there.

City Clock Freezes.

Rome, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) The weather was so cold early this morning that the city clock was frozen up. The clock did not literally freeze, but the oil was thickened by the low temperature and caused the trouble, which righted itself when the rays of the sun came out.

Farmer Runs Amuck.

Rome, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) While in a crazy drunken condition, Ray Van, a farmer residing near the government lock and dam down the Coosa river, ran amuck in that section today, and with an automatic revolver defied the whole settlement, taking several shots at some of his neighbors. He was finally surrounded by about twenty-five men and taken into captivity, but not until he had been badly beaten up. Sheriff Dunnehoo was telephoned to come and take the man to jail. He quickly responded and brought Van to jail and placed him in a cell. Van is a well known man and has never borne the reputation of being a desperado.

Givens Killed.

McComb City, Miss., December 1.—Howard Givens, son of Rev. D. A. Givens and a member of the firm of C. R. Gardner & Co., was shot four times and instantly killed at 11 o'clock today by Tony Huggins. The men had a dispute over an account which Huggins owed at the store and it is said that Huggins was drinking. Huggins was arrested and placed in jail.

Bigger German Navy.

Berlin, December 1.—A news agency which is sometimes well informed, states that an increase of the German navy has been decided upon. It says that the government is determined to spend $90,000,000 on the augmentation of its fleet, which sum will be spread over six years. Official circles maintain silence.

Maloney Dead.

New Orleans, December 1.—Michael S. Maloney, aged 41, assistant manager of the Western Union office in this city, died last night at the Maloney residence, after a brief illness. He was made assistant manager last September after 25 years' service with the company. He started as check boy. A widow and nine children survive him. Funeral arrangements will be delayed pending the arrival of a sister, Mrs. J. McChray, of Savannah, Ga.

Telephone Company Organized.

Quitman, Ga., December 1.—(Special.)—The Marven Telephone Company has just been organized, with B. F. Scruggs as president, A. J. Hodges, vice president, and E. Lloyd Knight, secretary and treasurer. A local exchange will be established and connections made with the distance lines of the Bell system.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

The commissioner's sale of the Mitchell property on Whitehall street and Trinity avenue, which took place last Monday, will come up in the superior court before Judge John T. Pendleton for confirmation this morning at 9 o'clock.

S. B. Turman, as commissioner, sold the property at auction last Monday. The property consisted of No. 126 Whitehall street, which was sold to George W. Scaple for $27,170; No. 138 Whitehall street, sold to McMillan & Alverson, for $22,662.50, and a vacant lot on Trinity avenue, near Whitehall street, which was bought by Miss Aurelia Roach for $7,975.

Considerable interest centers around the decision of the court, since a confirmation of the sale will mean the changing hands of this property which has been in the possession of the Mitchell family for the last half a century. The property is very central in its location and any development or improvements that may come through a transfer of the property will be of the highest interest to realty owners.

Real Estate Sales.

The following sales were announced Friday:

Ralph O. Cochran's agency has sold for L. J. Haas to Lee Hagan, of Hagan & Dood, a vacant lot 100x100 feet, on Armstrong street, for $9,000. This lot is on the south side of the street, 100 feet east of Piedmont avenue, and brought $90 per front foot.

Charles P. Glover's agency has sold for Brookhaven estates, two lots on Brookhaven drive, 290x400 feet to W. E. C. Smith, for $7,250. The same agency has also sold a lot 100x250 feet to Mrs. Carrie H. L'Engle, for $25 a front foot.

ATTORNEY KILPATRICK ON FIRE BUT KEPT ARGUING HIS CASE

At one of the most critical points in the argument of the defense in the case of the state against King Bros., charged with usurious money lending, proceedings in the court were interrupted by fire. No alarm was rung in, however, as Deputy Plennie Miner succeeded in quenching the incipient blaze before any damage was done, and instead of the usual confusion incident to a fire, there was only amused laughter.

For the fire originated in the coat pocket of Attorney J. D. Kilpatrick, and so engrossed was he in the argument he was making to the judge he did not even notice that he was afire.

"Excuse me," said Deputy Plennie Miner, when he perceived the thin line of smoke curling up behind Attorney Kilpatrick's head. "Excuse me, Mr. Kilpatrick, you are on fire." Deputy Miner's tone was perfectly matter-of-fact, and the way in which he proceeded to put out the fire in the attorney's coat pocket was as calm as if it were a part of the daily routine of the court.

The laugh which greeted the discovery was not usual, however, and the judge had to rap several times for order; but he laughed also to himself when he recalled the picture of Attorney Kilpatrick standing to argue a technical point in law, with a fire merrily burning in his coat pocket.

"I knew you were a hot one," commented Luther Z. Rosser, when the fire was successfully out, "but I did not know you were quite that warm." Whereupon there was another laugh.

The fire started because in some way a box of safety (?) matches had become ignited in Attorney Kilpatrick's pocket.

SHOP FOR THE BLIND HAS FORMAL OPENING

The opening exercisees of the Atlanta Industrial Shop for the Blind were held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in their recently furnished quarters at 78 Carroll street The principal speech of the occasion was delivered by Dr. J. could see it, was printed Robert Louis Stevenson's conception of "A MORNING PRAYER."

This is the way it read:

A MORNING PRAYER.

The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man, help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces; let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undishonored; and grant us in the end the gift of sleep. Amen.

I thought to myself—if that young man carries out the purpose of this prayer every day HE IS WORKING ON RIGHT LINES.

If we all worked in the same way what a CHEERFUL LOT of people we would be! How we would forget the anxieties of the day and HOW MUCH BETTER WE WOULD BE ABLE TO DO OUR WORK!

If we can play the part of the man in the ADVERTISING COPY we put out; if it is CHEERFUL and TRUTHFUL; if it impresses people with the fact that we go about our business all the time TRYING TO DO THE RIGHT THING by those who patronize us, what a fine thing business would be! How EFFECTIVE would be the advertising we placed!

The advertising that is CHEERFUL and TRUTHFUL, that reads as though it were SINCERE, is the only kind, after all, that pays and the work that we do here, unless accompanied with enthusiasm and hearty good will, doesn't amount to anything.

It would be a good thing for us all to keep this prayer of Robert Louis Stevenson's before our eyes all the time.

DEBUTANTE ELOPER GETS FORGIVENESS

Miss Drake, Who Eloped With Week's Acquaintance, Forgiven.

Macon, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) Parental forgiveness has been granted to Mrs. Paul C. Sahmer, Miss Martha Drake that was, who eloped this week, and she and her husband will return to Macon in a few days. Miss Drake was one of the most attractive young society girls of Macon, and her elopement with Mr. Sahmer, of New York, whom she had known only a week, was a great surprise.

The bride's mother, Mrs. J. D. Lanier, was very bitter at first, but has relented, and today she telephoned the young couple at Columbus, Ga., to return.

CONSTITUTION'S BEEFSTEAK SUPPER KEENLY ANTICIPATED

Dublin, Ga., December 1.—(Special.) The members of the tour Around Georgia party are looking forward with much pleasure to the beefsteak supper to be tendered them at the Piedmont Driving Club tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock by The Constitution.

The invitation extended from Atlanta tonight by long distance telephone was received with hearty approval, and everybody said it was just the thing.

There are approximately one hundred tourists in the twenty-eight cars remaining in the tour, and after tomorrow's long ride, every one of them will be in just the humor to fight a piece of beefsteak with interest and enthusiasm.

The tour party will pass through Whitehall and Peachtree streets between 4 and 5 o'clock, going direct to the driving club, where each car will check in.

They will then enjoy a bit of beefsteak with the usual accompaniments before dispersing for home. They have all agreed that they will be ready to go for it without even washing their faces.

JOE BROWN MONEY LOOKING FOR CONFIDENT LON DICKEY

Where is Lon Dickey?

That question caused J. T. Kimbrough, the well known Atlanta real estate man, with offices at 409 Atlanta National bank building, to spend a whole day's search, which included some telegraphing and some street car riding, but is still unanswered.

For a gentleman of betting proclivities who evidently thinks he has a cinch, Lon Dickey was about the most elusive gentleman that Mr. Kimbrough has gone in search of in many a day. Mr. Kimbrough would have given a good deal to have met Mr. Dickey Friday, but evidently Friday is his unlucky day. However, he is hoping it is not yet too late, for he sees an opportunity of picking up $250, which would come in mighty handy for Christmas presents.

The Cause of the Hunt.

In a local paper of Thursday there appeared the following, which caused Mr. Kimbrough, who is a strong Joe Brown supporter, to get very busy:

"Mr. Lon Dickey, a prominent south Georgian and a resident of Fitzgerald, writes to Pope Brown headquarters as follows:

"'The Constitution's claim that the eleventh congressional district is for Joe Brown is bosh. I will bet $250 that he will be the third man in the race in the eleventh district. I will also bet one to four that he will not carry two counties in the district. He has a small chance to carry Lowndes county.'"

Mr. Kimbrough immediately wired to B. F. Strickland, of Fitzgerald and got the following reply:

"Fitzgerald, Ga., December 1.

"J. T. Kimbrough, Atlanta, Ga.—Lon Dickey a bluff. Press your bet. You will win in walk. Advise results.

"B. T. STRICKLAND."

Whereupon Mr. Kimbrough endeavored to reach Mr. Dickey at Fitzgerald, but he was not there.

Got Busy With Wire.

Now, Mr. Dickey lives in Fitzgerald and is well known. Mr. Kimbrough sent another telegram, this time to Hon. W. R. Bowen, a well-known banker of Fitzgerald. The reply was as follows:

"Fitzgerald, Ga., December 1.

"J. T. Kimbrough, Atlanta, Ga.—Lon Dickey's address four hundred twenty-eight West Peachtree. See him there to close bets.

"W. R. BOWEN."

Mr. Kimbrough lost no time in sending out to 428 West Peachtree, where he was informed that Mr. Dickey was not known.

With that Mr. Kimbrough was up against it. However, he hasn't lost hope. He is anxious to make that bet, and if Mr. Dickey will communicate with him by telegram he will be glad to pay for the message; also he will give him a bonus if he will make the bet. Any one who will inform him at 409 Atlanta National bank building of Mr. Dickey's present whereabouts will receive his grateful thanks.

Betters Very Scarce.

Gentlemen of sporting proclivities who have coin to place on the Hon. Pope Brown or Judge Dick Russell have been as scarce as hen's teeth for the past several days. Rumor after rumor has reached the Joe Brown headquarters of men who wanted to wager money. With each fresh rumor Joe Brown men with the thing that talks would rush out and attempt to get some of it down. In each case there has been a proviso or a quibble of some kind where the man was found, but in most cases the rumors were founded on nothing more substantial than the stuff conversation is made of.

About ten days ago a well known man who usually makes it a point of placing large amounts on elections was offering to bet $500 on Judge Russell. He was called on by a man willing to cover the amount, but he was put off. Today he is betting on Joe Brown.

BRITTAIN SPEAKS AT TEXAS MEETING

Georgia State School Commissioner at Houston.

Southern Educational Association Discusses Many Questions of Importance to the South---Committee Meetings Are Held.

Houston, Texas, December 1.—A general meeting and several sectional meetings comprised today's program of the Southern Educational Association. Rural life and factory children were the principal themes of the general session discussion.

W. M. Hays, assistant commissioner of agriculture, of Washington, discussed "country life community building." M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of schools, Atlanta, was scheduled to speak on "The Education of the Farmer's Child."

"Training Boys and Girls for Efficient Rural Life in the South," was the theme of Dr. W. R. Dodson, dean and director, college of agriculture, Louisiana State University. Dr. E. O. Holland, superintendent of schools, Louisville, Ky., will conclude the set features for the general forenoon session.

Tonight "The Education of the Southern Girl," will be discussed by Clarence Ousley, of Fort Worth, Texas; Dr. James M. Dilliard, of Louisiana; Dr. J. H. Phillips, of Birmingham, Ala., and Dr. W. S. Sutton, of the Texas University.

Committees which met today and their chairmen are: Resolutions, Dr. D B. Johnson, South Carolina; necrology, Dr. John W. Abercrombie, Alabama; nominations, Dr. C. B. Glenn, Alabama.

Brittain Speaks.

The needs and importance of rural public schools were set forth today before the convention of the Southern Educational Association by M. L. Brittain, state superintendent of education of Georgia, in an address on "The Education of the Farmer's Child." He pointed out the great amount of aid given to city schools, the comparatively little extended to those outside the centers of population and the resultant injury to both city and country people.

He declared that much of the crime committeed by southern whites was due to a lack of educational facilities and made the startling assertion that in certain southern counties, selected because their conditions had been investigated, 20 out of every 100 male adults could neither read nor write.

He called attention to the neglect of the teaching of agriculture and domestic science in country schools of the south, and showed the widespread harm from such neglect by quoting statistics to show that four-fifths of the population of Dixie were engaged in agricultural pursuits.

The rural school has been hurt a great deal, according to Mr. Brittain, by the loss of the old-fashioned, strong characters who taught in the past. To remedy the unfortunate conditions he presented two remedies—the consolidated school and redirected course of study.

Abolish One-Room Schools.

Of the first he suggested abolishing many of the one-room schools and in their place build district institutions with many rooms and numerous grades with teachers enough to look after the needs of all. He would provide free daily transportation to those scholars whose homes were situated so that long trips alone would be dangerous in localities infested by roving negroes. He would made each of these consolidated schools a meeting place of the district and one in which people would be proud. He declared that of 300,000 small schools in the south, 200,000 of those could be merged into one-seventh of that number with increased facilities and power for good.

Of his second proposition, a redirected course of study, he would break up the old order of things, pay more atention to agriculture and domestic science, but not leaving out the classis. This, applied to the children of the south who are practically native Anglo-Saxons and and not the children of the foreigner brought in immigrant ships, would, said Mr. Brittain, bring almost undreamed of results.

THE LAX-FOS WAY.

If you had a medicine that would strengthen the liver, the stomach, the kidneys and the bowels, and at the same time make you strong with a systemic tonic, don't you believe you would soon be well?

That's "The Lax-Fos Way."

PLAN TO RECEIVE GOVERNOR HARMON

Public Reception at the Piedmont on Wednesday Evening.

The Young Men's Democratic League Asked to Take Charge—Committee From League and Chamber of Commerce to Act as Escort.

Plans for the monster corn carnival and show which wil be pulled off here next week are moving on apace.

Arrangements for the entertainment of Governor Harmon, of Ohio, who will be the guest of honor, have been perfected, a parade bigger than anything of its kind this country has ever seen has been assured, and the work of installing the exhbilts in the main body of the Auditorium will be begun this morning.

At a meeting of the corn show executive committee yesterday, the Young Men's Democratic League of the city was requested to take charge of the public reception to be tendered Governor Harmon at the Piedmont hotel on Wednesday evening from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock.

Escort for the Governor.

At the same meeting an invitation was extended to the Young Men's Democratic Club to appoint a committee to accompany a chamber of commerce committee which will meet Governor Harmon some distance from the city and act as an escort of honor.

Plans were also completed for a luncheon to be given the governor at the Piedmont hotel at 1 o'clock on Wednesday. To this luncheon, Governor Slaton, Mayor Winn, visiting editors from all parts of the south, and members of the corn show board will be invited.

J. Van Holt Nash has been appointed chief marshal of the big parade, which will be a feature of the corn carnival, and it is expected that he will issue orders for the formation of the parade within the next two days.

Present at a meeting of the parade committee of the chamber on Friday were the presidents of the different classes at the Georgia School of Technology, as well as several members of the Anak Club. These young men assured the committee that the entire student body of their school would take part in the parade, which will be led by G. W. B. Coleman, president of the senior class. The Tech band of upwards of twenty pieces will head the student part of the parade.

Cadets Will Take Part.

The cadets from the Georgia Military Academy at College Park, one of the best known military schools in the south, will also tage part in the parade. Advices from Colonel Woodward, president of the school, to this effect have already been received by the parade committee, and this means that 175 of the south's best trained cadets will be in line. It is also possible that the Marist cadets will form a part of the procession.

From present indications there will be at least fifty floats in the parade. Many of these will be entered by manufacturers of agricultural implements and machinery, a number of others by manufacturers of fertilizers, and others yet by individuals. The Georgia School of Technology will enter two in addition to the King Corn float which is being built by the students at the Tech shops. The A, B. and A. is also expected to enter a most handsome float, while the one entered by the Southern Cotton Oil Company is expected to be one of unusual beauty.

Apprehension.

Abroad, there is excitement rife
O'er Italy's attacking band,
The havoc war has made within
The limits of far Turkey land;
The execution there has been
The lack of thanks for what is done,
The absence of all merry times
The lack of home-made happy fun.

At home there is excitement, too,
A fear which spreads throughout the land
Of what is scheduled to befall,
A massacre in turkey-land.
Yet one which will make happy homes,
Which none will weep that it befall,
And on the sympathetic world
Will not for aiding pity call.

We may denounce the Turkey raid
That Europe plans for selfish greed
But in the turkey raid at home,
All give a quick, insistent heed.
We'll drop the problems which confront
The nations far beyond the sea
To serve Thanksgiving problems up
In style, full well and merrily.

MAID ON STAND IN STOKES CASE

Tells of Hearing Shots Fired and Finding Chorus Girl Standing Over Man.

New York, December 1.—"I heard a revolver shot and I ran out into the hall and then I saw a flash and heard another report and then Mr. Stokes came out into the hall and the shortest of those two women was hanging ahold of him."

This was the testimony given by Josephine Abelton, a maid, in describing the shooting of W. E. D. Stokes by Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad when their trial was resumed today.

The maid, who was employed in the apartment house where the shooting occurred, nodded at Miss Graham as the "shortest" and added, "she was hanging on that red tie of his and she smacked him with her hand on the ear."

How the two girls bought the revolvers with which the shooting was done was told by Robert Kennedy, a clerk in a Broadway department store. "They said they wanted something that would shoot straight," Kennedy testified.

When he asked them what they wanted the weapon for, he testified that Miss Conrad said she wanted them for "close work."

Acute indigestion kept Stokes from court today.

The case was adjourned until Monday, when it is expected he will be able to resume the stand.

RUSSIAN ARMY INVADES PERSIA

St. Petersburg, December 1.—In consequence of the rejection by the Persian national council of the Russian demands, Russia has ordered the Russian troops now concentrated at Resht, capital of the Persian province of Ghilan, sixteen miles from Enzeli, on the Caspian sea, to advance on Teheran.

Russia has, it is believed, 4,000 men concentrated at Resht. The troops arrived at Enzeli, a port on the Caspian sea, on November 22. They were dispatched to Persia in consequence of the delay of the Persian government in complying with the Russian demand for an apology to the Russian vice consul at Teheran, M. Petroff, and the withdrawal of the treasury gendarmes, raised by W. Morgan Shuster, who were engaged in northern Persia collecting arrears of taxes. The gendarmes had ignored M. Petroff when he protested against the treasury's seizure of the property of Shua-Es-Sultaneh, by order of the ex-Shah.

Costly Celebration.—Because his friend has missed a cool $300, which he had when they are said to have been "celebrating" together, J. L. Purcell, a barber of 58 Garnett street, was arrested yesterday afternoon. The two friends are said to have been together quite a good deal, and the money was not missed until they separated. Purcell would make no statement when asked about the affair last night.

Stricture

THERE is too much rough work, cutting and gouging in handling cases of stricture. My 35 years of experience with diseases of men, chronic diseases, nervous disorders, have shown me, among other things, that many cases of stricture may be cured with less harsh treatment than they generally receive. Intelligent, careful and scientific treatment by a physician of experience cures without pain. The fake violet ray treatment simply separates the patient from his money. I have found, too, that many cases of supposed stricture are only an inflitrated condition of the urethra and not true strictures. My office hours are 8 to 7; Sundays and holidays, 10 to 1. My monographs are free by mail in plain, sealed wrapper. Examination free.
